Armed Forces Chiefs Endorse Plan For Draft

Congress Is Divided; Foreign Aid Speeded

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — America's military chiefs revealed today their plans for building a mighty striking force to back up President Truman's new stop-Communism stand.

They endorsed his call for a draft. They came out for raising the armed forces' manpower ceiling. They said a strong, mobile fighting force is being developed.

They put the whole thing up to Congress, which has the final say. And there was no sure indication whether Congress would say yes or not. Many on Capitol Hill were saying: Wait a while; give us the facts and let us think them over.

But from the Truman administration, the pressure was on.

Diplomatic officials openly weighed the possibility that Russia may try to extend its control over new areas of Western Europe while the draft and other military measures are still in the talk stage in this country.

Official dispatches reported three Soviet-backed "international brigade" division, numbering some 30,000 men, were poised in the Balkans for a threatened push into Greece.

No Soviet "Demobilization"

And the State Department said Russia's recent "demobilization" moves apparently mean "no change at all in the number of troops in th Soviet army" — estimated by American military experts at 4,060,000 men.

The present total of our armed forces: 1,392,000—or 340,000 below authorized strength.

Mr. Truman said yesterday that this country, as "the principal protector of the free world," must pledge its military, economic and moral strength to stop any further Communist gains.

So far as our military strength goes. Secretary of Defense Forrestal said flatly today that if Russian forces should move into Germany or other parts of Europe, United States forces there could not stop them.

Forrestal not only backed the President's call for revival of the draft to bring our forcs to their full strength. He also came out for raising the authorized strength above—he didn't say how far above—the present ceiling of 1,732,000.

The defense chief told the Senate Armed Services Committee he believed an increase from 670,000 to 900,000 would be recommended for the army, along with undisclosed manpower boosts for the Navy and Air Force.

Army Has 560,000 Men

The Army, he said, now has about 560,000 men—110,000 less than its authorized strength—with less than 30,000 "useable" combat troops in this country.

He said a "strong, mobile striking force" of balanced land, sea and air components is being developed.

But where is the manpower coming from?

Reporters informally polled the Senate committee and counted a majority in favor of recommending a universal military training bill. But the House Rules Committee showed no such willingness.

And a great many members of both houses remained cool, if not hostile, to bringing back the draft—needed, the President and Forrestal said, to supply men until UMT could be put on a solid foundation.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee virtually completed action on the $5,300,000,000 European Recovery

Telecasters Hail Radio Agreement

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Toscanini will come to television under a new three-year agreement reached today by James C. Petrillo and the networks on employment of radio musicians.

The agreement ends the three-year-old ban by Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, on performances by union members for television.

It also guarantees against any walkout by network musicians on March 31 when a 60-day extension of the old radio contract expires.

Television broadcasters hailed the agreement as a boon for programming in their industry and immediately started planning shows with live music. Under the ban, television had been limited to recordings for instrumental music.

Frank E. Mullen, executive vice president of the National Broadcasting Company, said the NBC eastern television network would tee off with a telecast of Arturo Toscanini's concert Saturday. Television cameras will be trained on Toscanini and the NBC Symphony Orchestra during their regular radio broadcast.

Petrillo himself may be the first member of his union to perform on television after the lifting of the ban. At the meeting at which the agreement was announced, Petrillo tooted a few bars on a trumpet presented to him by Mullen. His brief performance was recorded on an NBC television news reel for use tomorrow night.

MUSIC FOR VIDEO-- James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, blew a few notes on a trumpet yesterday at New York after signing a new agreement with the radio networks. Under the new contract, live music will be permitted on television programs and Petrillo's notes were recorded on a newsreel which will be used March 19. (Story at bottom of page)

Wallace Flays Truman's Anti-Communist Program

Labels It Threat To Every Human Being

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—Henry A. Wallace said tonight that President Truman's anti-Communist program "threatens the life of every human being in the world."

But Mr. Truman, who already had denounced "Wallace and his Communists," was described by a close associate as happy over reaction to yesterday's speeches on getting tough with Russia.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, a White House caller, told reporters:

"I could read the reaction in his face. He was very, very happy. The reaction has been good."

Wallace, in a radio reply, said Mr. Truman left three questions unanswered:

"Why have we reached this crisis in world affairs?

"Is there a single reason why we cannot make a peace to end the cold war?

Connally, George Rap Wallace

"Is there any evidence that Russia has aggressive designs against our country or that our national security is threatened from any source?"

Sen. Connally (D-Texas) said of Wallace: "Our chief interest ought to be here at home instead of in a foreign country that abuses us and denounces our form of life."

Sen. George (D-Ga) commented: "Henry is definitely a fellow traveler with Chamberlain and committed to the doctrine of appeasement."

Mr. Truman's foreign policy also won the support of the anti-Truman Gov. William Tuck of Virginia.

Former Gov. Culbert L. Oson, of California, a Democrat, predicted that his state will be in the Truman column this fall.

Wallace's address was in reply to what he termed "the hysteria-breeding speeches of St. Patrick's Day, 1948."

President Truman spoke to a joint session of Congress yesterday and to a dinner here last night, advocating universal military service, a temporary draft and speedy passage of the European aid program.

Wallace Repeats Charge

The former Vice President, apparently referring to Mr. Truman's assertion that he would not accept the political support of "Henry Wallace and his Communists," said:

"One year ago I said that President Truman was the greatest salesman Communism ever had.

"I repeat that charge tonight. He has ignored the deep, underlying nature of the people's problems."

The presidential aspirant asserted that "grave issues of war and peace" were raised yesterday but declared: "These issues will not be settled by name-calling."

Wallace added that "the men who are stirring up hate and fear" traffic in the word "Communism" in the hope that "it will provoke

Lawmakers Look Into Sharp Jump In Butter Prices

Oleo Tax-Repealer Defeated In Senate

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP)—Congressional investigators are looking into sharp boosts in butter prices, Rep. August H. Andresen (R-Minn) said today. At the same time, the Senate beat down proposals to repeal or cut taxes on oleomargarine.

Butter and meat prices skyrocketed again today in most wholesale markets and moved higher in some of the nation's grocery stores.

"We are going to get the facts on butter," said Andresen, chairman of a special House committee charged with investigating speculation on the nation's commodity markets.

"There are indications that some manipulation may be taking place in New York," he added.

The Senate battered down both oleomargarine proposals by a 45 to 33 vote. This action followed shelving of an oleomargarine tax repeal bill by a House Agriculture Committee several days ago.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) tried to pin the tax repealer onto the Republican-backed bill to cut income taxes $4,800,000,000.

Dollar butter was back again at Louisville, Ky.

The nationwide CIO meat handlers strike, shelving of the oleomargarine tax repeal bills and transportation difficulties were causing the price boom, some trade experts said.

Wholesale butter jumped five cents a pound in New York for the second successive day.

Wholesale butter was unchanged to a cent lower in Chicago after a six to eight cent jump yesterday.

Wholesale meats jumped higher for the fourth day in a row. In

Several Homes Burn Following Pipe Line Blast

WINSLOW, Ind., March 18—(INS)—The "big inch" pipe line which carries natural gas to mid-western and eastern states exploded tonight between Winslow and Arthur in Southwestern Indiana.

The resultant fire destroyed two or three farm residences and several barns, according to Indiana state police.

No casualties were reportd.

A score of other homes on the outskirts of Winslow were threatened before the flames were extinguished.

Train Service Slash Ordered By Government

Mine Strike Brings Ban On Coal Exports

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—Coal mine closings today brought about a government order cutting passenger train service about 11 per cent.

In other moves:

1. The government banned foreign shipments of soft coal. These have been running smaller than usual.

2. Steel companies began closing their blast furnaces, which are run on coal.

John L. Lewis again was the central figure in the now familiar picture of springtime mine closings. His United Mine Workers to the number of 350,000 stayed home from work in support of union pension demands.

Of the two government orders, the train curb is by far the more important.

The Office of Defense Transportation ordered a 25 per cent reduction of coal-burning passenger train service. Since about 45 per cent of passenger trains are coal-burners, this figures out at about 11 per cent of those in total service.

Order Effective Midnight Sunday

Under the order, railroads may not switch oil burning engines to coal burner runs. However, most "name trains" use electricity or Diesel oil and are not affected.

The order is effective Sunday at midnight. The Association of American Railroads undertook a survey to see how railroad-riding Americans will fare from next week on.

"Railroad coal stocks today are considerably lower than they have been on previous occasions when stoppages in coal production have interfered with railroad operations," the ODT said in issuing its order.

Circus, carnival and special trains which burn coal are forbidden for the duration of the order.

The Commerce Department ordered the export ban, which incidentally, does not apply to Canada. It said it would not continue further shipments from the March quota and had not granted any permits against April's quota.

The department had authorized shipment of 4,000,000 tons of soft and hard coal this month, and a like amount for April. However, shipments have been running below the quotas because of shipping costs and better coal production in Europe.

Ching "Explores" Situation

Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company was the first to report shutting down a blast furnace, at Youngstown, Ohio. Bethlehem Steel said it will have to cut production if the walkout continues.

Steel production still is far short of demand. The industry is sharply sensitive to coal production and in turn steel is vital to automobile and other manufacturers.

While the walkout of miners continued, the government's No. 1 labor conciliator "explored" the situation with both management and Lewis.

Cyrus S. Ching, the director of the Federal Conciliation Service, first had a meeting with Ezra Van Horn, spokesman for the mine operators. Then he ate lunch with Lewis.

Lewis and the operators are stalemated over the terms of a pension policy, and Ching is trying to bring them together. He had no comment thus far.

Communists Plan German Republic

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—A Communist-controlled Peoples Congress met here today with the avowed purpose of setting up a German republic.

Hermann Matern, Berlin leader of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity Party, said the "republic" should be ready to take over power from the present four-power government of all Germany.

Anti-Communist forces held a rival demonstration a mile away before the burned out Reichstag on the hundredth anniversary of the 1848 revolution which failed to bring democracy to Germany.

Jakob Kaiser, Christian Democrat, told the rival throng "the erection of a totalitarian system in the Soviet zone is in full swing" and the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia was "the last signal for all those who still believed themselves able to halt, through understanding, the brutal striving for power."

The Peoples Congress met to set up a peoples council which would design a constitution for the "republic" and act as its executive body. About 2,500 delegates, some from the western zones, but most from the Russian zone, attended. The council would consist of 300 delegates from the Russian zone and 100 from Western Germany.

The delegates marched through rain to the cemetery in Friedrichshain in the Soviet sector where the dead of the 1848 revolution are buried.

16 Marshall Plan Nations To Set Up Economic Agency

Work Of Organizing Europe Progresses

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 18 (AP)—The 16 Marshall Plan powers agreed today to set up a permanent economic commission for a European customs union before they adjourn.

This was one of a series of developments speeding the organizing of Europe the day after conclusion of the five-power Western European alliance which President Truman said he was sure the United States would support.

Brussels buzzed with international activity. These were the other major happenings:

Begin Work Next Week

Deputies from Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—members of the new alliance—will begin work next week on fulfilling the military and other sweeping provisions of the pact, it was announced.

A spokesman for the Brussels powers said they were "highly pleased" by President Truman's expression of confidence of American support for the defensive pact. It was the first time a single spokesman had been authorized to make political comment for all five powers.

It was disclosed that Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, chief of the British Imperial General Staff, will visit Brussels in two weeks. The Belgian Defense Ministry said it would be "quite natural" if he engaged in discussion on European union defense while here. But the ministry denied a union general staff was contemplated.

Bevin Lingers In Brussels

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who fathered the political aspects of the Brussels pact, lingered on in the Belgian capital tonight. He conferred at lunch with Belgian Premier Paul Henri Spaak. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault did not return to Paris until today. The other three foreign ministers remained until afternoon.

The union deputies at their session next week will begin organization of the consultative council created by the pact and other machinery for economic and military collaboration.

The council is to be in continuing session to deal with any aggression or threat against any one of the five powers anywhere in the world, and to co-ordinate the economic and cultural policies of the five nations.

Joseph O'Connell, Jr., Named CAB Chairman

WASHINGTON, March 18. (INS)—President Truman today appointed Joseph J. O'Connell, Jr., 42-year-old Washington lawyer, as chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The White House said O'Connell's nomination as a member of the board would be sent to the Senate at once and that Mr. Truman would designate him as chairman.

The President's action gave the important CAB a head for the first time since James M. Landis, early New Dealer, failed of reappointment when his term expired December 31, 1947.

Costa Rica Seeks Aid To Put Down Rebellion

Anderson Will Ask Honduras For Arms

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 18 (AP)—Costa Rica appealed to Honduras today for military aid to put down a revolution which may turn this country into a Central American battleground.

Open fighting started after martial law was declared last Saturday night and government troops drove against the mountain stronghold of Jose Figueres, opposition military leader. Figueres supported Otilio Ulate Blanco, whose election to the presidency of Costa Rica was annulled by Congress.

Ulate charges that Communists are backing the government and are seeking to use the country's political turmoil as a means of gaining "a bridgehead for control of Latin America." Figueres claims his rebel forces have captured a number of known Communists.

Planes Over San Jose

Three unidentified planes swept over San Jose this morning about the time it became known that Dr. Luis Anderson, Costa Rican delegate to the Rio conference, had been dispatched by the government to Honduras to seek arms and economic aid. He was accompanied in a chartered plane by Isaac Zuniga Montufar.

Secretary of War Rene Picado ordered removal of censorship restrictions from four American correspondents—Reginald L. Wood, of the Associated Press; Jerry Hannifin, of Time Magazine; Terrence Stocken, New York Times, and Jules Du Bois, Chicago Tribune.

Du Bois, who has been under house arrest since Sunday, was ordered released.

Government troops and national police took over a United States-owned fuel truck loaded with 4,000 gallons of gasoline. A Standard Oil service station was taken over.

Picado, asked by newsmen if this "is going to be a Central American war," replied.

"Yes."

Dominican Pilots Arrive

The diplomatic corps was called into session by Foreign Secretary Alvaro Bonilla Lara and told that Costa Rica had made a vigorous protest to Guatemala over "absolute evidence that rifles and ammunition are being obtained by the opposition from Guatemala."

Three Dead In Building Blast, Fire

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 18 (AP)—Three persons perished and at least five others were believed trapped tonight in the rubble of a two-story building flattened by an explosion.

One of the victims was a woman who was removed soon after the blast. The other two dead, their bodies charred beyond recognition, were removed about three hours later.

Police said between 25 and 30 persons were injured in the blast. The building in downtown Centralia contained a tavern and pool hall.

Those still in the wreckage were persons who lived in rooms on the second floor.

Several Autos Wrecked

The woman died as she was carried into St. Mary's Hospital. Many of the injured, hospital authorities said, were suffering from burns. They estimated between 25 and 30 persons had been brought there.

The explosion, of unknown origin, was heard for several miles. It collapsed the entire structure, wrecking several automobiles parked in front of the building.

Wreckage also was strewn along the tracks of the nearby Illinois Central and Burlington Railroads.

One of the injured, Ernest Matney, 34, an oil worker, estimated there were between 10 and 15 patrons in the tavern when the explosion occurred.

"Bar Saved Us," Patron Says

Bill Watson, 53, Centralia, another tavern patron, said the explosion came from the basement. He was slightly injured.

"The blast knocked me to the floor," he said. "Four or five other men who were standing near me also were knocked from their feet. We were covered with wreckage but the bar saved us. The whole building seemed to land on top of the bar."

Centralia, a Southern Illinois coal mining and oil community of 16,000, was the scene of a coal mine blast last March 25 which took 111 lives.

Athens Reports Estimate Force At 30,000 Men

Attack Is Believed Likely From Albania

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — Three Soviet-backed "international brigade" divisions were reported in official dispatches today to be poised in the Balkans for a threatened attack across the border into Greece.

Reports from Athens to the State Department estimated the force at 30,000 men. The dispatches included other evidence that Russia's Balkan satellites may be planning a major aggressive move in Greece.

Uncertainty whether an attack actually will be launched or whether the reports are part of a Communist "war of nerves" added to official worries over a world situation which President Truman has termed "critical."

The dispatches gave the first firm confirmation to long current rumors that an international force has actually been recruited to support the guerrillas within Greece. As summarized by responsible officials, the dispatches said:

Strongest Division In Yugoslavia

1. The divisions are believed to number roughly about 10,000 men each, with the strongest in Yugoslavia near the Greek border, and others in Albania and Bulgaria. They are believed to be composed largely of Albanians and Greek expatriates, with a sprinkling from Yugoslavia and the other Balkan states which are backing the effort to keep Greece in chaos and bring the country into the Soviet sphere.

2. An attack is believed most likely from Albania and directed toward Ionnina, capital of the Greek province of Epirus. This town of 25,000 is 30 miles from the border. Albania already has opened a propaganda offensive against Greece, alleging nearly 600 Greek "provocations" and stressing that a state of hostilities still prevails from World War II.

3. Other preparations considered ominous include recent repairing of two air strips just inside Greece on the shores of Lake Prespa. Reports also have told of combat planes flying along the frontier and the presence of Russian or Czech military physicians in Tirana, Albania's capital.

Two-Fold Purpose Foreseen

4. A two-fold purpose is foreseen for any attack across the border. The short-range aim presumably would be to throw off balance the Greek army's well-advertised forthcoming spring offensive to disperse an estimated 25,000 guerrillas within Greece. As the second stage, officials figure the capture of Ionnina would be followed by proclaiming that town as the guerrilla capital and then extending diplomatic recognition to "General" Marcos Vafiades' rebel regime by Albania and possibly other Soviet satellites.

Officials said evidence indicated Russian overall military direction of the stepped-up anti-Greek campaign. They doubted, however, that the international brigades had Russian tactical officers.

Pending more critical developments, the guerrillas have been using terrorist methods to hamper Greek and American efforts to restore Greek refugees to their villages in time to plant crops. The support of nearly 500,000 refugees has put a heavy burden on American aid.

Packers Reject Arbitration Bid

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP)—Striking CIO meat handlers proposed today that a presidential fact-finding board arbitrate their wage dispute but the packers declined to second the idea.

Meat prices were going up, meanwhile, both in the wholesale and retail markets.

Wholesale meats soared for the fourth straight day as the nation-wide strike of 100,000 CIO packing house workers went into its third day.

Housewives at Syracuse, N. Y., found beef up two cents a pound. Chicago meat prices are one to five cents a pound ahead of last week. Steaks, lamb chops, pork loins and hams were reported four to six cents higher in New York. Safeway chain, which operates 223 stores in New York and New Jersey, said meat prices were "up a bit." Some larger eastern food chains predicted meats would jump two to six cents a pound next week.

Ralph Helstein, union president, made the arbitration proposal at the first hearing of the fact-finding board.

"The union is sufficiently confident of the validity of its position to submit the issue for such a determination," he said in a statement to the board.

Later at a news conference Helstein said the union "would be glad to consider" 19 cents an hour instead of the demanded 29 cents. The union, in negotiations with Swift, once offered to accept the 19 cents, but returned to its original stand later.

"Fast" Time Hearings Set

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — Hearings on a bill providing daylight saving time throughout the nation will begin April 13 before a Senate Interstate Commerce Subcommittee.

Noted French Scientist Is Detained On U. S. Arrival

NEW YORK, March 18—(INS)—Madame Irene Joliot-Curie, 50, a Nobel prize-winning scientist and wife of the French atomic energy commissioner, was detained by immigration authorities tonight when she landed at LaGuardia Field.

Madame Joliot-Curie, daughter of the late Pierre and Marie Curie who discovered radium, was held incommunicado.

Immigration authorities refused to explain her detention or state where she would be held. They refused to permit newsmen or waiting friends to talk to her.

It was rported without confirmation that she was removed to Ellis Island.

Madame Joliot-Curie is the wife of Frederick Joliot-Curie, a world-famous scientist and an avowed member of the French Communist Party.

She came to the United States aboard an Air France plane to lecture on the plight of Spanish Republican refugees in France. Her visit was sponsored by the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committe, recently listed as subversive by Attorney General Clark.

Among those awaiting her arrival at the airport was the committee chairman, Dr. Edward Barsky, a New York surgeon. Recently he was fined $500 and given a six-month sentence for contempt of Congress for refusing to open the committee's books for inspection.

A newsmen suggestd to Dr. Barsky that Madam Joliot-Curie's detention might have something to do with Communism. He replied:

"Everyone in France knows she isn't."

"Prison" House Mystery Deepens As Officers Dig

VENICE, Calif., March 18 (AP)—The strange life of the occupants of 7 Avenue 20 drew the attention today of homicide detectives armed with shovels.

They dug in the soft sand surrounding the seaside home where a cringing, 27-year-old woman was found in a trunk yesterday and where officers charge, two children had been held in virtual captivity.

But Police Lt. Walter Subers declined to discuss whether any definite information led to the search, or whether it was merely routine. His diggers found nothing immediately.

In jail were two spinsters, Marie Clavey, 60, and Josephine Vella, 58, who lived in a three-room apartment with the three emaciated occupants, 27 canaries, 10 guinea pigs and two dogs.

Police inquiry into their affairs began a week ago, when John Joseph Wayne, 11, was found shivering in a girl's clothing, sitting on a curbstone. He led them to the house where he said he had been kept prisoner for years.

Yesterday, armed with warrants, two juvenile officers went to the house to arrest the women. They are charged with inhuman treatment to a juvenile and false imprisonment.

Policewoman Doris Perkins quoted Miss Clavey:

"If you're going to arrest me, somebody's going to have to take care of my birds, my dogs, the guinea pigs—and Edna."

"Who is Edna?" the police asked

"She's in that trunk," was the reply.

Opening it, they found a woman identified as Edna Bessie Dinsmore. Police Phychiatrist A. J. Grogan described her as "underdeveloped and with the mentality of an unschooled seven - year - old." She weighed 85 pounds, and had been sleeping on a shelf-like bunk. Police quoted Miss Clavey as saying she had been left at their nursing home when she was two weeks old.

The Wayne boy, who weighed only 48 pounds but was described as intelligent, also was left by his mother when he was two weeks old, the woman said.

Telecasters Hail Radio Agreement

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—Toscanini will come to television under a new three-year agreement reached today by James C. Petrillo and the networks on employment of radio musicians.

The agreement ends the three-year-old ban by Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, on performances by union members for television.

It also guarantees against any walkout by network musicians on March 31 when a 60-day extension of the old radio contract expires.

Television broadcasters hailed the agreement as a boon for programming in their industry and immediately started planning shows with live music. Under the ban, television had been limited to recordings for instrumental music.

Frank E. Mullen, executive vice president of the National Broadcasting Company, said the NBC eastern television network would tee off with a telecast of Arturo Toscanini's concert Saturday. Television cameras will be trained on Toscanini and the NBC Symphony Orchestra during their regular radio broadcast.

Petrillo himself may be the first member of his union to perform on television after the lifting of the ban. At the meeting at which the agreement was announced, Petrillo tooted a few bars on a trumpet presented to him by Mullen. His brief performance was recorded on an NBC television news reel for use tomorrow night.

Wallace Flays Truman's Anti-Communist Program

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—Henry A. Wallace said tonight that President Truman's anti-Communist program "threatens the life of every human being in the world."

But Mr. Truman, who already had denounced "Wallace and his Communists," was described by a close associate as happy over reaction to yesterday's speeches on getting tough with Russia.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, a White House caller, told reporters:

Sen. George (D-Ga) commented: "Henry is definitely a fellow traveler with Chamberlain and committed to the doctrine of appeasement."

Mr. Truman's foreign policy also won the support of the anti-Truman Gov. William Tuck of Virginia.

Former Gov. Culbert L. Oson, of California, a Democrat, predicted that his state will be in the Truman column this fall.

Wallace's address was in reply to what he termed "the hysteria-breeding speeches of St. Patrick's Day, 1948."

President Truman spoke to a joint session of Congress yesterday and to a dinner here last night, advocating universal military service, a temporary draft and speedy passage of the European aid program.

Wallace Repeats Charge

The former Vice President, apparently referring to Mr. Truman's assertion that he would not accept the political support of "Henry Wallace and his Communists," said:

"One year ago I said that President Truman was the greatest salesman Communism ever had.

"I repeat that charge tonight. He has ignored the deep, underlying nature of the people's problems."

The presidential aspirant asserted that "grave issues of war and peace" were raised yesterday but declared: "These issues will not be settled by name-calling."

Wallace added that "the men who are stirring up hate and fear" traffic in the word "Communism" in the hope that "it will provoke

Several Homes Burn Following Pipe Line Blast

WINSLOW, Ind., March 18—(INS)—The "big inch" pipe line which carries natural gas to midwestern and eastern states exploded tonight between Winslow and Arthur in Southwestern Indiana.

The resultant fire destroyed two or three farm residences and several barns, according to Indiana state police.

No casualties were reportd.

A score of other homes on the outskirts of Winslow were threatened before the flames were extinguished.

Lawmakers Look Into Sharp Jump In Butter Prices

Oleo Tax-Repealer Defeated In Senate

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP)—Congressional investigators are looking into sharp boosts in butter prices, Rep. August H. Andresen (R-Minn) said today. At the same time, the Senate beat down proposals to repeal or cut taxes on oleomargarine.

Butter and meat prices skyrocketed again today in most wholesale markets and moved higher in some of the nation's grocery stores.

"We are going to get the facts on butter," said Andresen, chairman of a special House committee charged with investigating speculation on the nation's commodity markets.

"There are indications that some manipulation may be taking place in New York," he added.

The Senate battered down both oleomargarine proposals by a 45 to 33 vote. This action followed shelving of an oleomargarine tax repeal bill by a House Agriculture Committee several days ago.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) tried to pin the tax repealer onto the Republican-backed bill to cut income taxes $4,800,000,000.

Dollar butter was back again at Louisville, Ky.

The nationwide CIO meat handlers strike, shelving of the oleomargarine tax repeal bills and transportation difficulties were causing the price boom, some trade experts said.

Wholesale butter jumped five cents a pound in New York for the second successive day.

Wholesale butter was unchanged to a cent lower in Chicago after a six to eight cent jump yesterday.

Noted French Scientist Is Detained On U. S. Arrival

NEW YORK, March 18—(INS)—Madame Irene Joliot-Curie, 50, a Nobel prize-winning scientist and wife of the French atomic energy commissioner, was detained by immigration authorities tonight when she landed at LaGuardia Field.

Madame Joliot-Curie, daughter of the late Pierre and Marie Curie who discovered radium, was held incommunicado.

Immigration authorities refused to explain her detention or state where she would be held. They refused to permit newsmen or waiting friends to talk to her.

It was rported without confirmation that she was removed to Ellis Island.

Madame Joliot-Curie is the wife of Frederick Joliot-Curie, a world-famous scientist and an avowed member of the French Communist Party.

She came to the United States aboard an Air France plane to lecture on the plight of Spanish Republican refugees in France. Her visit was sponsored by the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committe, recently listed as subversive by Attorney General Clark.

Among those awaiting her arrival at the airport was the committee chairman, Dr. Edward Barsky, a New York surgeon. Recently he was fined $500 and given a six-month sentence for contempt of Congress for refusing to open the committee's books for inspection.

A newsmen suggestd to Dr. Barsky that Madam Joliot-Curie's detention might have something to do with Communism. He replied: "Everyone in France knows she isn't."

Train Service Slash Ordered By Government

Mine Strike Brings Ban On Coal Exports

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP)—Coal mine closings today brought about a government order cutting passenger train service about 11 per cent.

In other moves:

1. The government banned foreign shipments of soft coal. These have been running smaller than usual.

2. Steel companies began closing their blast furnaces, which are run on coal.

John L. Lewis again was the central figure in the now familiar picture of springtime mine closings. His United Mine Workers to the number of 350,000 stayed home from work in support of union pension demands.

Of the two government orders, the train curb is by far the more important.

The Office of Defense Transportation ordered a 25 per cent reduction of coal-burning passenger train service. Since about 45 per cent of passenger trains are coal-burners, this figures out at about 11 per cent of those in total service.

Order Effective Midnight Sunday

Under the order, railroads may not switch oil burning engines to coal burner runs. However, most "name trains" use electricity or Diesel oil and are not affected.

The order is effective Sunday at midnight. The Association of American Railroads undertook a survey to see how railroad-riding Americans will fare from next week on.

"Railroad coal stocks today are considerably lower than they have been on previous occasions when stoppages in coal production have interfered with railroad operations," the ODT said in issuing its order.

Circus, carnival and special trains which burn coal are forbidden for the duration of the order.

The Commerce Department ordered the export ban, which incidentally, does not apply to Canada. It said it would not continue further shipments from the March quota and had not granted any permits against April's quota.

The department had authorized shipment of 4,000,000 tons of soft and hard coal this month, and a like amount for April. However, shipments have been running below the quotas because of shipping costs and better coal production in Europe.

Ching "Explores" Situation

Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company was the first to report shutting down a blast furnace, at Youngstown, Ohio. Bethlehem Steel said it will have to cut production if the walkout continues.

Steel production still is far short of demand. The industry is sharply sensitive to coal production and in turn steel is vital to automobile and other manufacturers.

While the walkout of miners continued, the government's No. 1 labor conciliator "explored" the situation with both management and Lewis.

Cyrus S. Ching, the director of the Federal Conciliation Service, first had a meeting with Ezra Van Horn, spokesman for the mine operators. Then he ate lunch with Lewis.

Lewis and the operators are stalemated over the terms of a pension policy, and Ching is trying to bring them together. He had no comment thus far.

Communists Plan German Republic

BERLIN, March 18 (AP)—A Communist-controlled Peoples Congress met here today with the avowed purpose of setting up a German republic.

Hermann Matern, Berlin leader of the Soviet-sponsored Socialist Unity Party, said the "republic" should be ready to take over power from the present four-power government of all Germany.

Anti-Communist forces held a rival demonstration a mile away before the burned out Reichstag on the hundredth anniversary of the 1848 revolution which failed to bring democracy to Germany.

Jakob Kaiser, Christian Democrat, told the rival throng "the erection of a totalitarian system in the Soviet zone is in full swing" and the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia was "the last signal for all those who still believed themselves able to halt, through understanding, the brutal striving for power."

The Peoples Congress met to set up a peoples council which would design a constitution for the "republic" and act as its executive body. About 2,500 delegates, some from the western zones, but most from the Russian zone, attended. The council would consist of 300 delegates from the Russian zone and 100 from Western Germany.

The delegates marched through rain to the cemetery in Friedrichshain in the Soviet sector where the dead of the 1848 revolution are buried.

Work Of Organizing Europe Progresses

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 18 (AP)—The 16 Marshall Plan powers agreed today to set up a permanent economic commission for a European customs union before they adjourn.

This was one of a series of developments speeding the organizing of Europe the day after conclusion of the five-power Western European alliance which President Truman said he was sure the United States would support.

Brussels buzzed with international activity. These were the other major happenings:

Begin Work Next Week

Deputies from Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—members of the new alliance—will begin work next week on fulfilling the military and other sweeping provisions of the pact, it was announced.

A spokesman for the Brussels powers said they were "highly pleased" by President Truman's expression of confidence of American support for the defensive pact. It was the first time a single spokesman had been authorized to make political comment for all five powers.

It was disclosed that Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, chief of the British Imperial General Staff, will visit Brussels in two weeks. The Belgian Defense Ministry said it would be "quite natural" if he engaged in discussion on European union defense while here. But the ministry denied a union general staff was contemplated.

Bevin Lingers In Brussels

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, who fathered the political aspects of the Brussels pact, lingered on in the Belgian capital tonight. He conferred at lunch with Belgian Premier Paul Henri Spaak. French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault did not return to Paris until today. The other three foreign ministers remained until afternoon.

The union deputies at their session next week will begin organization of the consultative council created by the pact and other machinery for economic and military collaboration.

The council is to be in continuing session to deal with any aggression or threat against any one of the five powers anywhere in the world, and to co-ordinate the economic and cultural policies of the five nations.

Joseph O'Connell, Jr., Named CAB Chairman

WASHINGTON, March 18. (INS)—President Truman today appointed Joseph J. O'Connell, Jr., 42-year-old Washington lawyer, as chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The White House said O'Connell's nomination as a member of the board would be sent to the Senate at once and that Mr. Truman would designate him as chairman.

The President's action gave the important CAB a head for the first time since James M. Landis, early New Dealer, failed of reappointment when his term expired December 31, 1947.

Secret Red Committee

ROME, March 18 (AP) — Premier Alcide De Gasperi said tonight Russia and four other Cominform countries had founded "a special secret committee" to "synchronize the conduct of Communists in Italy and France."

Three Dead In Building Blast, Fire

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 18 (AP)—Three persons perished and at least five others were believed trapped tonight in the rubble of a two-story building flattened by an explosion.

One of the victims was a woman who was removed soon after the blast. The other two dead, their bodies charred beyond recognition, were removed about three hours later.

Police said between 25 and 30 persons were injured in the blast. The building in downtown Centralia contained a tavern and pool hall.

Those still in the wreckage were persons who lived in rooms on the second floor.

Several Autos Wrecked

The woman died as she was carried into St. Mary's Hospital. Many of the injured, hospital authorities said, were suffering from burns. They estimated between 25 and 30 persons had been brought there.

The explosion, of unknown origin, was heard for several miles. It collapsed the entire structure, wrecking several automobiles parked in front of the building.

Wreckage also was strewn along the tracks of the nearby Illinois Central and Burlington Railroads.

One of the injured, Ernest Matney, 34, an oil worker, estimated there were between 10 and 15 patrons in the tavern when the explosion occurred.

"Bar Saved Us," Patron Says

Bill Watson, 53, Centralia, another tavern patron, said the explosion came from the basement. He was slightly injured.

"The blast knocked me to the floor," he said. "Four or five other men who were standing near me also were knocked from their feet. We were covered with wreckage but the bar saved us. The whole building seemed to land on top of the bar."

Centralia, a Southern Illinois coal mining and oil community of 16,000, was the scene of a coal mine blast last March 25 which took 111 lives.

Costa Rica Seeks Aid To Put Down Rebellion

Anderson Will Ask Honduras For Arms

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 18 (AP)—Costa Rica appealed to Honduras today for military aid to put down a revolution which may turn this country into a Central American battleground.

Open fighting started after martial law was declared last Saturday night and government troops drove against the mountain stronghold of Jose Figueres, opposition military leader. Figueres supported Otilio Ulate Blanco, whose election to the presidency of Costa Rica was annulled by Congress.

Ulate charges that Communists are backing the government and are seeking to use the country's political turmoil as a means of gaining "a bridgehead for control of Latin America." Figueres claims his rebel forces have captured a number of known Communists.

Planes Over San Jose

Three unidentified planes swept over San Jose this morning about the time it became known that Dr. Luis Anderson, Costa Rican delegate to the Rio conference, had been dispatched by the government to Honduras to seek arms and economic aid. He was accompanied in a chartered plane by Isaac Zuniga Montufar.

Secretary of War Rene Picado ordered removal of censorship restrictions from four American correspondents—Reginald L. Wood, of the Associated Press; Jerry Hannifin, of Time Magazine; Terrence Stocken, New York Times, and Jules Du Bois, Chicago Tribune.

Du Bois, who has been under house arrest since Sunday, was ordered released.

Government troops and national police took over a United States-owned fuel truck loaded with 4,000 gallons of gasoline. A Standard Oil service station was taken over.

Picado, asked by newsmen if this "is going to be a Central American war," replied.

"Yes."

Dominican Pilots Arrive

The diplomatic corps was called into session by Foreign Secretary Alvaro Bonilla Lara and told that Costa Rica had made a vigorous protest to Guatemala over "absolute evidence that rifles and ammunition are being obtained by the opposition from Guatemala."

"Prison" House Mystery Deepens As Officers Dig

VENICE, Calif., March 18 (AP)—The strange life of the occupants of 7 Avenue 20 drew the attention today of homicide detectives armed with shovels.

They dug in the soft sand surrounding the seaside home where a cringing, 27-year-old woman was found in a trunk yesterday and where officers charge, two children had been held in virtual captivity.

But Police Lt. Walter Subers declined to discuss whether any definite information led to the search, or whether it was merely routine. His diggers found nothing immediately.

In jail were two spinsters, Marie Clavey, 60, and Josephine Vella, 58, who lived in a three-room apartment with the three emaciated occupants, 27 canaries, 10 guinea pigs and two dogs.

Police inquiry into their affairs began a week ago, when John Joseph Wayne, 11, was found shivering in a girl's clothing, sitting on a curbstone. He led them to the house where he said he had been kept prisoner for years.

Yesterday, armed with warrants, two juvenile officers went to the house to arrest the women. They are charged with inhuman treatment to a juvenile and false imprisonment.

Policewoman Doris Perkins quoted Miss Clavey:

"If you're going to arrest me, somebody's going to have to take care of my birds, my dogs, the guinea pigs—and Edna."

"Who is Edna?" the police asked

"She's in that trunk," was the reply.

Opening it, they found a woman identified as Edna Bessie Dinsmore. Police Phychiatrist A. J. Grogan described her as "underdeveloped and with the mentality of an unschooled seven - year - old." She weighed 85 pounds, and had been sleeping on a shelf-like bunk. Police quoted Miss Clavey as saying she had been left at their nursing home when she was two weeks old.

The Wayne boy, who weighed only 48 pounds but was described as intelligent, also was left by his mother when he was two weeks old, the woman said.

Athens Reports Estimate Force At 30,000 Men

Attack Is Believed Likely From Albania

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — Three Soviet-backed "international brigade" divisions were reported in official dispatches today to be poised in the Balkans for a threatened attack across the border into Greece.

Reports from Athens to the State Department estimated the force at 30,000 men. The dispatches included other evidence that Russia's Balkan satellites may be planning a major aggressive move in Greece.

Uncertainty whether an attack actually will be launched or whether the reports are part of a Communist "war of nerves" added to official worries over a world situation which President Truman has termed "critical."

The dispatches gave the first firm confirmation to long current rumors that an international force has actually been recruited to support the guerrillas within Greece. As summarized by responsible officials, the dispatches said:

Strongest Division In Yugoslavia

1. The divisions are believed to number roughly about 10,000 men each, with the strongest in Yugoslavia near the Greek border, and others in Albania and Bulgaria. They are believed to be composed largely of Albanians and Greek expatriates, with a sprinkling from Yugoslavia and the other Balkan states which are backing the effort to keep Greece in chaos and bring the country into the Soviet sphere.

2. An attack is believed most likely from Albania and directed toward Ionnina, capital of the Greek province of Epirus. This town of 25,000 is 30 miles from the border. Albania already has opened a propaganda offensive against Greece, alleging nearly 600 Greek "provocations" and stressing that a state of hostilities still prevails from World War II.

3. Other preparations considered ominous include recent repairing of two air strips just inside Greece on the shores of Lake Prespa. Reports also have told of combat planes flying along the frontier and the presence of Russian or Czech military physicians in Tirana, Albania's capital.

Two-Fold Purpose Foreseen

4. A two-fold purpose is foreseen for any attack across the border. The short-range aim presumably would be to throw off balance the Greek army's well-advertised forthcoming spring offensive to disperse an estimated 25,000 guerrillas within Greece. As the second stage, officials figure the capture of Ionnina would be followed by proclaiming that town as the guerrilla capital and then extending diplomatic recognition to "General" Marcos Vafiades' rebel regime by Albania and possibly other Soviet satellites.

Officials said evidence indicated Russian overall military direction of the stepped-up anti-Greek campaign. They doubted, however, that the international brigades had Russian tactical officers.

Pending more critical developments, the guerrillas have been using terrorist methods to hamper Greek and American efforts to restore Greek refugees to their villages in time to plant crops. The support of nearly 500,000 refugees has put a heavy burden on American aid.

Packers Reject Arbitration Bid

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP)—Striking CIO meat handlers proposed today that a presidential fact-finding board arbitrate their wage dispute but the packers declined to second the idea.

Meat prices were going up, meanwhile, both in the wholesale and retail markets.

Wholesale meats soared for the fourth straight day as the nationwide strike of 100,000 CIO packing house workers went into its third day.

Housewives at Syracuse, N. Y., found beef up two cents a pound. Chicago meat prices are one to five cents a pound ahead of last week. Steaks, lamb chops, pork loins and hams were reported four to six cents higher in New York. Safeway chain, which operates 223 stores in New York and New Jersey, said meat prices were "up a bit." Some larger eastern food chains predicted meats would jump two to six cents a pound next week.

Ralph Helstein, union president, made the arbitration proposal at the first hearing of the fact-finding board.

"The union is sufficiently confident of the validity of its position to submit the issue for such a determination," he said in a statement to the board.

Later at a news conference Helstein said the union "would be glad to consider" 19 cents an hour instead of the demanded 29 cents. The union, in negotiations with Swift, once offered to accept the 19 cents, but returned to its original stand later.

House Should Speed Marshall Plan Passage

The speed with which the Senate overrode amendments and approved the European Recovery Program is a symptom of these urgent times. Congress, like the Nation—like every democratic nation—has been alarmed by the swift advance of Soviet power toward the West (Czechoslovakia), toward the North (Finland) and toward the South (Italy).

No Senator who voted for ERP cared to cite the earlier arguments for the Marshall Plan—that it would be an economic boon to the United States, that it would stimulate world trade, etc. Some Senators, 31 to be exact, thought the $5,300,000,000 was more money than the plan required. But their leader, Senator Taft, held the program was justified by "the world battle against Communism." As Taft put it, "We may lose every cent we put up, but it seems to me it may aid the battle against Communism. The stakes are so large that I believe we should take that chance."

ERP still has a high hurdle to clear in the House. The bill not only must be passed but passed quickly. Some delay on the start of debate was contemplated because of the House insistence that economic aid to China be coupled with ERP, and military aid to China with further material aid to Greece and Turkey.

The delay could have been averted had the Administration recognized the urgent need of China in its long battle with the Communists. The strange blindness of Secretary Marshall to the emergency in China has caused many congressmen to believe that their only hope of getting desperately needed help to Chiang Kai-shek is to pass an omnibus bill.

Aid to China is essential and must be voted by Congress. But there is special reason why ERP must not be unduly delayed. The reason is Italy, which faces a crucial election on April 18th. All the energies of the Comiform, that Kremlin device to defeat the Marshall Plan, are now concentrated on Italy. A Communist victory at the polls would overturn the moderate De Gasperi government and set up another puppet regime in Rome. The results of such a disaster in France, Germany, Greece, the Scandinavian countries and the Middle East are incalculable. Nothing could do more to encourage such a Red victory than the failure of Congress to approve the ERP before the Italian election.

The Republican leadership in the House should move up the date for consideration of ERP. The Administration blunder on China must not be allowed to provoke a greater blunder in Western Europe.

Double-Talk At Truman Conference Disheartening

The reporters who emerged from President Truman's last press conference deserved a rest cure, or at least a dose of nerve medicine. Never had any group of White House newsmen been exposed to such a display of confusing double-talk on American foreign policy.

To begin with, the President stated emphatically that American policy does not call for the inclusion of Communists in the government of China. That sounded like a flat contradiction of Secretary Marshall's press conference statement 24 hours before, in which a number of reporters clearly understood him to say that the government of Nanking should be broadened to include Chinese Communists. Liberals, not Communists, should be included, said Mr. Truman, who added that it was news to him if the U. S. policy ever called for the inclusion of Communists in the Nationalist government. Evidently, Mr. Truman was not reading the newspaper for 13 months after December, 1945, during George Marshall's mission to China for the express purpose of encouraging a coalition of Communists and Kuemintang party leaders in Chiang Kai-shek's government.

But there was worst to come at that extraordinary press conference. The President was asked whether the year-old Truman Doctrine should now be extended. This is a grave question, in the light of the 50-year defense alliance of Britain, France and the Benelux countries, just completed in Brussels. Mr. Truman replied that the doctrine did not need extending because it is now part of the U. S. foreign policy.

Just what does this mean? Does it mean that we intend to back the new Western European Union with the same kind of military aid we now give to Greece and Turkey under the Truman Doctrine? That would be prodigious news to the entire world. Or does it mean that we stand pat on the doctrine, which will not be extended? If so, why did not Mr. Truman say so?

Secretary Marshall is much concerned that American "passions" may be rising too high, in view of the "very, very serious" world situation. But blank confusion about their country's foreign policy can be quite as harmful to the American people as blind emotionalism.

Named Their Poison

Quite a number of persons have taken a dim view of scientists since they created the atomic bomb. Actually they were doing their patriotic duty, at considerable personal sacrifice for some of them. But the man who creates horrors should not be surprised if some of his fellows look at him askance.

In fact, many persons will be inclined to look askance at the fellow who has just synthesized poison ivy—or rather the poisonous oil that does the damage. That wasn't a patriotic duty! And it will be difficult for the average person to think of anything he or she wants less than a two-ounce vial (equivalent to 80 pounds of poison-ivy bark, and heaven knows how much more of the entire plant) of the synthetic poison.

Seriously, though, there's no telling what good may come of this discovery in the long run. The atom-bomb project may have prepared the way (in the unlikely event that the world develops sense enough to avoid war) for an elysian era of prosperity, progress and human brotherhood. And uses may be found for the ivy poison that may improve the lot of man upon this earth. It may, for instance, throw new light on the peculiar paradox of allergy.

Meanwhile, the scientists can have it.

Party leaders who are hoping Truman bows out of the presidential race should remember this is no time to be going back into the haberdashery business.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Swollen Legs

The physician who is asked to treat a person with swollen legs is confronted with a real problem because the causes of this condition are so numerous. The veins are always considered first especially if edema followed operation, obstetrical delivery, pneumonia, or other acute infection.

Dropsy may indicate an abnormality of the heart or kidneys, which means a thorough investigation of these organs. Allergy may also be responsible and when swelling is of this origin, fluid gathers rapidly and is frequently associated with itching and redness of the parts. The type of obesity in which most of the excess flesh goes to the legs must not be confused with edema but here the accumulation is gradual. Another possibility is too little protein in the blood, due to a deficient diet.

One of the most unusual forms of edema is that due to infection or blockage of the lymph passageways. These channels course between the cells in the tissues and carry a milklike fluid that drains ultimately into a large vein in the neck. One variety occurs most frequently in girls between the ages of 9 and 25. Puffiness appears at first in one or both ankles, and, as time goes by, it becomes more pronounced; in some instances involving the entire leg and thigh. Swelling is more noticeable after long periods of activity particularly in warm weather. It increases markedly during the week or ten days preceding menstruation. In the early stages, the manifestation may disappear completely after rest or elevating the legs but, as the condition progresses, this is less evident.

No one knows what causes the disturbance except that the lymph passageways are overstretched and the walls become so thickened that drainage is deficient. In the beginning, the skin of the affected extremity is soft and pits wherever pressure is applied. Subsequently, the surface becomes harder and of a firm consistency. Since women are more frequent victims, and the disorder starts during adolescence, the glandular system is probably at fault.

Lymphedemas due to infection develop in a slightly different manner. Micro-organisms invade only a small part of the extremity and, when this occurs, chills, fever, and tenderness over the inflamed areas are experienced. Discomfort subsides within one or two weeks but the region remains puffy. Later, another attack comes on, then a third, etc., until a large section of the leg is involved, leaving in its wake a perceptible edema.

The lymph ducts can be obstructed also by tumors, enlarged glands, or scar tissue. The latter may explain the swollen arms that are noted occasionally after breast operations in which surgery extended into the armpits. Ankle puffiness may coexist with athlete's foot but it is not known whether the lymph ducts are invaded by the ringworm organisms or other germs that gain entrance through the lesions between the toes.

LOW CURRENT

B. K. writes: My doctor told me I have a low voltage heart but gave me no other details. What does it mean?

Reply

Low voltage refers to the electrocardiogram and as such is not a disease. The condition may be due to increased skin resistance to the electrical current. It is sometimes found in individuals who are waterlogged because of low thyroid activity or heart or kidney trouble. Ask your physician to explain the origin in your case.

Risky

S. K. writes: What is your opinion of the use of nose drops in young infants for colds?

Reply

They are rarely recommended because of the danger that the drops will fall into the lungs. Usually the excess mucus associated with a cold can be removed from the nostrils with a cotton applicator.

Types Of Growth

K. S. writes: What is the difference between a mass and a cyst?

REPLY

Mass is an all-inclusive term to describe an enlargement where a cyst denotes a soft lesion containing fluid or cheesy material.

Walking Child

Mrs. H. G. writes: Are walks of 15 blocks too much for a two year old? When I take her out she does not want to stay in her carriage but cries to get out and walk.

REPLY

This depends upon the length of the blocks. In all probability, it is not too much because when youngsters become tired, they do not hesitate to let you know.

Mortality

Mrs. D. writes: A says more people die from tuberculosis in the United States than from cancer or heart trouble. B believes the opposite. Who is correct.

REPLY

B. As a matter of fact the death rate from heart disease is as high as from tuberculosis and cancer combined.

Sound Alikes

G. E. writes: What is the difference between catalepsy and epilepsy?

REPLY

During a seizure of catalepsy, the subject becomes motionless and rigid without unconsciousness. The victim of epilepsy usually exhibits convulsions and other symptoms including a loss of consciousness.

Bacteriological Warfare May Be Russia's Answer To Atomic Bomb; Truman's Message Is Psychological Move To Halt Russia

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 18—Here are some of the worries behind President Truman's message to Congress.

Worry No. 1—News of Russian germ-warfare plans.

Soviet scientists are reported to have developed two types of virus, one to wipe out cattle, the other to spread pestilence among humans.

Actually, Russian progress on bacteriological warfare is no news to U. S. war chiefs. Furthermore, by the end of the war, the U. S. Navy had developed a germ copable of wiping out the entire Japanese wheat crop.

It was also long known that the Russians were working on innoculation for their own troops so they could advance into enemy territory immune to disease germs after the enemy had been knocked out by bacteriological warfare.

This was known to be Russia's cheap answer to the atomic bomb, since germ warfare can be prepared in small, inexpensive laboratories.

While these facts have long been known to the Army-Navy, U. S. officials are now worried that Russia may be ready to begin surprise bacteriological warfare spread from suitcases by fifth columnists.

New Russo-German State

Worry No. 2—Russia is reported to have completed plans for setting up a brand new Soviet-German government on or before May 1. The new capital would be at Koenigsburg, and the Government would be under Field Marshal von Paulus, German commander taken prisoner ot Stalingrad and since then engaged in training a special German Army for Russia.

Von Paulus is reported to have returned to Moscow March 4 following a seven-week tour of Russian-occupied Germany. The tour was for the purpose of working out details of the new Soviet-German government.

Van Paulus' German unit of the Red Army was reported two months ago to total 1,000,000, is now believed to total 1,600,000.

The Russians take extreme precautions to prevent this German Army from double-crossing them. The families of von Paulus and 35 of his staff officers are kept in Moscow as hostages. Von Paulus' army is also denied artillery. Ammunition is carefully rationed, with no large ammunition depots inside Germany.

Other Worries—Russian troop maneuvers in and around Germany, also the Russian grab for more and more territory for the purpose of isolating Moscow from U. S. long-range bombers and the atomic bomb. The more territory Russia takes, the farther away our bases must be.

End Of Russia's Rope

Strategy behind the President's message to Congress was not entirely worry. It was partly for the psychological effect on (1) Russia, (2) on the countries Russia seeks to dominate.

Diplomats have long believed that if Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Minister in 1914, had warned the Kaiser that the invasion of Belgium meant war with Britain, the Kaiser would not have struck.

Diplomats have also believed that if Hitler had definitely known the invasion of Poland meant war with both Britain and the USA he might not have struck.

Therefore, U. S. war chiefs have been advising that Russia should be told that she has now gone as far as she can without a direct clash with the United States.

The psychological effect of a firm stand on Italy, Scandinavia and France is also considered important. The Czech coup has caused them to cringe with fright. Italian voters have been terrorized with the threat that the Communists were preparing a purge list of those who oppose them, and that the Russians were soon coming in to make that purge effective.

Note 1—Talking to Senators the other day, Secretary of State Marshall urged passage of military training because of its psychological effect on Russia. Senators countered that a big airplane program would have greater effect. Marshall replied that planes would take too long to build.

Note 2—In July 1940, Marshall, then Chief of Staff and never airminded, asked Congress for only six flying fortresses. And this was after Poland was invaded!

Navy's White Elephants

When high-up U. S. air officers really let their hair down, they are scathing in their criticism of a big land army and of navy blueprints for giant airplane carriers.

Carriers, they point out, not only take two years and tremendous quantities of steel to build, but are white elephants. It takes too many warships to protect them, and they are knocked out for keeps if they get anywhere near an atomic bomb.

Many people wondered why the battleship Pennsylvania was towed out to sea and sunk when the nation was desperately short of scrap iron. The reason — radioactivity. Nearly two years after Bikini, battleships from Bikini are still contaminated by deadly radioactive fumes.

Thus, if an atomic bomb comes anywhere near an airplane carrier, that giant mass of steel requiring two years and $100,000,000 to build is knocked permanently out of commission.

Air generals also smile over the fact that their branch of the service has no trouble in getting plenty of recruits. Neither do the Marines. It's the lond army which has trouble getting men.

If you need a big land army to protect the USA, argue the air generals, you might as well admit defeat in advance. A big land army at home means fighting on U. S. soil and deadly destruction. Only a big air force to meet and rout the enemy before it strikes the U. S. can prevent destructive fighting on American soil.

Not Believed Russia Will Be Impressed By Truman's Move

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 18 — President Truman presented Congress with a logical case for immediate war with Russia or at least a showdown at once, but he failed to back it up with recommendations that could impress Russia.

The theory that Russia would be impressed by the adoption of a slow-moving program of Universal Military Training or the drafting of untrained youth under the Selective Service System is not convincing.

Russia can overrun Europe in six weeks—long before any draft or universal military training program can be of avail.

What the President, for some reason unknown to Capitol Hill, did was to say Russia has to be stopped but wtihout indicating that America is really going to participate at once in such a process.

With the whole world aware that air power is a weapon of great potentiality for immediate action, the President did not ask for the call to service of any of the trained pilots or reserves who would be neded to back up America's pronouncements in the event that Russia continues her aggression.

Unfortunately, the President and Secretary Marshall give the impression that they would like to use the present emergency to secure th adoption of a long-range universal military program which Congress has hitherto balked at passing.

If the crisis is as serious as the President's recital of the facts would indicate, then Mr. Truman is dilly-dallying with America's national safety and the freedom of Norway and the five nations which are binding themselves together in a mutual-assistance pact.

The thesis that Russia is impressed by action and not by words is repeatedly proclaimed in Administration circles. Yet there was no action specifically directed toward a return of American forces to Europe mentioned in Mr. Truman's message. There was a veiled promise to help the five nations and theoretically a warning to Russia, but this is not likely to be any more effective than the pronouncement of the Truman doctrine was last year in reference to Greece and Turkey.

If Mr. Truman had asked congress to give him authority to use American forces in any emergency that might arise, Russia might have been impressed. Without any request for congressional authority involving the use of forces, the Truman speech could be regarded by Russia as sheer bluff.

The American people are far ahead of Mr. Truman in their thinking. They do not relish living in a world with an aggressor state on the loose. They would rather have the situation clarified at once than to drift along indefinitely with alternate periods of crisis and calm and with vast expenditures for preparation for war while Russia perfects her military machine, too.

Russian aggression is now a plain fact which the whole world sees. Mr. Truman speaks of it as a "growing menace." Secretary Marshall tells of cold-blooded aid to guerrillas in Greece by Soviet satellites, and he mentions the subversive efforts in Italy and in Scandinavian countries.

Might Threaten Military Action

It would appear that such aggression, if it is to be checked at all, might better be checked by demanding a cessation at once under penalty of military action. Such a statement need not be given in public, but American ambassadors can be instructed to tell America's purposes without the fanfare of publicity. If such steps are without result and no basis for a final effort for an over-all understanding is discernible, then a public announcement of America's association with the five-nation mutual - assistance pact can be made, together with a pledge to defend the territorial integrity and independence of Scandinavian countries.

Two world wars have now been fought to make the world safe for democracy. The democracies do not yet feel safe and peaceful recovery is impeded by the presence of another aggressor state. The only language such a state is represented as accepting is the language of physical force. Apparently the Truman - Marshall Administration has failed in its diplomacy, and the American people now are confronted unhappily with the effects of a confused diplomatic situation from which the only outcome is a showdown that could mean war.

The Administration's course consists of half-way measures. War can be avoided, but it will require firm and clear-cut action now. Congress is ready to back up any program that means prevention of war and is ready to go to war if that is the only course left.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The doctors in England are threatening a strike. I guess over there MD stands for more dough.

I never knew the doctors had a union. Can you imagine an MD in surgery reviving the patient and saying "You have oversized tonsils, I'll have to charge you time and a half."

I think the doctors are organizing in this country, too. One of them was examining me the other day and he said, "Open your mouth and say aahf.l."

I wonder if they'd use the same tactics other strikers use. I can just picture them picketing the front of my aunt Minnie's house with placards saying, "do not patronize, she uses goose grease to cure colds."

If the doctors in this country ever strike, it will be quite serious. If you get sick in the middle of the night and call your physician, who will there be to tell you he can't come?

Whenever I get sick I always have trouble with the doctors. They take on look at me and say, "Go over to the packing house. . that's where they cure hams."

But I'm taking no chances. I've got my bathroom loaded with so many remedies it's like a regular drug store. In fact, when I turn on the faucet in the wash basin, chocolate malts come out, and today I opened the medicine chest and a cream cheese and peanut butter sandwich fell out.

It would indeed be a calamity if the good medicos stopped caring for us because they're performing miracles every day. Henry Wallace got sick recently and the doctor stuck a thermometer in his mouth . . .the miracle? That was the first time Henry ever kept quiet for three minutes.

No Warrant For U. S. Acting As World Charitable Country

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

What is left of the American Merchant Marine belongs to America, should be kept by America, and should be operated by Americans carrying American commerce.

Twice in one generation we have been caught short on shipping and have had to build a fleet under the costly pressures of war. It is known that Hitler believed he could win the war before America's might would be felt in Europe. Many believed that if we had had an adequate cargo fleet in 1939, Hitler might not have challenged England and France and there would have been no war.

If we have to fight again—which God forbid—we will need a modern, adequate Merchant Marine in order to do our fighting far from our shores.

We have already sold or transferred nearly 1,000 ships of our wartime fleet to foreign governments and foreign nationals. Having done so, it is astonishing that the State Department draft of the Marshall Plan proposed to sell or transfer from 200 to 500 more of our ships to foreigners as an act of international benevolence. I say "benevolence" for this reason. Much of the Marshall Plan is defended on the ground that it will benefit us economically by preventing a European collapse, and militarily by strengthening our defenses. But the transfer of more ships would weaken us both economically and militarily. It would weaken national defense below the point considered safe by the President's Advisory Committee on the Merchant Marine. There is no warrant in the Constitution for the United States to act as a ninternational charitable organization.

Senate Strikes It Out

The Senate has struck out this provision, and it is hoped the House will concur in their action.

The State Department's proposal would by-pass the Maritime Commission. It would transfer more of our ships to unstable governments. It would throw some 20,000 American seamen and repairmen out of work.

It would take America back to a situation comparable to 1939 when only 30 per cent of our commerce moved in American ships. This is a strange position for the No. 1 World Power to voluntarily reduce itself to.

It was proposed at a time when these 16 nations are engaged in ship-building programs that will result by 1951 in total tonnage exceeding their pre-war fleets. These nations plan to build 15,000,000 tons. By 1951, they will have 55,000,000 tons or 7,000,000 more tons than prewar.

Should Keep Shipping

It would finance our international maritime competitors still further when they already enjoy wage differentials in ship construction and operation.

Only Will Rogers could properly characterize this proposal. He said: "We never lost a war, or won a peace conference."

We should keep our ships under our own flag.

As General MacArthur says: "We must not sap our national strength to the point of jeopardy to our own security."

It is, indeed, a strange mood that has come over this country. As Secretary Marshall said last week, it approaches national hysteria. Under it, many seem to think that to give America away is the highest proof of patriotism. If the international situation is as grave as it appears, one may well ask if some of our billions of dollars might not be better spent on American national defense.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Alarm! Alarm!

THE RECORD ought to be kept very straight in these days of alarms and excitements. An historical error can never be corrected; it sets up a chain of events which moves in the direction set by the error until it wears itself out, or is diverted by other events or is stopped by force.

Among a free people, those who participated in the errors must be held responsible for them. It may be pleasant for those who built reputations and made political profit by making mistakes to have us forget what they did and said when the going was smooth. However, now that their mistakes are being uncovered, they shout, "Stop Thief!" We have to assume that those who supported Roosevelt's policy at Teheran and Yalta and Truman's policy at Potsdam, and such trivia as Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods, are responsible for our present misfortunes. It will avail them nothing, for they face the facts of their own incompetence. There is no longer any cover-up.

Therefore, when Jimmy Byrnes or George Marshall or Averell Harriman gets terribly excited about the evils of the Russians, I challenge them to deny the charge that they were accessories before the event, that they condoned in advance the rape of European civilization by Stalin, that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, in advance, consented to the despoliation of our allies and the countries we liberated. At Potsdam, President Truman joined in these operations.

Now, were these men and others to confess their sins, were they to assume moral responsibility for what they did, even if they pleaded ignorance, it would be possible to forgive them while pitying the country that fell into their hands.

But when they deliberately reverse themselves and, shouting louder than anyone else, demand a war to correct their errors, we must say to them that if it is another war they managed to get for us, we may have no alternative but to offer our sons as sacrifices, but we want better, more competent and more truthful managers. We cannot trust those who lied to us.

On February 13, 1945, it was reported that War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes returned to Washington from Yalta and disclosed that President Roosevelt proposed the formula for the solution of the Polish question. Mr. Byrnes did not say that he, Byrnes, opposed that solution nor did he tell us then that other arrangemens were made there, even an arrangement making Soviet Russia the successor to Japan's rights and privileges in Manchuria in direct violation of our treaties with China since 1844 and constantly renewed.

Mr. Byrnes said nothing about that. Nor did General Marshall or Averell Harriman, or any of the ex-New Deal commentators who are trying to run General Eisenhower on the Democratic ticket as part of a war scare.

On June 15, 1945, General Eisenhower told a press conference in Paris that so far as he is concerned, there is nothing to indicate that cooperation with the Russians is impossible. He said that "peace lies with all the peoples of the world, not just for the moment with some political leader." I never quite knew how the people would produce a peace unless they did it through their political leaders in control of their government. The fact is that they have not produced a peace, nor a peace treaty, nor a formula for peace, and they are all again talking bout another war as though it were seasonal, like Easter or Christmas.

As for General Eisenhower's belief in our ability to cooperate with the Russians in June 1945, he said that after Teheran and Yalta, and he must hve known in his position what was done at those conferences, or perhaps he was as deceived as Mr. Hull seems to have been. At any rate, those who connived at Teheran and Yalta and those who condoned and defended Teheran and Yalta ought not to be believed. They are not to be trusted.

Until we get a new and undefiled leadership, there is no need of alarms, excursions and incitements. If Soviet Russia chooses to make war on us, let her not face those who helped Stalin to deceive the American people.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A Flair For Essentials

A friend of mine once wrote a story about a chap who sat in on conferences that often presented puzzling problems. He was an advertising man. After much discussion had been going on, this chap would suggest what he deemed the "Obvious" course to take — and usually it was the right one, the one that had been overlooked!

The simplest solution is always the best solution, for it is the one that usually contains the essential principles. We waste great quantities of energy by not having what I would term as a flair for essentials.

Benjamin Franklin early sought out these essentials as a guide toward moral improvement. He would write down what he considered these to be and then, at the close of each day, would have a self-examination to see how he had progressed. Henry D. Thoreau had the same idea, but he looked into Nature for his guide. Said he: "Such is beauty ever, neither here nor there, now nor then, neither in Rome nor in Athens, but wherever there is a soul to admire it."

Life is easily complicated. In fact it is very simple. A flair for the essentials would solve so much of the unhappiness and confusion that exist in so many minds. The late E. W. (Ed) Howe once wrote a little essay stating that success was easier than failure. And the late Elbert Hubbard once wrote: "Do the best that you can, and be kind." Both had a flair for the essentials that gave to them a workable philosophy of life.

Jesus had this flair. "Love thy neighbor as thyself," he said. And again, in "The Sermon on the Mount," what a program for a happy life! And in The Golden Rule, what a text for a peaceful world! No contrived phrase of man can equal it as a practical solution for the ills of mankind. All so-called "Charters" sink into oblivion beside it, as a practical, workable basis for permanent peace and good will in the world.

Those who live longest, and happiest, are those who live simplest. And usually the best solution to any problem is the simplest one, not the complicated one. Lincoln had this flair, and often won his cases in court through the telling of a simple story that drove his argument home.

House Should Speed Marshall Plan Passage

The speed with which the Senate overrode amendments and approved the European Recovery Program is a symptom of these urgent times. Congress, like the Nation—like every democratic nation—has been alarmed by the swift advance of Soviet power toward the West (Czechoslovakia), toward the North (Finland) and toward the South (Italy).

No Senator who voted for ERP cared to cite the earlier arguments for the Marshall Plan—that it would be an economic boon to the United States, that it would stimulate world trade, etc. Some Senators, 31 to be exact, thought the $5,300,000,000 was more money than the plan required. But their leader, Senator Taft, held the program was justified by "the world battle against Communism." As Taft put it, "We may lose every cent we put up, but it seems to me it may aid the battle against Communism. The stakes are so large that I believe we should take that chance."

ERP still has a high hurdle to clear in the House. The bill not only must be passed but passed quickly. Some delay on the start of debate was contemplated because of the House insistence that economic aid to China be coupled with ERP, and military aid to China with further material aid to Greece and Turkey.

The delay could have been averted had the Administration recognized the urgent need of China in its long battle with the Communists. The strange blindness of Secretary Marshall to the emergency in China has caused many congressmen to believe that their only hope of getting desperately needed help to Chiang Kai-shek is to pass an omnibus bill.

Aid to China is essential and must be voted by Congress. But there is special reason why ERP must not be unduly delayed. The reason is Italy, which faces a crucial election on April 18th. All the energies of the Comiform, that Kremlin device to defeat the Marshall Plan, are now concentrated on Italy. A Communist victory at the polls would overturn the moderate De Gasperi government and set up another puppet regime in Rome. The results of such a disaster in France, Germany, Greece, the Scandinavian countries and the Middle East are incalculable. Nothing could do more to encourage such a Red victory than the failure of Congress to approve the ERP before the Italian election.

The Republican leadership in the House should move up the date for consideration of ERP. The Administration blunder on China must not be allowed to provoke a greater blunder in Western Europe.

Double-Talk At Truman Conference Disheartening

The reporters who emerged from President Truman's last press conference deserved a rest cure, or at least a dose of nerve medicine. Never had any group of White House newsmen been exposed to such a display of confusing double-talk on American foreign policy.

To begin with, the President stated emphatically that American policy does not call for the inclusion of Communists in the government of China. That sounded like a flat contradiction of Secretary Marshall's press conference statement 24 hours before, in which a number of reporters clearly understood him to say that the government of Nanking should be broadened to include Chinese Communists. Liberals, not Communists, should be included, said Mr. Truman, who added that it was news to him if the U. S. policy ever called for the inclusion of Communists in the Nationalist government. Evidently, Mr. Truman was not reading the newspaper for 13 months after December, 1945, during George Marshall's mission to China for the express purpose of encouraging a coalition of Communists and Kuemintang party leaders in Chiang Kai-shek's government.

But there was worst to come at that extraordinary press conference. The President was asked whether the year-old Truman Doctrine should now be extended. This is a grave question, in the light of the 50-year defense alliance of Britain, France and the Benelux countries, just completed in Brussels. Mr. Truman replied that the doctrine did not need extending because it is now part of the U. S. foreign policy.

Just what does this mean? Does it mean that we intend to back the new Western European Union with the same kind of military aid we now give to Greece and Turkey under the Truman Doctrine? That would be prodigious news to the entire world. Or does it mean that we stand pat on the doctrine, which will not be extended? If so, why did not Mr. Truman say so?

Secretary Marshall is much concerned that American "passions" may be rising too high, in view of the "very, very serious" world situation. But blank confusion about their country's foreign policy can be quite as harmful to the American people as blind emotionalism.

Named Their Poison

Quite a number of persons have taken a dim view of scientists since they created the atomic bomb. Actually they were doing their patriotic duty, at considerable personal sacrifice for some of them. But the man who creates horrors should not be surprised if some of his fellows look at him askance.

In fact, many persons will be inclined to look askance at the fellow who has just synthesized poison ivy—or rather the poisonous oil that does the damage. That wasn't a patriotic duty! And it will be difficult for the average person to think of anything he or she wants less than a two-ounce vial (equivalent to 80 pounds of poison-ivy bark, and heaven knows how much more of the entire plant) of the synthetic poison.

Seriously, though, there's no telling what good may come of this discovery in the long run. The atom-bomb project may have prepared the way (in the unlikely event that the world develops sense enough to avoid war) for an elysian era of prosperity, progress and human brotherhood. And uses may be found for the ivy poison that may improve the lot of man upon this earth. It may, for instance, throw new light on the peculiar paradox of allergy.

Meanwhile, the scientists can have it.

Party leaders who are hoping Truman bows out of the presidential race should remember this is no time to be going back into the haberdashery business.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Swollen Legs

The physician who is asked to treat a person with swollen legs is confronted with a real problem because the causes of this condition are so numerous. The veins are always considered first especially if edema followed operation, obstetrical delivery, pneumonia, or other acute infection.

Dropsy may indicate an abnormality of the heart or kidneys, which means a thorough investigation of these organs. Allergy may also be responsible and when swelling is of this origin, fluid gathers rapidly and is frequently associated with itching and redness of the parts. The type of obesity in which most of the excess flesh goes to the legs must not be confused with edema but here the accumulation is gradual. Another possibility is too little protein in the blood, due to a deficient diet.

One of the most unusual forms of edema is that due to infection or blockage of the lymph passageways. These channels course between the cells in the tissues and carry a milklike fluid that drains ultimately into a large vein in the neck. One variety occurs most frequently in girls between the ages of 9 and 25. Puffiness appears at first in one or both ankles, and, as time goes by, it becomes more pronounced; in some instances involving the entire leg and thigh. Swelling is more noticeable after long periods of activity particularly in warm weather. It increases markedly during the week or ten days preceding menstruation. In the early stages, the manifestation may disappear completely after rest or elevating the legs but, as the condition progresses, this is less evident.

No one knows what causes the disturbance except that the lymph passageways are overstretched and the walls become so thickened that drainage is deficient. In the beginning, the skin of the affected extremity is soft and pits wherever pressure is applied. Subsequently, the surface becomes harder and of a firm consistency. Since women are more frequent victims, and the disorder starts during adolescence, the glandular system is probably at fault.

Lymphedemas due to infection develop in a slightly different manner. Micro-organisms invade only a small part of the extremity and, when this occurs, chills, fever, and tenderness over the inflamed areas are experienced. Discomfort subsides within one or two weeks but the region remains puffy. Later, another attack comes on, then a third, etc., until a large section of the leg is involved, leaving in its wake a perceptible edema.

The lymph ducts can be obstructed also by tumors, enlarged glands, or scar tissue. The latter may explain the swollen arms that are noted occasionally after breast operations in which surgery extended into the armpits. Ankle puffiness may coexist with athlete's foot but it is not known whether the lymph ducts are invaded by the ringworm organisms or other germs that gain entrance through the lesions between the toes.

LOW CURRENT

B. K. writes: My doctor told me I have a low voltage heart but gave me no other details. What does it mean?

Reply

Low voltage refers to the electrocardiogram and as such is not a disease. The condition may be due to increased skin resistance to the electrical current. It is sometimes found in individuals who are waterlogged because of low thyroid activity or heart or kidney trouble. Ask your physician to explain the origin in your case.

Risky

S. K. writes: What is your opinion of the use of nose drops in young infants for colds?

Reply

They are rarely recommended because of the danger that the drops will fall into the lungs. Usually the excess mucus associated with a cold can be removed from the nostrils with a cotton applicator.

Types Of Growth

K. S. writes: What is the difference between a mass and a cyst?

REPLY

Mass is an all-inclusive term to describe an enlargement where a cyst denotes a soft lesion containing fluid or cheesy material.

Walking Child

Mrs. H. G. writes: Are walks of 15 blocks too much for a two year old? When I take her out she does not want to stay in her carriage but cries to get out and walk.

REPLY

This depends upon the length of the blocks. In all probability, it is not too much because when youngsters become tired, they do not hesitate to let you know.

Mortality

Mrs. D. writes: A says more people die from tuberculosis in the United States than from cancer or heart trouble. B believes the opposite. Who is correct.

REPLY

B. As a matter of fact the death rate from heart disease is as high as from tuberculosis and cancer combined.

Sound Alikes

G. E. writes: What is the difference between catalepsy and epilepsy?

REPLY

During a seizure of catalepsy, the subject becomes motionless and rigid without unconsciousness. The victim of epilepsy usually exhibits convulsions and other symptoms including a loss of consciousness.

Bacteriological Warfare May Be Russia's Answer To Atomic Bomb; Truman's Message Is Psychological Move To Halt Russia

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 18—Here are some of the worries behind President Truman's message to Congress.

Worry No. 1—News of Russian germ-warfare plans.

Soviet scientists are reported to have developed two types of virus, one to wipe out cattle, the other to spread pestilence among humans.

Actually, Russian progress on bacteriological warfare is no news to U. S. war chiefs. Furthermore, by the end of the war, the U. S. Navy had developed a germ copable of wiping out the entire Japanese wheat crop.

It was also long known that the Russians were working on innoculation for their own troops so they could advance into enemy territory immune to disease germs after the enemy had been knocked out by bacteriological warfare.

This was known to be Russia's cheap answer to the atomic bomb, since germ warfare can be prepared in small, inexpensive laboratories.

While these facts have long been known to the Army-Navy, U. S. officials are now worried that Russia may be ready to begin surprise bacteriological warfare spread from suitcases by fifth columnists.

New Russo-German State

Worry No. 2—Russia is reported to have completed plans for setting up a brand new Soviet-German government on or before May 1. The new capital would be at Koenigsburg, and the Government would be under Field Marshal von Paulus, German commander taken prisoner ot Stalingrad and since then engaged in training a special German Army for Russia.

Von Paulus is reported to have returned to Moscow March 4 following a seven-week tour of Russian-occupied Germany. The tour was for the purpose of working out details of the new Soviet-German government.

Van Paulus' German unit of the Red Army was reported two months ago to total 1,000,000, is now believed to total 1,600,000.

The Russians take extreme precautions to prevent this German Army from double-crossing them. The families of von Paulus and 35 of his staff officers are kept in Moscow as hostages. Von Paulus' army is also denied artillery. Ammunition is carefully rationed, with no large ammunition depots inside Germany.

Other Worries—Russian troop maneuvers in and around Germany, also the Russian grab for more and more territory for the purpose of isolating Moscow from U. S. long-range bombers and the atomic bomb. The more territory Russia takes, the farther away our bases must be.

End Of Russia's Rope

Strategy behind the President's message to Congress was not entirely worry. It was partly for the psychological effect on (1) Russia, (2) on the countries Russia seeks to dominate.

Diplomats have long believed that if Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Minister in 1914, had warned the Kaiser that the invasion of Belgium meant war with Britain, the Kaiser would not have struck.

Diplomats have also believed that if Hitler had definitely known the invasion of Poland meant war with both Britain and the USA he might not have struck.

Therefore, U. S. war chiefs have been advising that Russia should be told that she has now gone as far as she can without a direct clash with the United States.

The psychological effect of a firm stand on Italy, Scandinavia and France is also considered important. The Czech coup has caused them to cringe with fright. Italian voters have been terrorized with the threat that the Communists were preparing a purge list of those who oppose them, and that the Russians were soon coming in to make that purge effective.

Note 1—Talking to Senators the other day, Secretary of State Marshall urged passage of military training because of its psychological effect on Russia. Senators countered that a big airplane program would have greater effect. Marshall replied that planes would take too long to build.

Note 2—In July 1940, Marshall, then Chief of Staff and never airminded, asked Congress for only six flying fortresses. And this was after Poland was invaded!

Navy's White Elephants

When high-up U. S. air officers really let their hair down, they are scathing in their criticism of a big land army and of navy blueprints for giant airplane carriers.

Carriers, they point out, not only take two years and tremendous quantities of steel to build, but are white elephants. It takes too many warships to protect them, and they are knocked out for keeps if they get anywhere near an atomic bomb.

Many people wondered why the battleship Pennsylvania was towed out to sea and sunk when the nation was desperately short of scrap iron. The reason — radioactivity. Nearly two years after Bikini, battleships from Bikini are still contaminated by deadly radioactive fumes.

Thus, if an atomic bomb comes anywhere near an airplane carrier, that giant mass of steel requiring two years and $100,000,000 to build is knocked permanently out of commission.

Air generals also smile over the fact that their branch of the service has no trouble in getting plenty of recruits. Neither do the Marines. It's the lond army which has trouble getting men.

If you need a big land army to protect the USA, argue the air generals, you might as well admit defeat in advance. A big land army at home means fighting on U. S. soil and deadly destruction. Only a big air force to meet and rout the enemy before it strikes the U. S. can prevent destructive fighting on American soil.

Not Believed Russia Will Be Impressed By Truman's Move

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 18 — President Truman presented Congress with a logical case for immediate war with Russia or at least a showdown at once, but he failed to back it up with recommendations that could impress Russia.

The theory that Russia would be impressed by the adoption of a slow-moving program of Universal Military Training or the drafting of untrained youth under the Selective Service System is not convincing.

Russia can overrun Europe in six weeks—long before any draft or universal military training program can be of avail.

What the President, for some reason unknown to Capitol Hill, did was to say Russia has to be stopped but wtihout indicating that America is really going to participate at once in such a process.

With the whole world aware that air power is a weapon of great potentiality for immediate action, the President did not ask for the call to service of any of the trained pilots or reserves who would be needed to back up America's pronouncements in the event that Russia continues her aggression.

Unfortunately, the President and Secretary Marshall give the impression that they would like to use the present emergency to secure th adoption of a long-range universal military program which Congress has hitherto balked at passing.

If the crisis is as serious as the President's recital of the facts would indicate, then Mr. Truman is dilly-dallying with America's national safety and the freedom of Norway and the five nations which are binding themselves together in a mutual-assistance pact.

The thesis that Russia is impressed by action and not by words is repeatedly proclaimed in Administration circles. Yet there was no action specifically directed toward a return of American forces to Europe mentioned in Mr. Truman's message. There was a veiled promise to help the five nations and theoretically a warning to Russia, but this is not likely to be any more effective than the pronouncement of the Truman doctrine was last year in reference to Greece and Turkey.

If Mr. Truman had asked congress to give him authority to use American forces in any emergency that might arise, Russia might have been impressed. Without any request for congressional authority involving the use of forces, the Truman speech could be regarded by Russia as sheer bluff.

The American people are far ahead of Mr. Truman in their thinking. They do not relish living in a world with an aggressor state on the loose. They would rather have the situation clarified at once than to drift along indefinitely with alternate periods of crisis and calm and with vast expenditures for preparation for war while Russia perfects her military machine, too.

Russian aggression is now a plain fact which the whole world sees. Mr. Truman speaks of it as a "growing menace." Secretary Marshall tells of cold-blooded aid to guerrillas in Greece by Soviet satellites, and he mentions the subversive efforts in Italy and in Scandinavian countries.

Might Threaten Military Action

It would appear that such aggression, if it is to be checked at all, might better be checked by demanding a cessation at once under penalty of military action. Such a statement need not be given in public, but American ambassadors can be instructed to tell America's purposes without the fanfare of publicity. If such steps are without result and no basis for a final effort for an over-all understanding is discernible, then a public announcement of America's association with the five-nation mutual - assistance pact can be made, together with a pledge to defend the territorial integrity and independence of Scandinavian countries.

Two world wars have now been fought to make the world safe for democracy. The democracies do not yet feel safe and peaceful recovery is impeded by the presence of another aggressor state. The only language such a state is represented as accepting is the language of physical force. Apparently the Truman - Marshall Administration has failed in its diplomacy, and the American people now are confronted unhappily with the effects of a confused diplomatic situation from which the only outcome is a showdown that could mean war.

The Administration's course consists of half-way measures. War can be avoided, but it will require firm and clear-cut action now. Congress is ready to back up any program that means prevention of war and is ready to go to war if that is the only course left.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

The doctors in England are threatening a strike. I guess over there MD stands for more dough.

I never knew the doctors had a union. Can you imagine an MD in surgery reviving the patient and saying "You have oversized tonsils, I'll have to charge you time and a half."

I think the doctors are organizing in this country, too. One of them was examining me the other day and he said, "Open your mouth and say aahf.l."

I wonder if they'd use the same tactics other strikers use. I can just picture them picketing the front of my aunt Minnie's house with placards saying, "do not patronize, she uses goose grease to cure colds."

If the doctors in this country ever strike, it will be quite serious. If you get sick in the middle of the night and call your physician, who will there be to tell you he can't come?

Whenever I get sick I always have trouble with the doctors. They take on look at me and say, "Go over to the packing house. . that's where they cure hams."

But I'm taking no chances. I've got my bathroom loaded with so many remedies it's like a regular drug store. In fact, when I turn on the faucet in the wash basin, chocolate malts come out, and today I opened the medicine chest and a cream cheese and peanut butter sandwich fell out.

It would indeed be a calamity if the good medicos stopped caring for us because they're performing miracles every day. Henry Wallace got sick recently and the doctor stuck a thermometer in his mouth . . .the miracle? That was the first time Henry ever kept quiet for three minutes.

No Warrant For U. S. Acting As World Charitable Country

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

What is left of the American Merchant Marine belongs to America, should be kept by America, and should be operated by Americans carrying American commerce.

Twice in one generation we have been caught short on shipping and have had to build a fleet under the costly pressures of war. It is known that Hitler believed he could win the war before America's might would be felt in Europe. Many believed that if we had had an adequate cargo fleet in 1939, Hitler might not have challenged England and France and there would have been no war.

If we have to fight again—which God forbid—we will need a modern, adequate Merchant Marine in order to do our fighting far from our shores.

We have already sold or transferred nearly 1,000 ships of our wartime fleet to foreign governments and foreign nationals. Having done so, it is astonishing that the State Department draft of the Marshall Plan proposed to sell or transfer from 200 to 500 more of our ships to foreigners as an act of international benevolence. I say "benevolence" for this reason. Much of the Marshall Plan is defended on the ground that it will benefit us economically by preventing a European collapse, and militarily by strengthening our defenses. But the transfer of more ships would weaken us both economically and militarily. It would weaken national defense below the point considered safe by the President's Advisory Committee on the Merchant Marine. There is no warrant in the Constitution for the United States to act as a ninternational charitable organization.

Senate Strikes It Out

The Senate has struck out this provision, and it is hoped the House will concur in their action.

The State Department's proposal would by-pass the Maritime Commission. It would transfer more of our ships to unstable governments. It would throw some 20,000 American seamen and repairmen out of work.

It would take America back to a situation comparable to 1939 when only 30 per cent of our commerce moved in American ships. This is a strange position for the No. 1 World Power to voluntarily reduce itself to.

It was proposed at a time when these 16 nations are engaged in ship-building programs that will result by 1951 in total tonnage exceeding their pre-war fleets. These nations plan to build 15,000,000 tons. By 1951, they will have 55,000,000 tons or 7,000,000 more tons than prewar.

Should Keep Shipping

It would finance our international maritime competitors still further when they already enjoy wage differentials in ship construction and operation.

Only Will Rogers could properly characterize this proposal. He said: "We never lost a war, or won a peace conference."

We should keep our ships under our own flag.

As General MacArthur says: "We must not sap our national strength to the point of jeopardy to our own security."

It is, indeed, a strange mood that has come over this country. As Secretary Marshall said last week, it approaches national hysteria. Under it, many seem to think that to give America away is the highest proof of patriotism. If the international situation is as grave as it appears, one may well ask if some of our billions of dollars might not be better spent on American national defense.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Alarm! Alarm!

THE RECORD ought to be kept very straight in these days of alarms and excitements. An historical error can never be corrected; it sets up a chain of events which moves in the direction set by the error until it wears itself out, or is diverted by other events or is stopped by force.

Among a free people, those who participated in the errors must be held responsible for them. It may be pleasant for those who built reputations and made political profit by making mistakes to have us forget what they did and said when the going was smooth. However, now that their mistakes are being uncovered, they shout, "Stop Thief!" We have to assume that those who supported Roosevelt's policy at Teheran and Yalta and Truman's policy at Potsdam, and such trivia as Dumbarton Oaks and Bretton Woods, are responsible for our present misfortunes. It will avail them nothing, for they face the facts of their own incompetence. There is no longer any cover-up.

Therefore, when Jimmy Byrnes or George Marshall or Averell Harriman gets terribly excited about the evils of the Russians, I challenge them to deny the charge that they were accessories before the event, that they condoned in advance the rape of European civilization by Stalin, that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, in advance, consented to the despoliation of our allies and the countries we liberated. At Potsdam, President Truman joined in these operations.

Now, were these men and others to confess their sins, were they to assume moral responsibility for what they did, even if they pleaded ignorance, it would be possible to forgive them while pitying the country that fell into their hands.

But when they deliberately reverse themselves and, shouting louder than anyone else, demand a war to correct their errors, we must say to them that if it is another war they managed to get for us, we may have no alternative but to offer our sons as sacrifices, but we want better, more competent and more truthful managers. We cannot trust those who lied to us.

On February 13, 1945, it was reported that War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes returned to Washington from Yalta and disclosed that President Roosevelt proposed the formula for the solution of the Polish question. Mr. Byrnes did not say that he, Byrnes, opposed that solution nor did he tell us then that other arrangemens were made there, even an arrangement making Soviet Russia the successor to Japan's rights and privileges in Manchuria in direct violation of our treaties with China since 1844 and constantly renewed.

Mr. Byrnes said nothing about that. Nor did General Marshall or Averell Harriman, or any of the ex-New Deal commentators who are trying to run General Eisenhower on the Democratic ticket as part of a war scare.

On June 15, 1945, General Eisenhower told a press conference in Paris that so far as he is concerned, there is nothing to indicate that cooperation with the Russians is impossible. He said that "peace lies with all the peoples of the world, not just for the moment with some political leader." I never quite knew how the people would produce a peace unless they did it through their political leaders in control of their government. The fact is that they have not produced a peace, nor a peace treaty, nor a formula for peace, and they are all again talking bout another war as though it were seasonal, like Easter or Christmas.

As for General Eisenhower's belief in our ability to cooperate with the Russians in June 1945, he said that after Teheran and Yalta, and he must hve known in his position what was done at those conferences, or perhaps he was as deceived as Mr. Hull seems to have been. At any rate, those who connived at Teheran and Yalta and those who condoned and defended Teheran and Yalta ought not to be believed. They are not to be trusted.

Until we get a new and undefiled leadership, there is no need of alarms, excursions and incitements. If Soviet Russia chooses to make war on us, let her not face those who helped Stalin to deceive the American people.

Today's Talk

A Flair For Essentials

A friend of mine once wrote a story about a chap who sat in on conferences that often presented puzzling problems. He was an advertising man. After much discussion had been going on, this chap would suggest what he deemed the "Obvious" course to take — and usually it was the right one, the one that had been overlooked!

The simplest solution is always the best solution, for it is the one that usually contains the essential principles. We waste great quantities of energy by not having what I would term as a flair for essentials.

Benjamin Franklin early sought out these essentials as a guide toward moral improvement. He would write down what he considered these to be and then, at the close of each day, would have a self-examination to see how he had progressed. Henry D. Thoreau had the same idea, but he looked into Nature for his guide. Said he: "Such is beauty ever, neither here nor there, now nor then, neither in Rome nor in Athens, but wherever there is a soul to admire it."

Life is easily complicated. In fact it is very simple. A flair for the essentials would solve so much of the unhappiness and confusion that exist in so many minds. The late E. W. (Ed) Howe once wrote a little essay stating that success was easier than failure. And the late Elbert Hubbard once wrote: "Do the best that you can, and be kind." Both had a flair for the essentials that gave to them a workable philosophy of life.

Jesus had this flair. "Love thy neighbor as thyself," he said. And again, in "The Sermon on the Mount," what a program for a happy life! And in The Golden Rule, what a text for a peaceful world! No contrived phrase of man can equal it as a practical solution for the ills of mankind. All so-called "Charters" sink into oblivion beside it, as a practical, workable basis for permanent peace and good will in the world.

Those who live longest, and happiest, are those who live simplest. And usually the best solution to any problem is the simplest one, not the complicated one. Lincoln had this flair, and often won his cases in court through the telling of a simple story that drove his argument home.

A 19-year-old Navy veteran, Fred Jackson, Winifred Road, pleaded not guilty yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court to a charge of assaulting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Madelyn Hicks, also of Winifred Road, on Monday.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., said the case will be held open until March 31. Mrs. Hicks said Jackson broke her glasses, but the latter claimed they were knocked off accidentally, court attaches said.

Charges against Boyd Sponaugle, 404 Grand Avenue, who was arrested February 18 for allegedly violating city and county health regulations by failing to confine a sick child to his home, have been dismissed in Police Court. The case was set aside last month after the defendant agreed to keep the child indoors.

Brown L. Mentzer, Waynesboro, Pa., forfeited $11.45 in Trial Magistrates' Court for exceeding 50 miles an hour on March 8 on Route 220.

Robert L. Markle, Route 5, and George E. Landis, Meyersdale, Pa., forfeited $6.45 bond each for failing to halt at a stop sign on McMullen Highway at Amcelle. State Trooper G. M. Rotruck made the arrests.

Another motorist, Wilbur H. Weimer, Valley Road, forfeited $2.45 for driving without a muffler on Route 40 Wednesday. Cpl. Harry Holsinger preferred the charge.

Help Visitors Spend, British Suggest

LONDON— (AP) —The Board of Trade has proposed a "voucher plan" to make it easier for visitors from the United States, Canada and the Argentine to spend their currencies in Britain.

It proposed sale of vouchers the purchaser could exchange for goods without giving up clothing coupons or paying the British purchase tax.

Clothing coupons must be given up now for virtually all wearing apparel. No coupons are issued to visitors staying less than 30 days. They may buy now without payment of the purchase tax or giving up coupons but their purchases must be shipped to their home addresses.

St. Peter's Will Get New Doors

VATICAN CITY—(AP)—St. Peter's Basilica after five centuries will finally get some of its "permanent" doors. How many can be built with what Prince George of Bavaria—once a canon in the Vatican—left by will in 1943 is still unknown.

The ancient basilica has five doors. One in sculptured bronze was made by Antonio Filarete in 1439-45, modeled on those of San Giovanni in Florence. But three are wood.

How much the doors will cost and how many doors the Vatican will be able to make with the estates the prince left, can only be guessed.

Young Business Women Have Party, Honor Advisor

The highlights of the St. Patrick's Day party given by the Young Business Women's Club last night in the Fiesta room of Central YMCA, was the presentation of a rhinestone pin to Mrs. Ida Lindsay, advisor of the club, in celebration of her birthday. Miss Doris Twigg made the presentation on behalf of the club.

Winfield Adams told a short story and recordings of Irish melodies were played. A Truth or Consequence game was a feature of the entertainment.

Among the consequences paid were the selling of balloons on Baltimore Street by Kathleen Wilson and Mary Margaret Kelly, accompanied by Bernadette Flora, Betty Jane Eaton and Ruth Newcomb blowing horns to attract attention. Jane Dauphin and Jane Friend were required to interview two policemen on their opinion of world affairs; and Mary Ellen Helmrich and Josephine Cantone had to obtain bus transfers.

Mrs. Marie Catherman baked and presented a birthday cake to Mrs. Lindsay; Evelyn Lichliter presided at the punch bowl. A bowl of snapdargons centered the refreshment table and St. Patrick's Day hats were given as favors.

Others attending were Ruth Eichorn, Norma Wilson, Evangeline Engle, Esther Frazee, Ruby Dice, Geraldine Cantone, Betty Jane Clopper, Jean Wentling, Joan Yeager, Anna Rice, Christine Yeager, Regina Yeager and Charles R. Schwinabart.

Robert W. Sisson, executive secretary of the Y, who will leave here in April, and Mrs. Ann Everline of the Community Chest, will be the guest speakers at the next business meeting on March 25.

Army Engineers Plan Session Here

Appointment of a project manager, preferably a qualified engineer with flood control experience, will be among six points to be discussed by Cumberland and Ridgeley officials with Army engineers at a meeting next Tuesday at 11 a. m. at City Hall, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Army engineers have suggested that such an appointment would expedite land acquisition and construction of the local flood protection project. The manager would act as liaison agent for the city in its contacts with the District Engineer's Office in Washington.

Mayor Post said officials who will be invited to attend the meeting include Mayor Magruder of Ridgeley; the Mayor and Council of Cumberland ; F. T. Small, chairman of the flood control committee; H. W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer; City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, and James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

A letter received by the mayor from Col. Donald G. White, Washington, district engineer, declares "the possibility of Congress appropriating funds for starting construction work on the local flood protection project for Cumberland and Ridgeley in the next fiscal year seems very favorable at the present time."

The House of Representatives has already approved a grant of $500,000 for the Cumberland-Ridgeley job for the year starting July 1. The bill is before the Senate.

Col. White said Ridgeley officials have been notified of the pending meeting. Mayor Post said he has contacted the real estate men making the survey to determine the possible cost of land needed for the project and that a report is promised by Tuesday.

Items scheduled for discussion Tuesday include:

Submission of assurances, land or interests to be provided before commencing construction, major features of first contract, acquisition of real estate, project manager or liaison agent, and plans and specifications.

Among assurances still needed are: A Ridgeley resolution agreeing that Cumberland may assume Ridgeley's share of the cost beyond the amount Ridgeley can carry; a resolution by the Allegany County Commissioners making $1,000,000 in county funds available; certified copies of legislative acts concerning bond issues and financial statements of the three local political groups to indicate their ability to dispose of bonds.

Concerning land requirements the agenda for the meeting states:

"Except when otherwise approved by the Chief of Engineers, no construction work will be undertaken until the lands, easements, and rights-of-way required for at least a complete unit of the project have been provided. For the Cumberland project, this is considered to include lands, easements or rights-of-way for all phases of the project in both Cumberland and Ridgeley.

The first contract will be for the construction of pressure conduits in Cumberland at Franklin, Pear, Knox and Wineow Streets and apputenant work connected therewith.

Division of work performance shows the following breakdown:

Water and sewer connections will be chargeable to federal government in first contract.

Gas connection charges will be chargeable to government in first contract.

Replacing of street pavement, sidewalks, curb and gutters will be chargeable to government in first contract.

Changes in power, telephone and telegraph facilities will be chargeable to local interests.

Replacement of pavements in railroad rights-of-way will be chargeable to government.

Preparation of plans and construction of highway bridges over Wills Creek will be chargeable to local interests.

Relocation of sewers and water lines will be chargeable to local interests.

Regarding land the government will acquire all that is needed for direct channel improvements. It will secure all other land as well, if desired, and then charge to the proper body. If the government is to secure land which the city must pay for, money will be placed in escrow ahead of time. In addition the city would have to provide any other funds ahead of time.

The engineers report that plans and specifications for interior drainage in Cumberland except pumping stations are 97 per cent complete and that plans and specifications for the first contract will be finished by March 31.

MANY TAXPAYERS TO RECEIVE REFUNDS

About 7,500 of the 13,450 federal income tax returns filed at the local Internal Revenue Bureau office from January 1 to March 15 were made by taxpayers on the W-2 form on 1947 earnings, according to Richard J. Stakem, division chief.

Stakem said a large percentage of those filing returns will receive refunds this year.

Stakem gave as the probable reason the fact that the Celanese was shutdown last June by a strike and with the withholding taxes being computed on a yearly basis the smaller earnings resulted in refunds. Other layoffs and shutdowns in other area plants had the same effect, he added.

Stakem said he could not divulge the amount of taxes paid on 1947 earnings through his office as the work of compiling these statistics is not complete.

The local Internal Revenue chief said that the public cooperated better this year by filing returns earlier than in recent years. One reason advanced was the fact that many persons had refunds coming and filed early in order to obtain the money sooner.

Stakem said that the Social Security and withholding taxes for the first quarter of 1948 are due during the month of April and employers are urged to make early returns.

Army Engineers Plan Session Here

Appointment of a project manager, preferably a qualified engineer with flood control experience, will be among six points to be discussed by Cumberland and Ridgeley officials with Army engineers at a meeting next Tuesday at 11 a. m. at City Hall, according to Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Army engineers have suggested that such an appointment would expedite land acquisition and construction of the local flood protection project. The manager would act as liaison agent for the city in its contacts with the District Engineer's Office in Washington.

Mayor Post said officials who will be invited to attend the meeting include Mayor Magruder of Ridgeley; the Mayor and Council of Cumberland ; F. T. Small, chairman of the flood control committee; H. W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer; City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, and James Alfred Avirett, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

A letter received by the mayor from Col. Donald G. White, Washington, district engineer, declares "the possibility of Congress appropriating funds for starting construction work on the local flood protection project for Cumberland and Ridgeley in the next fiscal year seems very favorable at the present time."

The House of Representatives has already approved a grant of $500,000 for the Cumberland-Ridgeley job for the year starting July 1. The bill is before the Senate.

Col. White said Ridgeley officials have been notified of the pending meeting. Mayor Post said he has contacted the real estate men making the survey to determine the possible cost of land needed for the project and that a report is promised by Tuesday.

Items scheduled for discussion Tuesday include:

Submission of assurances, land or interests to be provided before commencing construction, major features of first contract, acquisition of real estate, project manager or liaison agent, and plans and specifications.

Among assurances still needed are: A Ridgeley resolution agreeing that Cumberland may assume Ridgeley's share of the cost beyond the amount Ridgeley can carry; a resolution by the Allegany County Commissioners making $1,000,000 in county funds available; certified copies of legislative acts concerning bond issues and financial statements of the three local political groups to indicate their ability to dispose of bonds.

Concerning land requirements the agenda for the meeting states:

"Except when otherwise approved by the Chief of Engineers, no construction work will be undertaken until the lands, easements, and rights-of-way required for at least a complete unit of the project have been provided. For the Cumberland project, this is considered to include lands, easements or rights-of-way for all phases of the project in both Cumberland and Ridgeley.

The first contract will be for the construction of pressure conduits in Cumberland at Franklin, Pear, Knox and Wineow Streets and appurtenant work connected therewith.

Replacing of street pavement, sidewalks, curb and gutters will be chargeable to government in first contract.

9 Americans Bail Out Over Berlin

BERLIN, March 18 (AP) — Nine Americans, including three women and Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, parachuted from a crippled C-47 plane over Berlin today and landed on rooftops, railroad tracks and city streets.

Taylor and his wife and three other occupants of the plane were in a hospital tonight with injuries. He is the chief United States counsel for the Nuernberg war crimes trials.

One of the injured, a member of the plane's crew, was in a critical condition. All nine who made the jump suffered some shock and bruises in their rainswept and windblown descent which carried them into the French and Russian occupation sectors of Berlin.

Two of the aircraft's 11 occupants, the pilot and co-pilot, remained with the plane. They made a safe emergency landing at the RAF's Gatow Airfield in the British sector of the city.

Mrs. Taylor said she was "half pushed and half-jumped" as one of the plane's two engines failed. She landed on a roof in the French sector and skidded to the ground. She was hospitalized with cuts and bruises.

Taylor, of Chevy Chase, Md., suffered a back injury. Doctors said he would be laid up for about four week. He landed in the middle of a street in Pankow, Russian-occupied territory in the northeast section of Berlin. He was brought to a United States Army hospital by a German doctor.

Woman Accused Of Giving Away 5 Of 6 Children

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 18 (AP) —A 27-year-old woman was accused today of giving away five of her six children in the past eight months.

The woman, registered as Mrs. Rozilla Whitacre Fenton, pleaded innocent to charges of neglect and was held in default of $500 bond for hearing March 25.

Juvenile Court Judge Harry Gram said investigation had showed that last July she gave a two-year-old boy to a Westville, Logan County, couple; a five-year-old daughter to a Dayton couple in October; a four-year-old daughter to another Dayton couple in January; a six-year-old daughter to an Urbana couple the same month; and a one-day-old baby to still another Dayton couple March 7.

Man Fined On Gambling Charge Files Appeal

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 18 (AP)—John King, 50, convicted last year on gambling charges, today asked the Court of Appeals to exonerate him.

King was one of 23 St. Mary's County residents indicted on similar charges. He was the only one convicted.

He was fined $300 in September for allowing the use of slot machines in the bus terminal he managed near the Patuxent River naval station.

His attorney attacked the conviction, charging the juries that indicted King and found him guilty were improperly selected.

Legislation To "De-Hood" Klansmen Recommended

ATLANTA, March 18 (AP) — Georgia's Gov. M. E. Thompson today recommended legislation to take the hoods off Ku Klux Klansmen wherever they appear in public.

The Governor said frankly he was seeking to fan state-wide resistance to the Klan movement along the lines which have already been drawn against the masked night riders in three Georgia towns.

Two of the towns have dusted off ordinances forbidding parades without permission from the mayor and in each the mayor has said he was not having any Klan parades in his town.

Victim Of Crash Describes Ordeal

COTTONWOOD, Ariz., March 18 (AP) — An injured victim of a plane crash stumbled into the safety of a sawmill camp late last night with a story of eight horrible days of struggle for life in the Arizona mountain wilds.

Larry H. Koshak, 26, Durango, Colo., lost 30 pounds in the ordeal with only a pocketful of prunes and crackers to sustain life.

His injuries consist of a possible skull fracture, a broken hand, cuts and frozen feet.

He credited instincts from a boyhood in the Colorado mountains for saving him from perishing as he wandered injured and half conscious through the cold, rough region.

Limping on frost-bitten feet, Koshak appeared last night at a lumber camp near Payson. Robert A. Toth, 29, his companion on a flight from Redondo Beach, Calif., still was missing. He was hunted in the snow-covered Mogollon Rim region by a party of 50 horsemen.

"I must have been sleeping when the plane hit the trees," Koshak said. "I seem to remember I was still tied to the plane when I came to.

"After a long period I loosened the safety belt. There was a crash. I fell out."

Koshak said he stayed near the wreckage for quite a while and then wandered about looking for Toth. He found no trace of the pilot.

"At times I blacked out," Koshak continued. "I had dreams and hallucinations. Some times I had no idea where I was or what I was doing.

"I remember asking for a cigaret from a man I thought was standing beside me.

"He'd say, 'Sure, I got a cigaret.' Then I'd come to and there wouldn't be anyone within miles of me."

Building Firm And Three Baltimore Officials Indicted In Housing Probe

BALTIMORE, March 18. (AP)—A grand jury investigation of GI housing today brought the indictment of a building firm and three city officials on charges they conspired to cheat and defraud veterans.

The accusations were against Herman F. Lucke, Jr., former buildings engineer and now parks engineer for the city; Milton B. Malan, a city building inspector; Hanlon Homes, Inc., and five members of a family holding office in the firm—Edward A., Sidney, Harry, Julius and Esther Myerberg.

The name of a second building inspector could not be disclosed until he was arrested.

All the others posted $1,000 bond each.

Court attaches said the eight presentments returned today were but the first of the charges which will be made by the grand jury.

It was instructed five weeks ago to make an inquiry.

Some 1,900 veterans have informed their mortgage holders they will withhold further payments until adjustments are made.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation also is making an investigation here. Attorney General Tom Clark initiated similar federal action recently in Dallas, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and other cities.

In the basic presentment returned by the grand jury it charged that the builders and the city officials "conspired to violate and permit violation" of the city's building code and thereby enabled the builders "to cheat, defraud and illegally acquire the monies and properties of the purchasers."

The malfesance charge was that Lucke "corruptly failed, neglected and refused to perform and carry out his duties."

11 Russians Arrested By French Authorities

PARIS, France, March 19. (AP)—A spokesman for the Surete National (security police) said early today that 11 Russians had been arrested.

The arrests were made at the home of one of the group, Dimitri Odinetz, the spokesman said. The Communist newspaper Ce Soir identified Odinetz as a 70-year-old professor.

No further details were divulged.

ARABS CHARGE RUSSIA DESIRES COMMUNIST NATION IN PALESTINE

LAKE SUCCESS, March 18 (AP)—The chief Arab spokesman at United Nations headquarters charged today that Russia wants to create a Communist nation in Palestine.

This charge was made in a statement to the press by Faris El Khoury, Syria's delegate on the Security Council. He said Russia covets and has designs on Middle East oil resources now under American control.

It was the first time the Arabs have raised so openly a spectre of Communism in the Holy Land and the Middle East.

United Nations delegates speculated that the Arabs now would shift the emphasis of their attack on the Palestine partition plan to a fight against Communism.

Deanna Durbin's 1947 Income Was $323,479

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — New reports to the government showed today that Screen Actress Deanna Durbin had a 1947 income of $323,479.

Her tax on that would be about $200,000, an official of the Internal Revenue Bureau estimated.

Miss Durbin's income was among a number reported to the Securities Commission by corporations, in the form of amended fiscal reports. The reports varied as to time, since the corporations have different fiscal year endings, but all were for 12-month periods ending sometime in 1947.

French Deputies Slug It Out In Parliament

PARIS, March 18 (AP) — A session of France's upper house of Parliament ended in fist fighting today after a rightist deputy demanded the expulsion of Communists from the nation's atomic research council.

The fisticuffs, between Communists and rightists, continued in the corridors for a half hour. Guards finally restored order.

10 Airmen Killed In Crash Of B-29

TAMPA, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Ten airmen were killed and four injured today when a B-29 Superfortress crashed while landing on a fog-shrouded runway at MacDill Field.

Capt. George G. Byrnes, MacDill Field public information officer, said it was a "miracle" that anyone escaped.

The four survivors recalled hours afterwards that somehow they staggered from the burning ship shortly before it exploded. Their conditions were described as "good."

The Superfort from the Spokane, Wash., airbase struck the edge of the long runway in an isolated section of the field. The landing strip was thickly overlaid with industrial smoke and fog.

The craft hit the runway, bounced high into the air and burst into flames as it crashed. It exploded shortly afterwards.

The Superfort was piloted by First Lt. Roy M. Walsh. The crew was attached to the 92nd Bomb Squadron at Spokane and was on a navigational training flight. The plane's last stop was at Maxwell Field (Montgomery, Ala.)

The list of dead included Staff Sgt. Kenneth R. Burgan, Clear Springs, Md.

THREAT OF ATOM PLANT STRIKE TONIGHT EASES

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Atomic energy laboratory workers at Oak Ridge, Tennessee, today agreed to work beyond a Friday midnight strike deadline if their present pay and working conditions are continued in effect.

The pledge was made to President Truman in a telegram from the Atom Trades and Labor Council (AFL) and by James A. Brownlow, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Metal Trades Department.

70-Year-Old Man Admits He Wed Granddaughter

SALISBURY, N. C., March 18 (AP) —A 70-year-old man admitted today he married his 21-year-old granddaughter, two weeks ago.

"After a long period I loosened the safety belt. There was a crash. I fell out."

Koshak said he stayed near the wreckage for quite a while and then wandered about looking for Toth. He found no trace of the pilot.

"At times I blacked out," Koshak continued. "I had dreams and hallucinations. Some times I had no idea where I was or what I was doing.

"I remember asking for a cigaret from a man I thought was standing beside me.

"He'd say, 'Sure, I got a cigaret.' Then I'd come to and there wouldn't be anyone within miles of me."

Building Firm And Three Baltimore Officials Indicted In Housing Probe

BALTIMORE, March 18. (AP)—A grand jury investigation of GI housing today brought the indictment of a building firm and three city officials on charges they conspired to cheat and defraud veterans.

The accusations were against Herman F. Lucke, Jr., former buildings engineer and now parks engineer for the city; Milton B. Malan, a city building inspector; Hanlon Homes, Inc., and five members of a family holding office in the firm—Edward A., Sidney, Harry, Julius and Esther Myerberg.

The name of a second building inspector could not be disclosed until he was arrested.

All the others posted $1,000 bond each.

Court attaches said the eight presentments returned today were but the first of the charges which will be made by the grand jury.

It was instructed five weeks ago to make an inquiry.

Some 1,900 veterans have informed their mortgage holders they will withhold further payments until adjustments are made.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation also is making an investigation here. Attorney General Tom Clark initiated similar federal action recently in Dallas, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and other cities.

In the basic presentment returned by the grand jury it charged that the builders and the city officials "conspired to violate and permit violation" of the city's building code and thereby enabled the builders "to cheat, defraud and illegially acquire the monies and properties of the purchasers."

The malfesance charge was that Lucke "corruptly failed, neglected and refused to perform and carry out his duties."

11 Russians Arrested By French Authorities

PARIS, France, March 19. (AP)—A spokesman for the Surete National (security police) said early today that 11 Russians had been arrested.

The arrests were made at the home of one of the group, Dimitri Odinetz, the spokesman said. The Communist newspaper Ce Soir identified Odinetz as a 70-year-old professor.

No further details were divulged.

Funeral Ship Sails

PARIS, March 18 (AP)—The United States Army transport John L. MacCarley sailed from Cherbourg today with 2,671 American war dead. Most of them were casualties of the Normandy campaign. The ship is due at New York March 30.

Join Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan, March 18 (AP)—The government announced tonight the states of Kharan, Lasbella and Makran have joined Pakistan. They are on the border between Pakistan and Iran.

ARABS CHARGE RUSSIA DESIRES COMMUNIST NATION IN PALESTINE

LAKE SUCCESS, March 18 (AP)—The chief Arab spokesman at United Nations headquarters charged today that Russia wants to create a Communist nation in Palestine.

This charge was made in a statement to the press by Faris El Khoury, Syria's delegate on the Security Council. He said Russia covets and has designs on Middle East oil resources now under American control.

It was the first time the Arabs have raised so openly a spectre of Communism in the Holy Land and the Middle East.

United Nations delegates speculated that the Arabs now would shift the emphasis of their attack on the Palestine partition plan to a fight against Communism.

Deanna Durbin's 1947 Income Was $323,479

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — New reports to the government showed today that Screen Actress Deanna Durbin had a 1947 income of $323,479.

Her tax on that would be about $200,000, an official of the Internal Revenue Bureau estimated.

Miss Durbin's income was among a number reported to the Securities Commission by corporations, in the form of amended fiscal reports. The reports varied as to time, since the corporations have different fiscal year endings, but all were for 12-month periods ending sometime in 1947.

French Deputies Slug It Out In Parliament

PARIS, March 18 (AP) — A session of France's upper house of Parliament ended in fist fighting today after a rightist deputy demanded the expulsion of Communists from the nation's atomic research council.

10 Airmen Killed In Crash Of B-29

TAMPA, Fla., March 18 (AP)—Ten airmen were killed and four injured today when a B-29 Superfortress crashed while landing on a fog-shrouded runway at MacDill Field.

Capt. George G. Byrnes, MacDill Field public information officer, said it was a "miracle" that anyone escaped.

The four survivors recalled hours afterwards that somehow they staggered from the burning ship shortly before it exploded. Their conditions were described as "good."

The Superfort from the Spokane, Wash., airbase struck the edge of the long runway in an isolated section of the field. The landing strip was thickly overlaid with industrial smoke and fog.

The craft hit the runway, bounced high into the air and burst into flames as it crashed. It exploded shortly afterwards.

The Superfort was piloted by First Lt. Roy M. Walsh. The crew was attached to the 92nd Bomb Squadron at Spokane and was on a navigational training flight. The plane's last stop was at Maxwell Field (Montgomery, Ala.)

The list of dead included Staff Sgt. Kenneth R. Burgan, Clear Springs, Md.

THREAT OF ATOM PLANT STRIKE TONIGHT EASES

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Atomic energy laboratory workers at Oak Ridge, Tennessee, today agreed to work beyond a Friday midnight strike deadline if their present pay and working conditions are continued in effect.

The pledge was made to President Truman in a telegram from the Atom Trades and Labor Council (AFL) and by James A. Brownlow, secretary-treasurer of the AFL Metal Trades Department.

70-Year-Old Man Admits He Wed Granddaughter

SALISBURY, N. C., March 18 (AP) —A 70-year-old man admitted today he married his 21-year-old granddaughter, two weeks ago.

Luther B. Freeman, the grandfather, and Hazel Wilson, both residents of a nearby rural community, were ordered held for trial on charges of incest.

Rowan County Court Judge J. Allan Dunn said Freeman admitted marrying his granddaughter March 7 at York, S. C. Freeman's attorney said the defendant did not know such a marriage was illegal.

Arab Gunners Kill Eight

JERUSALEM, March 18 (AP) — Arab gunners killed five British soldiers and three Jewish electricians today near Haifa.

Larger Army, Navy, Air Force Is Strongly Approved By Voters

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., March 18.—Speeding up of Soviet Russia's time-table for the "cold war" finds American voters ready to support immediate strengthening of the nation's military forces.

In its present mood the public would back demands made by former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes that the United States get an army in uniform not just on paper and that Air Force expansion be given first priority.

Also, it undoubtedly favors moves made last weekend by Secretary of Defense James Forrestal to streamline operations of the army, navy and air force.

In a nationwide survey completed just prior to the crisis in Czechoslovakia, representative voters in every section were asked:

"Do you think the United States should increase the size of its Army? Navy? Air Force?"

The answers:

	Yes	No	No opin.
Increase Army	61%	29%	10%
Increase Navy	63	26	11
Increase Air Force	74	17	9

One of the very first surveys ever conducted by the Institute asked exactly this same question in 1935. It showed the American voters were overwhelmingly in favor of stronger armed forces and particularly a stronger air force. This was at a time when Congress was whittling down military appropriations and when high military authorities were by no means convinced that air power would be important in the next war.

As a matter of fact the public in general has consistently been far out in front of the leaders in approving larger military establishments in the face of developing international crises.

Even when the issue is put on the more realistic basis of willingness to pay more taxes toward the upkeep of larger armed forces, the majority of voters still favor expansion. In the current survey a second question was as follows:

"Would you be willing to pay more money in taxes to support a larger Army? Navy? Air Force?"

The national answers:

	Yes	No	No opin.
Pay taxes for larger Army	55%	36%	9%
Pay taxes for larger Navy	55	35	10
Pay taxes for larger Air Force	63	28	9

Support for increasing the armed forces is fairly eveningly distributed throughout the population.

On the first question voters with college education are not quite as strongly inclined to want a larger army as those with less formal training. They vote more heavily, however, for a larger air force than the national average.

Veterans Only:

	Yes	No	opin.
Increase Army	64%	31%	5%
Increase Navy	65	29	6
Increase Air Force	78	18	4

The only geographical section giving less than average support to the increases is the West Central states, with the Southern states registering the highest proportionate vote of approval.

By age groups there is little variation with people over 50 years of age being slightly more in favor of increased strength than younger voters.

Previous Intstitute polls have shown the public overwhelmingly in favor of Universal Military Training and opposed to a reduction in military budgets.

Ridgeley Man Held In Stolen Car Case

Carl Liller, 25, 528 Columbia Avenue, was arrested here yesterday in what State Police termed the solution to a stolen car case that is expected to lead to the arrest of two other unidentified persons and two soldiers.

Authorities said the soldiers are believed to have stolen the automobile of Robert Abe, Ridgeley, W. Va., from South Centre Street Friday night and driven to Oakland, where they turned the automobile over to two civilians. Police said Liller was operating the machine when it wrecked at Deer Park Saturday.

Route 1 Driver Is Pinned Between Cars

John Engle, 19, Route 1, escaped possible serious leg injuries Wednesday night when he was pinned between two cars as a Maryland State trooper was giving him a ticket on a charge of failing to stop at a stop sign in Mt. Savage.

Trooper George E. Coddington said he and the Engle youth were standing in front of the police cruiser as he was using the vehicle's headlights to make out a ticket when the brakes on Engle's car gave away, trapping Engle between the vehicles. Engle was examined in Memorial Hospital and released.

Clark Seeks $5,000 Following Collision

A $5,000 damage suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Lionel L. Clark, through his attorney, Leslie J. Clark, against Lloyd N. Connor and John Funk, Middletown, Va.

The declaration alleges that about 3 p. m. September 30, Clark was a passenger in a car operated by Harry Welsh when a truck owned by Connor and driven by Funk on the highway between Barton and Westernport, collided with the Welsh car.

Clark claims he was injured about the back and limbs and that the injury has caused permanent disability.

Ridgeley Bricklayer Treated In Hospital

Marshall Valentine, 30, Ridgeley, a brick mason, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday morning after a piece of steel pierced his left index finger while he was using a hammer and chisel at work.

Admitted to Memorial Thursday were Lawrence McKay, 4-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Leonard McKay, 702 Baker Street, for treatment of a lacerated forehead suffered when a playmate struck him with a shovel.

Treated in the same hospital were Mrs. Thelma Street, 37, 54½ Marion Street, a city tax office employe, for a fractured left arm suffered in a fall at her home; Raymond Stallings, 51, 431 Grand Avenue, for possible back injuries suffered when he fell from bed in a B. and O. caboose, and Miss Eloise Cook, 18, Mt. Lake Park, for a fractured left arm suffered in a basketball game Monday.

Trooper George E. Coddington said he and the Engle youth were standing in front of the police cruiser as he was using the vehicle's headlights to make out a ticket when the brakes on Engle's car gave away, trapping Engle between the vehicles. Engle was examined in Memorial Hospital and released.

Clark Seeks $5,000 Following Collision

A $5,000 damage suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Lionel L. Clark, through his attorney, Leslie J. Clark, against Lloyd N. Connor and John Funk, Middletown, Va.

The declaration alleges that about 3 p. m. September 30, Clark was a passenger in a car operated by Harry Welsh when a truck owned by Connor and driven by Funk on the highway between Barton and Westernport, collided with the Welsh car.

Clark claims he was injured about the back and limbs and that the injury has caused permanent disability.

Marriage License

Brady Ernest Smith and Mary Margaret Wyant, both of Somerset, Pa.

Peter Paul Rubens' "Portrait of Isabella Brant," now belonging to the Cleveland Museum of Art, Cleveland, O., was his first wife, with whom he lived happily for 17 years. After her death he married her niece, Helene Fourment, whose picture he also painted and also her sister Susanna's.

Ridgeley Bricklayer Treated In Hospital

Marshall Valentine, 30, Ridgeley, a brick mason, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday morning after a piece of steel pierced his left index finger while he was using a hammer and chisel at work.

Admitted to Memorial Thursday were Lawrence McKay, 4-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Leonard McKay, 702 Baker Street, for treatment of a lacerated forehead suffered when a playmate struck him with a shovel.

Treated in the same hospital were Mrs. Thelma Street, 37, 54½ Marion Street, a city tax office employe, for a fractured left arm suffered in a fall at her home; Raymond Stallings, 51, 431 Grand Avenue, for possible back injuries suffered when he fell from bed in a B. and O. caboose, and Miss Eloise Cook, 13, Mt. Lake Park, for a fractured left arm suffered in a basketball game Monday.

Poultry Pathological Laboratory Will Be Located In Moorefield

State Grant Approved For Hardy Project

By MRS. KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD.—County Agent S. L. Dodd reported that the West Virginia Department of Agriculture has allocated $2,500 to $3,000 annually as salary and $2,500 for equipment for the proposed new Poultry Pathological Laboratory to be located at Moorefield. The report was made at the Lions Club meeting Monday night at Airport Inn.

J. B. McLaughlin, West Virginia commissioner of agriculture, wrote the letter confirming the grants for the laboratory. An immediate search for a qualified veterinarian to operate the laboratory is being made.

The laboratory will serve the poultry industry in this section as Hardy County is the largest broiler raising county in the state. At present, poultry raisers have to take sick or diseased fowls to the University at Morgantown for diagnosis in the event of disease in the flocks.

The new laboratory will be built on a site donated by the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Co-operative near their plant at the Town Ball Park.

Plan Minstrel Show

Rehearsals for the P-TA-Lions Club Minstrel Show to be held Thursday, April 15, in Moorefield High School Auditorium, are being held regularly under the direction of Miss Mae Gwen Mathews. The show will be the most elaborate ever presented in Moorefield with over 100 local people in the cast.

The girl dancers and singers have been practicing in the high school gym and the minstrels will start rehearsing this week. Twenty-five blackface comedians have already agreed to be present at the first rehearsal.

Solos will be sung by Wayne Wilson, W. J. Teets, J. E. Matson and Miss Molly Pownall and a male chorus of fifty will be featured. The advertising committee with C. H. Poole as chairman consists of C. R. Powers, R. E. Fisher and C. M. Bennett.

The board of directors of the Lions Club will meet tonight at the Board of Education offices to complete arrangements for re-registering the Moorefield Boy Scout Troops.

Representatives of the Weyerhaeuser Lumber Company showed a sound film on timber operations in the Northwest and timber conservation.

Mrs. Barr Dies

Mrs. Blanchetta Elizabeth Evans Barr, 76, died at the home of her son near Rig, Sunday. A funeral service was held Monday afternoon in the Kessel United Brethren Church with her pastor, Rev. S. J. Westfall, officiating. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Barr was the wife of Marion Beauregard Barr who died about two and a half years ago. She is survived by six daughters, Mrs. Ottie Hardy, Rig; Mrs. Parran Cowger, Petersburg; Mrs. Phil Riggleman and Mrs. Mary Hiser, Ridgeley Mrs. Paul Robinson, Rada; Mrs. Charles Cook, Keyser; five sons, Richard, Ruby and Victor, Rig; Walter, Keyser; Ed Barr, Dorcas; one brother, M. A. Evans, Flats; 58 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Clayton Dies

Mrs. Susan Simmons Clayton, 83, wife of Peola C. Clayton, died Monday, March 8. A funeral service was held March 10 at the home by Rev. Lowell Rodgers, Burlington. Interment was in Olivet Cemetery.

Ms. Clayton was born in Pendelton county. In addition to her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Walter Grapes; two sisters, Mrs. Rebecca McDowell, Burlington, and Mrs. Noah Ensfiler, Old Fields; and two brothers, Moab Simmons, Moorefield, and Siese Simmons, Upper Tract.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

There never has been a time when the man of the hour did it in fifty-nine minutes.

I see where Truman's agents say he never broke a promise. As vice-president he never made one.

The solidified south seems to be fatigued with the mail-order politician who come out in catalogue form. They have seen too many of those native sons who Pullman-platform the state with one hand on their hearts and the other on the bell-rope.

It is going to be right interesting when the crucial moment arrives and the south has to vote for somebody. It will be like the veteran julep drinker who proudly announced he had broken the mint habit.

American Churches And Polish Hospital

WARSAW—(AP)—Kascluszko Hospital, whose sponsors described it as an outpost of American medicine in international science, has been opened in the upper Silesian mining district.

Jointly established by the Unitarian Service Committee and the Polish National Insurance Board, it is a modern 300-bed hospital. It is specializing in surgery for miners. The American equipment cost $80,000.

In many states of the Union which require no vision tests for school children by law, up to 90 per cent of the children receive no attention to their visual apparatus at all.

Ecuador, South America, is the chief supplier of balsa, a tropical wood valued for its exceptional lightness, and used in planes and liferafts. Ecuador produces 90 per cent of the world's supply.

Unmarried women between 20 and 30 have three times as good a chance of marriage in the United States now as did women of the same ages in 1914, it has been estimated.

Help Uncle Sam And Budget By Making Chicken Salad

Uncle Sam has asked the chicken producers of the country to send their less-efficient laying hens to market to save 30 million bushels of grain which means a windfall for the alert meal-planner and a boon to bent and battered budgets. Stewed chicken can be a gourmet's dish, but a bonus meal lies here for the cook wise in the uses of unflavored gelatine.

Save a little of the broth and a cup of the chicken itself—then follow the recipe below for a bonus meal, one of the best jellied chicken salads you've ever eaten:

Jellied Chicken Salad

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water or stock
1½ cups hot chicken stock
½ teaspoonful salt
1 cup chicken, sliced or chopped
1 cup vegetables, cooked peas, string beans, beets, carrots, asparagus, etc.
½ pimiento or green pepper

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add to hot stock and stir until dissolved. Add salt and cool. Rinse a square mold in cold water, pour in a thin layer of the liquid jelly, let stiffen slightly and decorate with peppers and other vegetables. Arrange the thickening jelly, chicken and vegetables in layers and chill. Unmold on a bed of lettuce leaves and garnish with parsley and salad dressing.

A meat and vegetable dish in one. YIELD: 6 servings.

Save Work By Cooking For Two Meals At One Time

Cooking enough for two meals at one time is an excellent way to save time and work in the kitchen. Such things as soups and stews are believed by many to be even better when served the second day. When boiled potatoes are on the menu, a large enough quantity can be coked for frying the next day. Many puddings and salads are adapted to being prepared in advance, as are cookie doughs and many other foods.

The important thing to remember in cooking foods in advance is that when the cooking is finished they must be cooled quickly and refrigerated promptly to guard against the possibility of spoilage or food poisoning. This is especially necessary with such foods as soups and stews, as well as all cream-type desserts made with milk or eggs. To cool these foods more quickly, remove them from the range as soon as the cooking is finished. Set the utensil into a pan of cool water. When cooled to lukewarm, store in a covered container in the refrigerator.

An aid to cooking foods in advance is the use of porcelain enameled utensils. These utensils are known for their triple-duty service. Foods may be cooked, stored and reheated—all in the same enameled utensil. It is also convenient to have a number of auxiliary porcelain enameled refrigerator dishes of various sizes for storing leftovers.

Doesn't Take a Horoscope To Tell Who'll Have Successful Mornings

THERE'S a sign in the zodiac to match everybody's birthday and it's fun to try to find your fortune according to the stars. All will agree good fortune is hard to come by without good health, and good health begins each day with a good breakfast. A good breakfast as a prelude to a good morning is pictured here where a nourishing bowl of oatmeal is framed by each and every sign in the zodiac, and even the breakfast roll, like the new moon, is crescent-shaped for luck. How to be sure you've had a nutritious breakfast will be found elsewhere on this page.

Lenten Menus For Busy Homemakers

Homemakers never seem to have enough ideas for meatless dishes for Lenten meals. But it is really amazing how many, many excellent main dishes can be prepared from such foods as fish, eggs, dried vegetables or cereals. For example, there are hundreds of different kinds of edible fish and they can be made into a countless variety of delicious dishes.

The best way to assure successful Lenten meals is to plan each menu carefully. In this way a light, simple main dish can be bolstered with a favorite dessert, hot biscuits or muffins or an extra - special salad.

Bland Lenten foods often require an extra bit of seasoning or a tangy garnish to accent their mild flavor. Fish dishes, especially, will benefit by the addition of a tangy sauce or a tart garnish such as slices of lemon.

It's helpful when cooking fish to rely on porcelain enameled utensils to solve that often complained about problem of lingering odors on pots and pans. There are enameled utensils designed for frying, baking or steaming and the nonporous finish cannot absorb food odors. This finish makes the utensils easy to clean, too. All they require is a brief soaking and a simple soap and water cleaning.

Here are two Lenten menus which are certain to bring hearty applause from the family.

Baked haddock with bread stuffing
Lemon wedges Carrot sticks
Baked potatoes
Buttered green beans
Melba toast Butter
Cherry cobbler
Coffee Milk

Scald Milk In Double Boiler

When a recipe calls for scalded milk, play safe by heating it in the top part of a porcelain enameled double boiler over boiling water. This method eliminates possibility of scorching and the enameled utensil is easily cleaned.

A peculiar property of the turquoise is that it becomes grayish in color as it gives up its moisture. This led to a belief that its dullness foretold misfortune, and hence the Oriental proverb that the stone pales when the well-being of the owner is in danger. The best turquoise are found in Persia, Asia Minor, Turkestan and Siberia.

In Africa, Zulu women may have a divorce summons served on their husbands by paying $1.25 to a native commissioner. A week later they may look for a new man.

How babies and Mothers can enjoy Feeding Time Together
Mrs. Dan Gerber, whose second of five children was the inspiration for Gerber's Baby Foods.
When the time comes to start baby on Gerber's Strained Foods, feed him before his bottle or formula. A little healthy hunger makes this important step easier for you. After baby is used to the new food, you'll find feeding time will go smoothly with Gerber's!
Good reason why babies like Gerber's Strained Foods. Babies appreciate and need smooth, even texture in food—that's why Gerber's pays so much attention to uniform texture. And, of course, Gerber's is made to taste extra good.
Serve variety and you encourage good eating habits, say pediatricians. Gerber's makes fifteen kinds of strained foods for you to choose from. Every one of these quality foods is cooked the Gerber way with steam to preserve precious minerals and vitamins!
All this Gerber goodness now comes to you in glass!

Help Uncle Sam And Budget By Making Chicken Salad

Uncle Sam has asked the chicken producers of the country to send their less-efficient laying hens to market to save 30 million bushels of grain which means a windfall for the alert meal-planner and a boon to bent and battered budgets. Stewed chicken can be a gourmet's dish, but a bonus meal lies here for the cook wise in the uses of unflavored gelatine.

Save a little of the broth and a cup of the chicken itself—then follow the recipe below for a bonus meal, one of the best jellied chicken salads you've ever eaten:

Jellied Chicken Salad

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water or stock
1½ cups hot chicken stock
½ teaspoonful salt
1 cup chicken, sliced or chopped
1 cup vegetables, cooked peas, string beans, beets, carrots, asparagus, etc.
½ pimiento or green pepper

Soften gelatine in cold water. Add to hot stock and stir until dissolved. Add salt and cool. Rinse a square mold in cold water, pour in a thin layer of the liquid jelly, let stiffen slightly and decorate with peppers and other vegetables. Arrange the thickening jelly, chicken and vegetables in layers and chill. Unmold on a bed of lettuce leaves and garnish with parsley and salad dressing.

A meat and vegetable dish in one. YIELD: 6 servings.

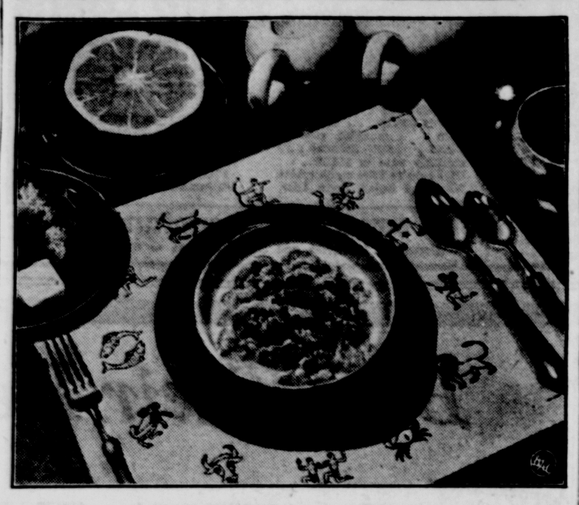
Save Work By Cooking For Two Meals At One Time

Cooking enough for two meals at one time is an excellent way to save time and work in the kitchen. Such things as soups and stews are believed by many to be even better when served the second day. When boiled potatoes are on the menu, a large enough quantity can be coked for frying the next day. Many puddings and salads are adapted to being prepared in advance, as are cookie doughs and many other foods.

The important thing to remember in cooking foods in advance is that when the cooking is finished they must be cooled quickly and refrigerated promptly to guard against the possibility of spoilage or food poisoning. This is especially necessary with such foods as soups and stews, as well as all cream-type desserts made with milk or eggs. To cool these foods more quickly, remove them from the range as soon as the cooking is finished. Set the utensil into a pan of cool water. When cooled to lukewarm, store in a covered container in the refrigerator.

An aid to cooking foods in advance is the use of porcelain enameled utensils. These utensils are known for their triple-duty service. Foods may be cooked, stored and reheated—all in the same enameled utensil. It is also convenient to have a number of auxiliary porcelain enameled refrigerator dishes of various sizes for storing leftovers.

Doesn't Take a Horoscope To Tell Who'll Have Successful Mornings



THERE'S a sign in the zodiac to match everybody's birthday and it's fun to try to find your fortune according to the stars. All will agree good fortune is hard to come by without good health, and good health begins each day with a good breakfast. A good breakfast as a prelude to a good morning is pictured here where a nourishing bowl of oatmeal is framed by each and every sign in the zodiac, and even the breakfast roll, like the new moon, is crescent-shaped for luck. How to be sure you've had a nutritious breakfast will be found elsewhere on this page.

Lenten Menus For Busy Homemakers

Homemakers never seem to have enough ideas for meatless dishes for Lenten meals. But it is really amazing how many, many excellent main dishes can be prepared from such foods as fish, eggs, dried vegetables or cereals. For example, there are hundreds of different kinds of edible fish and they can be made into a countless variety of delicious dishes.

The best way to assure successful Lenten meals is to plan each menu carefully. In this way a light, simple main dish can be bolstered with a favorite dessert, hot biscuits or muffins or an extra - special salad.

Bland Lenten foods often require an extra bit of seasoning or a tangy garnish to accent their mild flavor. Fish dishes, especially, will benefit by the addition of a tangy sauce or a tart garnish such as slices of lemon.

It's helpful when cooking fish to rely on porcelain enameled utensils to solve that often complained about problem of lingering odors on pots and pans. There are enameled utensils designed for frying, baking or steaming and the non-porous finish cannot absorb food odors. This finish makes the utensils easy to clean, too. All they require is a brief soaking and a simple soap and water cleaning.

Here are two Lenten menus which are certain to bring hearty applause from the family.

Baked haddock with bread stuffing
Lemon wedges Carrot sticks
Baked potatoes
Buttered green beans
Melba toast Butter
Cherry cobbler
Coffee Milk

Spiced apple juice
Creamed tuna fish on toast strips
Broiled tomato slices
Fresh frozen peas
Pickles Celery
Cup cakes

New Look For Easter Eggs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Make use of all the wonderful props that Eastertime offers you —eggs, chickens and bunnies — to whip up lovely surprises for your family.

Instead of just presenting the youngsters with a basket of colored eggs, jelly beans and chicken corn candy, add a different touch. Personalize the eggs by painting them with the youngsters' names, or a cottontail or a chick; paste on them confetti type seals, stars or bands of colored cellophane tape. Some people like to cover the whole egg with crepe paper and this, too, in colors of yellow or lavender or blue or green helps make a pretty addition to the Easter basket.

Eastertime also offers an opportunity to make your table decorations more charming and ingenious than usual.

Nice for favors are hard boiled eggs in beruffled egg cups. First paint the faces on the eggs with water colors using heart shape for mouth and circles for the eyes. If you aren't very handy with a paint brush, use lawyers' seals—cut in half—for the eyes, and a small round red seal for the lips. Crepe paper, yellow, brown, red or black, can be used for the doll's hair. Paste it on and curl the edges around a knitting needle.

To dress the ladies, cut a 2-inch center circle in an 8-inch paper doily. Slip over egg cup. Pinch in to fit waist to cup. Secure with cellophane tape. Tie 1-inch pastel ribbon around the waist in a bow. To make pert little hats, pinch in a 4-inch doily so the edges will ruffle. Then secure a few tiny flowers on top of each hat and paste to top of the egg at a jaunty angle.

If you have a pink, blue, yellow or pearl gray Irish linen tablecloth, by all means use it. Arrange a candle of contrasting color on either side of the table, and you will have a lovely picturesque Easter table.

A large centerpiece can be made, of course, if you have the time. Art or department stores can furnish you with directions for making a gay chick or a handsome bunny. Buy a small child's wheelbarrow, fill it up with colored eggs and place it with the bunny or the chick in the center of the table.

ALL SET FOR THE EASTER PARADE . . . Egg ladies with nipped-in egg-cup figures are whimsical table decorations. A pastel Irish linen tablecloth makes a lovely background.

I learned about bread from salads!

"For years I watched my family enjoy Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise on salads—so I tried spreading it on bread—and it's wonderful! Smooth, delicious, and a happy way to give my youngsters extra food energy. Saves money, too!"

Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise makes a hit with thousands of families because Mrs. Filbert first perfected the recipe for her family. Always tastes home-made . . . kitchen-fresh. Now real lemon juice adds a special tang.

So treat your family to this delicious new taste. Get Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise at your grocer's today.

SOCIAL LIFE should start early. Teach your child to play with others if you want him to be happy and normal.

Among those unfamiliar with operating motor cars on ice-covered streets, good drivers are more likely to have accidents than drivers have a false confidence in car performance that cannot be achieved on icy surfaces.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If the vegetables you bought at your grocer's are a bit wilted, soak them for an hour in cold water to which some vinegar or the juice of a lemon has been added.

Hot Corn Waffles Make Good Dish For Meatless Meal

What in the world am I going to feed the family for meatless dinner tonight? A question ever so many housewives are asking these days. But those final Lenten meals aren't hard to plan if you have a good, nourishing main dish around which to build, and we've a hint for you on a grand filler-upper that's bound to make a hit with your hungry horde. Dad and the youngsters will go for these Hot Corn Waffles and you'll go for their easy preparation.

Here's the secret—a box of fully-prepared waffle mix created exclusively for baking golden-brown waffles. Just add ½ to 1 cup drained canned corn and about ⅛ cup chopped green peppers to regular batter made with the waffle mix. We bet your waffle iron is going to work overtime filling orders for these taste-tempting waffles.

Quick Breakfast Treat Is Cinnemon Toast

To make everyday breakfasts less a habit and more a meal to be anticipated with pleasure, plan to serve the usual foods in a variety of ways. For example, just plain toast tends to become monotonous when eaten the same way day after day. But watch the new interest in still-sleepy eyes when you surprise the family with a plate of crunchy-sweet cinnamon toast.

Cinnamon toast takes only a few minutes longer to make than plain toast. Simply toast slices of bread and spread them generously with butter or margarine. Place, buttered side up, on an easy-to-clean porcelain enameled utility tray. For six slices of toast, mix three tablespoons of granulated sugar with one teaspoon of cinnamon and sprinkle on the buttered toast. Place in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about three minutes or broil until the sugar is melted. Serve immediately.

Save Time With Sandwich Spreads Made In Advance

Ideas for new sandwich fillings for the lunch box are always welcome, and especially so when the spread can be made in advance and stored in the refrigerator. If packing a lunch is a daily routine, it is convenient to have a number of small porcelain enameled refrigerator dishes for storing sandwich spreads. The spreads usually can be mixed right in the storage dishes, saving time and dish washing. The enameled containers are designed with flat covers so that they require a minimum of refrigerator space.

Sweet sandwich spreads are always a favorite with children, and this Fruit-Nut filling can be used frequently because it is as nutritious as it is tasty.

Fruit-Nut Sandwich Spread

1 cup walnut meats
1 cup seeded raisins
¾ cup plum or currant jelly
1½ tablespoons orange juice

Using a grinder, put the walnuts through the coarse blade and the raisins through the medium-fine blade. Blend together with the jelly and orange juice. Makes about 1 cup.

Making Fruit-Nut Roll Is Child's Play

The next time the children want to make candy, let them mix up this Fruit-Nut Roll which is easy to prepare and requires no cooking. Being a mixture of fruits, nuts and peanut butter, the candy is entirely appropriate for between meal nibbling for the children as well as adults.

Fruit-Nut Roll

½ cup pitted dates
1 cup seeded raisins
½ cup dried apricots
½ cup walnut meats
¾ cup peanut butter
¼ cup confectioner's suger

Mix dates, raisins, apricots and nuts in porcelain enameled mixing bowl. Put them through the food chopper, using coarse blade. Add peanut butter and sugar and mix thoroughly. If mixture seems dry add 2 or 3 tablespoons of orange juice. Shape into rolls about ¾-inch thick and roll in confectioner's sugar. Wrap in waxed paper and let stand in the refrigerator about 2 hours. Cut into thin slices. Makes about 60 pieces.

New Look For Easter Eggs

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Make use of all the wonderful props that Eastertime offers you—eggs, chickens and bunnies — to whip up lovely surprises for your family.

Instead of just presenting the youngsters with a basket of colored eggs, jelly beans and chicken corn candy, add a different touch. Personalize the eggs by painting them with the youngsters' names, or a cottontail or a chick; paste on them confetti type seals, stars or bands of colored cellophane tape. Some people like to cover the whole egg with crepe paper and this, too, in colors of yellow or lavender or blue or green helps make a pretty addition to the Easter basket.

Eastertime also offers an opportunity to make your table decorations more charming and ingenious than usual.

Nice for favors are hard boiled eggs in beruffled egg cups. First paint the faces on the eggs with water colors using heart shape for mouth and circles for the eyes. If you aren't very handy with a paint brush, use lawyers' seals—cut in half—for the eyes, and a small round red seal for the lips. Crepe paper, yellow, brown, red or black, can be used for the doll's hair. Paste it on and curl the edges around a knitting needle.

To dress the ladies, cut a 2-inch center circle in an 8-inch paper doily. Slip over egg cup. Pinch in to fit waist to cup. Secure with cellophane tape. Tie 1-inch pastel ribbon around the waist in a bow. To make pert little hats, pinch in a 4-inch doily so the edges will ruffle. Then secure a few tiny flowers on top of each hat and paste to top of the egg at a jaunty angle.

If you have a pink, blue, yellow or pearl gray Irish linen tablecloth, by all means use it. Arrange a candle of contrasting color on either side of the table, and you will have a lovely picturesque Easter table.

A large centerpiece can be made, of course, if you have the time. Art or department stores can furnish you with directions for making a gay chick or a handsome bunny. Buy a small child's wheelbarrow, fill it up with colored eggs and place it with the bunny or the chick in the center of the table.

ALL SET FOR THE EASTER PARADE . . . Egg ladies with nipped-in egg-cup figures are whimsical table decorations. A pastel Irish linen tablecloth makes a lovely background.

I learned about bread from salads!

"For years I watched my family enjoy Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise on salads—so I tried spreading it on bread—and it's wonderful! Smooth, delicious, and a happy way to give my youngsters extra food energy. Saves money, too!"

Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise makes a hit with thousands of families because Mrs. Filbert first perfected the recipe for her family. Always tastes home-made . . . kitchen-fresh. Now real lemon juice adds a special tang.

So treat your family to this delicious new taste. Get Mrs. Filbert's Mayonnaise at your grocer's today.

Hot Corn Waffles Make Good Dish For Meatless Meal

What in the world am I going to feed the family for meatless dinner tonight? A question ever so many housewives are asking these days. But those final Lenten meals aren't hard to plan if you have a good, nourishing main dish around which to build, and we've a hint for you on a grand filler-upper that's bound to make a hit with your hungry horde. Dad and the youngsters will go for these Hot Corn Waffles and you'll go for their easy preparation.

Here's the secret—a box of fully-prepared waffle mix created exclusively for baking golden-brown waffles. Just add ½ to 1 cup drained canned corn and about ¼ cup chopped green peppers to regular batter made with the waffle mix. We bet your waffle iron is going to work overtime filling orders for these taste-tempting waffles.

Quick Breakfast Treat Is Cinnemon Toast

To make everyday breakfasts less a habit and more a meal to be anticipated with pleasure, plan to serve the usual foods in a variety of ways. For example, just plain toast tends to become monotonous when eaten the same way day after day. But watch the new interest in still-sleepy eyes when you surprise the family with a plate of crunchy-sweet cinnamon toast.

Cinnamon toast takes only a few minutes longer to make than plain toast. Simply toast slices of bread and spread them generously with butter or margarine. Place, buttered side up, on an easy-to-clean porcelain enameled utility tray. For six slices of toast, mix three tablespoons of granulated sugar with one teaspoon of cinnamon and sprinkle on the buttered toast. Place in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about three minutes or broil until the sugar is melted. Serve immediately.

Save Time With Sandwich Spreads Made In Advance

Ideas for new sandwich fillings for the lunch box are always welcome, and especially so when the spread can be made in advance and stored in the refrigerator. If packing a lunch is a daily routine, it is convenient to have a number of small porcelain enameled refrigerator dishes for storing sandwich spreads. The spreads usually can be mixed right in the storage dishes, saving time and dish washing. The enameled containers are designed with flat covers so that they require a minimum of refrigerator space.

Sweet sandwich spreads are always a favorite with children, and this Fruit-Nut filling can be used frequently because it is as nutritious as it is tasty.

Fruit-Nut Sandwich Spread

1 cup walnut meats
1 cup seeded raisins
¾ cup plum or currant jelly
1½ tablespoons orange juice

Using a grinder, put the walnuts through the coarse blade and the raisins through the medium-fine blade. Blend together with the jelly and orange juice. Makes about 1 cup.

Time-Old Custom Of Ham For Easter Has Lost None Of Its Tradition

The time-old custom of ham for Easter feasts has lost none of its tradition today. It's still the favorite meat and will be the center of interest on tables coast-to-coast this Easter!

It would be interesting to peek in on all the hams and see how they're garnished—some elbaorately trimmed,others simply so, but all masterpieces in their own right, looking as though the Easter Bunny had a touch in the creation.

Although elegant looking and delicious to taste, ham is nevertheless very easy to prepare, requiring little effort on the part of the chief cook. The beautiful glaze is the artistic touch, and a secret to remember is that of pouring off the drippings before topping the ham with the glaze. Then as glaze runs into the pan it will not become over-diluted with fat which would prevent it from sticking to the ham as you dipped it up and over the meat again and again.

Another secret for beautiful glazing is to do it at the same low temperature (325 degrees F.) at which you cook the ham. Then it will be the kind of glaze that "slowly put on . . . will stay on!"

Hams are plentiful now. For a feast with eight or more guests you can buy a smoked ham which states right on the wrapper "cook before eating", or you can buy a cooked one that states plainly "ready to eat" with directions right on the wrapper for heating and glazing. Of course the real treat for ease in preparation would be the boneless all-ready-to-eat ham. Not a bit of waste. And remember, too, that the shank or butt halves are good buys for the 4-5 member family. The shank half or end always costs a few cents less per pound than the butt half, yet carves more easily and has less bone.

So, here's Happy Easter to you—with directions for cooking your favorite meat!

BROWN SUGAR GLAZED HAM WITH EASTER EGGS

Bake half ham according to direction below. Brown sugar glaze adds a delightful finish. Use 1 cup brown sugar to ½ cup corn syrup and spoon over the ham until it's golden brown. Use waxy green leaves 'longside and top them with these interesting Easter Eggs—so easy to make and so pretty! First, shell hard cooked eggs, then dip them into food coloring. Clever trick is to prepare 3 tea cups of food coloring—one peach, one lemon, and one turquoise. The coloring is inexpensive and comes in packages labeled Easter Egg Food Coloring. Now you can make 2 eggs of each color—or as many as you wish. Thin one package cream cheese with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and flute through pastry tube around eggs. Mighty tasty! Nestle them around the ham in fresh greens or shiny galax leaves.

HOW TO BAKE A HAM

Remove wrapping from ham, but do not remove rind. Rewrap loosely in inside glassine wrapping paper or heavy waxed paper. Place fat side up on rack in any shallow uncovered baking pan. (Place butt or shank end of ham cut side down on rack.) Bake in 325 degrees F. oven for length of time as follows:

Wt. of Ham	If ham is rm. temp.	If ham is chilled
10 to 12 lbs.	*18	*20-22
14 to 16 lbs.	16	18-20
Over 16 lbs.	14-15	16-18
Half Ham	20-25	24-37

*min. per lb.

Cooked hams should only be reheated 10 minutes per pound.

If meat thermometer is used, remove ham when the internal temperature reaches 150 to 155 degrees F. In inserting the thermometer, be sure the bulk of the thermometer reaches the center of the thickest part of the meat away from the bone.

Half an hour to 45 minutes before done, remove paper and rind, score fat, stud with cloves if desired, and cover with a glaze. Finish baking at the same low temperature (325 degrees F.) until well glazed.

EASTER BREAKFAST

HOT CROSS BUNS . . . Make 'em at home . . .

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you have never made Hot Cross buns, do try them this year. There's nothing like having this good Easter bread come out of your own kitchen. Somehow any product made with yeast gives the cook a very special sense of accomplishment and the family a lot of enjoyment.

We chose the following Hot Cross bun recipe because you can make it well in advance, store it in the refrigerator and take out a portion at a time for fresh baking. Your family and friends will love the buns for a special treat at breakfast or supper; and if guests drop in they're wonderful to serve with coffee.

We used to love to sprinkle confectioners' sugar—our idea of fairy snow!—over Hot Cross buns and hot doughnuts when we were children. And we were always thrilled to use my mother's large, hand-painted china sugar-shakers.

Hot Cross Buns, Refrigerator Style

⅔ cup light brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup butter or fortified margarine plus additional for brushing bun tops
1 cup water
1 cup milk
2 yeast cakes
¼ cup lukewarm water
9 cups (about) sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup mixed, thinly sliced citron, candied cherries or pineapple
2 eggs, well beaten

To prepare: Add brown sugar, salt and butter or fortified margarine to 1 cup water and milk which have been brought to boiling; stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Crumble the yeast cakes into the ¼ cup lukewarm (never hot) water; stir until dissolved. Add this to the first liquid. Measure 4 cups of the sifted flour into a large mixing bowl; add the cinnamon and the fruit. Mix, then pour the liquid into the center of the flour and add the well beaten eggs; stir, then beat until well mixed. Mix in sufficient flour to make a soft but not sticky dough; this usually takes from 3 to 4 cups. Do not knead. Remove the dough from the mixing bowl and shape into a smooth ball; place this in a well-greased bowl, turning it around and around in the bowl until the entire ball is well-greased. (This prevents the dough from drying out and becoming crusty.) Cover the bowl with waxed paper or a plastic bowl cover and store in the refrigerator until needed. This dough will keep well for a week, allowing for small bakings as desired.

To bake: Remove the desired portion of the dough from the bowl, returning the remainder to the refrigerator. Knead on lightly-floured board until dough becomes elastic to the touch. Shape into individual small rolls. Use scissors to cut a cross in the top of each one, greasing the cross well. Arrange in a greased baking pan either close together or spaced an inch apart. Allow these to rise until double in bulk (from 2½ to 3 hours) in a warm (never hot) place. Bake in a moderate (375F.) oven from 20 to 30 minutes until well baked through and browned on top. Cool. Glaze the cross on each with the following frosting.

Hot Cross Bun Glaze

½ cup confectioners' sugar
Water, milk, orange or lemon juice
Vanilla

Rub confectioners' sugar through a fine sieve to remove any lumps. Gradually stir in sufficient water, milk, orange or lemon juice to make a glaze that will spread rather thickly; add only a little liquid at a time. If water or mik are used instead of fruit juices ¼ teaspoon or more of vanilla may be added for flavoring. If the orange or lemon juice are used they may be added separately or combined.

Time-Old Custom Of Ham For Easter Has Lost None Of Its Tradition

The time-old custom of ham for Easter feasts has lost none of its tradition today. It's still the favorite meat and will be the center of interest on tables coast-to-coast this Easter!

It would be interesting to peek in on all the hams and see how they're garnished—some elbaorately trimmed,others simply so, but all masterpieces in their own right, looking as though the Easter Bunny had a touch in the creation.

Although elegant looking and delicious to taste, ham is nevertheless very easy to prepare, requiring little effort on the part of the chief cook. The beautiful glaze is the artistic touch, and a secret to remember is that of pouring off the drippings before topping the ham with the glaze. Then as glaze runs into the pan it will not become over-diluted with fat which would prevent it from sticking to the ham as you dipped it up and over the meat again and again.

Another secret for beautiful glazing is to do it at the same low temperature (325 degrees F.) at which you cook the ham. Then it will be the kind of glaze that "slowly put on . . . will stay on!"

Hams are plentiful now. For a feast with eight or more guests you can buy a smoked ham which states right on the wrapper "cook before eating", or you can buy a cooked one that states plainly "ready to eat" with directions right on the wrapper for heating and glazing. Of course the real treat for ease in preparation would be the boneless all-ready-to-eat ham. Not a bit of waste. And remember, too, that the shank or butt halves are good buys for the 4-5 member family. The shank half or end always costs a few cents less per pound than the butt half, yet carves more easily and has less bone.

So, here's Happy Easter to you—with directions for cooking your favorite meat!

BROWN SUGAR GLAZED HAM WITH EASTER EGGS

Bake half ham according to direction below. Brown sugar glaze adds a delightful finish. Use 1 cup brown sugar to ½ cup corn syrup and spoon over the ham until it's golden brown. Use waxy green leaves 'longside and top them with these interesting Easter Eggs—so easy to make and so pretty! First, shell hard cooked eggs, then dip them into food coloring. Clever trick is to prepare 3 tea cups of food coloring—one peach, one lemon, and one turquoise. The coloring is inexpensive and comes in packages labeled Easter Egg Food Coloring. Now you can make 2 eggs of each color—or as many as you wish. Thin one package cream cheese with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and flute through pastry tube around eggs. Mighty tasty! Nestle them around the ham in fresh greens or shiny galax leaves.

HOW TO BAKE A HAM

Remove wrapping from ham, but do not remove rind. Rewrap loosely in inside glassine wrapping paper or heavy waxed paper. Place fat side up on rack in any shallow uncovered baking pan. (Place butt or shank end of ham cut side down on rack.) Bake in 325 degrees F. oven for length of time as follows:

	TIME TABLE
Wt. of Ham	If ham is rm. temp.	If ham is chilled
10 to 12 lbs.	*18	*20-22
14 to 16 lbs.	16	18-20
Over 16 lbs.	14-15	16-18
Half Ham	20-25	24-37

*min. per lb.

Cooked hams should only be reheated 10 minutes per pound.

If meat thermometer is used, remove ham when the internal temperature reaches 150 to 155 degrees F. In inserting, the thermometer, be sure the bulk of the thermometer reaches the center of the thickest part of the meat away from the bone.

Half an hour to 45 minutes before done, remove paper and rind, score fat, stud with cloves if desired, and cover with a glaze. Finish baking at the same low temperature (325 degrees F.) until well glazed.

EASTER BREAKFAST

HOT CROSS BUNS . . . Make 'em at home . . .

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you have never made Hot Cross buns, do try them this year. There's nothing like having this good Easter bread come out of your own kitchen. Somehow any product made with yeast gives the cook a very special sense of accomplishment and the family a lot of enjoyment.

We chose the following Hot Cross bun recipe because you can make it well in advance, store it in the refrigerator and take out a portion at a time for fresh baking. Your family and friends will love the buns for a special treat at breakfast or supper; and if guests drop in they're wonderful to serve with coffee.

We used to love to sprinkle confectioners' sugar—our idea of fairy snow!—over Hot Cross buns and hot doughnuts when we were children. And we were always thrilled to use my mother's large, hand-painted china sugar-shakers.

Hot Cross Buns, Refrigerator Style

⅔ cup light brown sugar
2 teaspoons salt
⅓ cup butter or fortified margarine plus additional for brushing bun tops
1 cup water
1 cup milk
2 yeast cakes
¼ cup lukewarm water
8 cups (about) sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup seedless raisins
½ cup mixed, thinly sliced citron, candied cherries or pineapple
2 eggs, well beaten

To prepare: Add brown sugar, salt and butter or fortified margarine to 1 cup water and milk which have been brought to boiling; stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Crumble the yeast cakes into the ¼ cup lukewarm (never hot) water; stir until dissolved. Add this to the first liquid. Measure 4 cups of the sifted flour into a large mixing bowl; add the cinnamon and the fruit. Mix, then pour the liquid into the center of the flour and add the well beaten eggs; stir, then beat until well mixed. Mix in sufficient flour to make a soft but not sticky dough; this usually takes from 3 to 4 cups. Do not knead. Remove the dough from the mixing bowl and shape into a smooth ball; place this in a well-greased bowl, turning it around and around in the bowl until the entire ball is well-greased. (This prevents the dough from drying out and becoming crusty.) Cover the bowl with waxed paper or a plastic bowl cover and store in the refrigerator until needed. This dough will keep well for a week, allowing for small bakings as desired.

To bake: Remove the desired portion of the dough from the bowl, returning the remainder to the refrigerator. Knead on lightly-floured board until dough becomes elastic to the touch. Shape into individual small rolls. Use scissors to cut a cross in the top of each one, greasing the cross well. Arrange in a greased baking pan either close together or spaced an inch apart. Allow these to rise until double in bulk (from 2½ to 3 hours) in a warm (never hot) place. Bake in a moderate (375F.) oven from 20 to 30 minutes until well baked through and browned on top. Cool. Glaze the cross on each with the following frosting.

Hot Cross Bun Glaze

½ cup confectioners' sugar
Water, milk, orange or lemon juice
Vanilla

Rub confectioners' sugar through a fine sieve to remove any lumps. Gradually stir in sufficient water, milk, orange or lemon juice to make a glaze that will spread rather thickly; add only a little liquid at a time. If water or mik are used instead of fruit juices ¼ teaspoon or more of vanilla may be added for flavoring. If the orange or lemon juice are used they may be added separately or combined.

Pantry Shelf Dinners Mean Easy Entertaining

A well-stocked pantry shelf will serve you well in the event of unexpected guests or on those occasions when you arrive home from a shopping trip and find you've just a few minutes to prepare dinner for a hungry family.

Many homemakers find that the best plan is to reserve one shelf in the pantry for the makings of almost complete emergency meals. Sit down with a pencil and note pad and make a list of about a half dozen meals that could be quickly prepared from canned and packaged foods. This will take a bit of planning, but that pantry shelf will be a lifesaver the next time an emergency arises.

Use Only For Emergencies

Make it a rule that the food on this shelf is to be used only for special occasions and whenever an item is used be certain that it goes on the very next market list.

Use Convenient Utensils

Teaming quickly-cooked foods with even-heating and easy-to-clean porcelain enameled utensils will mean timesaving meals that are a pleasure to prepare and to eat. Just as an example, here is one dinner that comes almost entirely from the pantry shelf.

Pantry-Shelf Dinner

Chicken a la king with peas
Toast
Cranberry sauce
Pickles Olives
Gingerbread upside-down cake
Coffee

The chicken a la king, peas, cranberry sauce, pickles, olives, and the apricots for the cake all come from cans. The gingerbread mix comes in a package.

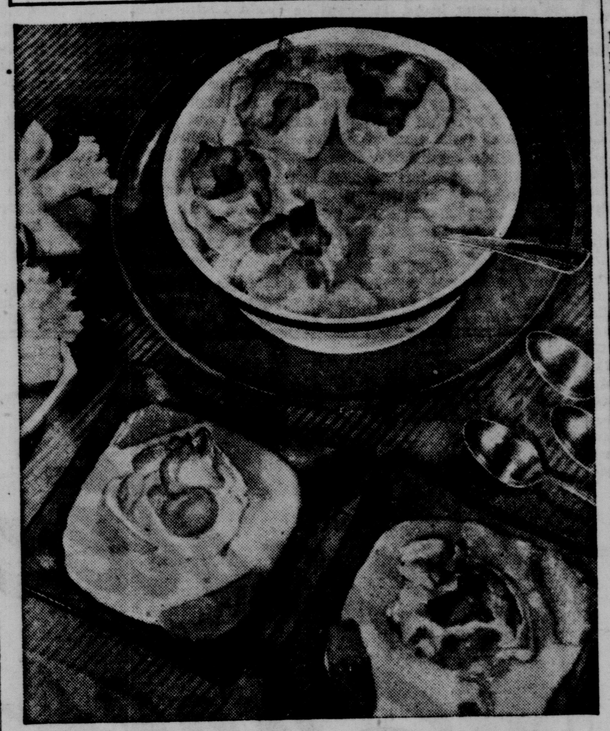
Mix the cicken a la king with a small can of peas in the top of a porcelain enameled double boiler. Heat over boiling water and serve over buttered toast.

To make the gingerbread upside-down cake, arrange drained apricot halves in the bottom of a greased porcelain enameled baking pan. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Heat slowly until brown sugar is melted. Pour the gingerbread batter over the fruit mixture and bake about 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from pan while hot and serve bottomside up.

Use For Stale Cake

That slightly stale pound or sponge cake in the cake box can become a very good dessert. Place slices of the cake in the top of a porcelain enameled double boiler and heat over boiling water for about ten minutes. Serve topped with hot chocolate or butterscotch sauce.

Orange Meringue Pudding



A fluffy meringue topping gives this easy-to-make pudding a springlike air. To make, prepare a package of vanilla pudding mix according to the directions on the package. Cool. Fold in four oranges, peeled and sliced. Pour into a small porcelain enameled pudding pan. Top with puffs of meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff and folding in three tablespoons sugar. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) for about 15 minutes until delicately browned. Makes 5 servings.

To save time and dishwashing, reheat leftover foods in the same porcelain enameled containers in which they are stored in the refrigerator. To allow the container to reach room temperature, remove from the refrigerator a few minptes befoe it is to be placed on the range.

Encourage Children's Desire To Cook

Little girls (and little boys, too) love to play with kitchen pots and pans even before they learn to walk, and toddlers thoroughly enjoy every opportunity to "help" mother in the kitchen. It is a wise mother who takes time to nourish this childish enthusiasm into a real and permanent interest in cooking and homemaking.

Until children are old enough to use a range by themselves, they wil be content with helping to mix cake batter, rolling out little cookies and pies and working with mother on countless other food preparation tasks.

When children are a little older, they will delight in making simple dishes all by themselves. Careful supervision from mother will prevent any possibility of accidents and will assure results of which the small cook can be justly proud.

Children will love to have a few cooking utensils of their very own and a special place to store them. Little girls, as well as their mothers, like the gleaming white appearance of porcelain enameled cooking utensils with their atractive red or black trim. A small saucepan, a mixing bowl or two and a pudding pan might be the start of an inexpensive set. Because enameledware is so easy to clean, the washing of the pots and pans will be simpler, too.

The first cooking lesson might be the preparation of cocoa for the whole family. Here is a simple recipe which can be made easily with mother's help:

Hot Cocoa

3 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup hot water
3 cups milk

Mix cocoa and sugar in top part of porcelain enameled double boiler. Add hot water and stir. Place over boiling water and cook 10 minutes. Add milk slowly and cook 10 more minutes. Stir thoroughly before serving. Serve with a marshmallow in each cup. Makes 5 servings.

Baked Apple Variation

For a dessert that has a tangy flavor, core unpeeled baking apples and place them in a porcelain enameled baking pan. Fill the centers of the apples with orange marmalade and sprinkle the tops with granulated sugar. Add a little water to the bottom of the pan and bake until tender. Serve with cream.

New Type Hamburger Will Thrill Teen-Agers

This "hot sandwich in a jiffy" idea is certain to please the younger crowd when they gather at your house for something to eat after a movie or an evening of bowling.

Five-Minute Hamburger

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8 slices bread
Butter or margarine
Prepared mustard

Combine beef, onion, salt and pepper and mix thoroughly. Toast bread on one side. Spread untoasted side with mustard, then with butter. Spread each slice with the ground beef mixture, spreading all the way to the edges of the bread. Arrange on a porcelain enameled tray and broil for 5 to 7 minutes. (The surface of the meat should be three inches below the source of heat.) Makes 8 open-faced sandwiches.

Refrigerator Tip

Leafy green vegetables lose food value and flavor unless they are promptly refrigerated when they are brought from the market. Wash the vegetables and remove withered leaves or inedible parts. Drain and place in a covered porcelain enameled refrigerator dish. The vegetables will be crisp and fresh when it's time to use them.

Pantry Shelf Dinners Mean Easy Entertaining

A well-stocked pantry shelf will serve you well in the event of unexpected guests or on those occasions when you arrive home from a shopping trip and find you have just a few minutes to prepare dinner for a hungry family.

Many homemakers find that the best plan is to reserve one shelf in the pantry for the makings of almost complete emergency meals. Sit down with a pencil and note pad and make a list of about a half dozen meals that could be quickly prepared from canned and packaged foods. This will take a bit of planning, but that pantry shelf will be a lifesaver the next time an emergency arises.

Use Only For Emergencies

Make it a rule that the food on this shelf is to be used only for special occasions and whenever an item is used be certain that it goes on the very next market list.

Use Convenient Utensils

Teaming quickly-cooked foods with even-heating and easy-to-clean porcelain enameled utensils will mean timesaving meals that are a pleasure to prepare and to eat. Just as an example, here is one dinner that comes almost entirely from the pantry shelf.

Pantry-Shelf Dinner

Chicken a la king with peas
Toast
Cranberry sauce
Pickles Olives
Gingerbread upside-down cake
Coffee

The chicken a la king, peas, cranberry sauce, pickles, olives, and the apricots for the cake all come from cans. The gingerbread mix comes in a package.

Mix the cicken a la king with a small can of peas in the top of a porcelain enameled double boiler. Heat over boiling water and serve over buttered toast.

To make the gingerbread upside-down cake, arrange drained apricot halves in the bottom of a greased porcelain enameled baking pan. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Heat slowly until brown sugar is melted. Pour the gingerbread batter over the fruit mixture and bake about 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove from pan while hot and serve bottomside up.

Use For Stale Cake

That slightly stale pound or sponge cake in the cake box can become a very good dessert. Place slices of the cake in the top of a porcelain enameled double boiler and heat over boiling water for about ten minutes. Serve topped with hot chocolate or butterscotch sauce.

Orange Meringue Pudding

A fluffy meringue topping gives this easy-to-make pudding a springlike air. To make, prepare a package of vanilla pudding mix according to the directions on the package. Cool. Fold in four oranges, peeled and sliced. Pour into a small porcelain enameled pudding pan. Top with puffs of meringue made by beating two egg whites until stiff and folding in three tablespoons sugar. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) for about 15 minutes until delicately browned. Makes 5 servings.

To save time and dishwashing, reheat leftover foods in the same porcelain enameled containers in which they are stored in the refrigerator. To allow the container to reach room temperature, remove from the refrigerator a few minptes befoe it is to be placed on the range.

Encourage Children's Desire To Cook

Little girls (and little boys, too) love to play with kitchen pots and pans even before they learn to walk, and toddlers thoroughly enjoy every opportunity to "help" mother in the kitchen. It is a wise mother who takes time to nourish this childish enthusiasm into a real and permanent interest in cooking and homemaking.

Until children are old enough to use a range by themselves, they wil be content with helping to mix cake batter, rolling out little cookies and pies and working with mother on countless other food preparation tasks.

When children are a little older, they will delight in making simple dishes all by themselves. Careful supervision from mother will prevent any possibility of accidents and will assure results of which the small cook can be justly proud.

Children will love to have a few cooking utensils of their very own and a special place to store them. Little girls, as well as their mothers, like the gleaming white appearance of porcelain enameled cooking utensils with their atractive red or black trim. A small saucepan, a mixing bowl or two and a pudding pan might be the start of an inexpensive set. Because enameledware is so easy to clean, the washing of the pots and pans will be simpler, too.

The first cooking lesson might be the preparation of cocoa for the whole family. Here is a simple recipe which can be made easily with mother's help:

Hot Cocoa

3 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons sugar
½ cup hot water
3 cups milk

Mix cocoa and sugar in top part of porcelain enameled double boiler. Add hot water and stir. Place over boiling water and cook 10 minutes. Add milk slowly and cook 10 more minutes. Stir thoroughly before serving. Serve with a marshmallow in each cup. Makes 5 servings.

Baked Apple Variation

For a dessert that has a tangy flavor, core unpeeled baking apples and place them in a porcelain enameled baking pan. Fill the centers of the apples with orange marmalade and sprinkle the tops with granulated sugar. Add a little water to the bottom of the pan and bake until tender. Serve with cream.

New Type Hamburger Will Thrill Teen-Agers

This "hot sandwich in a jiffy" idea is certain to please the younger crowd when they gather at your house for something to eat after a movie or an evening of bowling.

Five-Minute Hamburger

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8 slices bread
Butter or margarine
Prepared mustard

Combine beef, onion, salt and pepper and mix thoroughly. Toast bread on one side. Spread untoasted side with mustard, then with butter. Spread each slice with the ground beef mixture, spreading all the way to the edges of the bread. Arrange on a porcelain enameled tray and broil for 5 to 7 minutes. (The surface of the meat should be three inches below the source of heat.) Makes 8 open-faced sandwiches.

Refrigerator Tip

Leafy green vegetables lose food value and flavor unless they are promptly refrigerated when they are brought from the market. Wash the vegetables and remove withered leaves or inedible parts. Drain and place in a covered porcelain enameled refrigerator dish. The vegetables will be crisp and fresh when it's time to use them.

The Weeder's Guide

by KATE PERKINS

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y.—If I had Alladin's lamp, I'd wish for only two things today: a little greenhouse all my own and a gardening wardrobe that would make me look like those girls in the illustrations.

It would be heaven to have a little glass house in a protected spot with no worries about sunlight. I've been measuring and rearranging tables for a week so I can take advantage of every inch of southern window space for my two seed flats.

This is the time of the year when everything, indoors and out, wants attention. With remarkable discipline and fortitude, I'm focusing on the problem of annual borders. My major difficulty is that I want to plant too many different things. Most annual seeds can be started now, so this is the time for desicion.

Annuals in the first place are highly personal things, and an annual border is as individual as handwriting. People develop borders for color, for fragrance, for show, for cutting. You can have red, white, pink, yellow or blue borders. Anyway, a border is something you develop yourself, filling it with flowers, colors and effects that appeal to you. There are even people who have marigold gardens, or just rose gardens.

I've got to devote some time to vegetables as well as flowers, and as a week-end gardener, I'm planning my border for both cutting and effect outside.

My choices for this year are alyssum, verbena, marigold, zinnia, larkspur, shirley poppy, snapdragon, carnation, calendula, aster, dianthus, scabiosa.

I must have mignonette, candytuft, stock, ageratum, phlox, salpiglossis, violas and petunias. And portulaca, for it's my very favorite flower and I stick it around all over the place, even in the vegetable garden. I am also going in strong for nicotiana, and Johnny-Jump-Up.

And probably, before I'm through, I'll get some other seeds planted—and wonder later where to put them. I'm planting several types of marigolds, more than two types of zinnias and so on. Life would be a lot simpler for the gardener if the world of flowers were smaller. The choice is limitless.

With all the ingenuity our American designers have shown I should think someone would have invented a gardening costume that was right for gardening. Overalls are about the best produced so far, and they look pretty bad after more than a couple of hours of work. Slacks, if they fit decently, are uncomfortable and usually too warm. Shorts are too short. Levis—those blue denim work pants dudes made popular during summer vacationing at ranches—are impossible.

Hearing my complaints, designer Peg Newton suggested the other day modifying and adapting Dutchman's breeches to gardening jeans. It might be attractive and even chic.

The only shoes to wear are sturdy, rubber-soled oxfords that give one a bobby-soxer look. No one has discovered a way to ease my annual pain and suffering as I drop from high heels into flats.

My only suggestion on tops is to start the day wearing a halter under a long-sleeved shirt, sweater or blouse. As the sun warms the gardener, peel down to the halter and start acquiring a burn. The advantage is that a resulting coat of tan is at least even. One year I never did erase an arm and neck line that burned in when I was wearing a T-shirt with short sleeves and round neck.

I think one might as well be reconciled to tanned skin if one is going to garden. The only exception is the nose—mine burns red with amazing facility and peels and peels and peels. I cover that up with unguents and salves and take the rest of my sun straight and in small doses. People who don't want to get sun-burned should sit in the shade with tall cooling drinks in their hands and picture hats on their heads.

Lake Victoria, East Africa, is almost 4,000 feet above sea level, and is the source of the river Nile.

Widow Is Denied Compensation By Court Opinion

Mrs. Dora Broadwater, widow of Howard Broadwater, was denied compensation for the accidental death of her husband in an opinion handed down in Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Mrs. Broadwater had filed a Circuit Court appeal from a decision of the Maryland State Industrial Accident Commission. The Commission denied compensation.

Broadwater was fatally injured more than a year ago when a truck owned by the Daily Trucking Company of Westernport crashed on Sideling Mountain near Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

The question at issue was whether the Workmen's Compensation Laws of Maryland apply when the truck driver (Broadwater), a resident and citizen of West Virginia, was killed in West Virginia while driving a truck owned and operated by a trucking concern of Maryland.

The Maryland State Industrial Accident Commission denied the claim of Mrs. Broadwater on the contention that the law expressly limits compensation to those truck drivers employed by a Maryland firm "who are citizens or residents of this state."

The opinion stated: "It is unfortunate that the benefits of the act do not apply to cases like the one before the court, but the wording of the law is definite and the court must give effect to its clearly stated limitations."

An order of the court was passed stating:

"In this case the Circuit Court for Allegany County has determined that the State Industrial Accident Commission of Maryland has acted within its powers and has correctly construed the law and the facts; therefore, the decision of the commission dated March 14, 1947, disallowing the claim because of lack of jurisdiction be and the same is hereby affirmed."

The group hospitalization and surgical benefits insurance program is receiving considerable attention among rural dwellers, Loar said. "Firms and industries have such plans, so we decided to start one for farmers through the bureau," Loar explained.

Charles Harvey, Midland, was named chairman of the annual membership drive. Loar said there are 13,000 members in Maryland and 200 in Allegany County.

The date for the annual Horse Show has been set as September 18 and 19.

found that Mr. Weigand may have advanced some or all of the funds used. If so, it was his money to do with as he pleased, the Court ruled.

The Court also found there was no evidence to show that Mrs. Shipe was acting as trustee, and it is apparent he had deep regard for his daughter Theresa.

Under all the circumstances, the Court ruled that the sale of the Mattress Factory property by Mrs. Shipes to Abe Feldstein was a proper transaction and a temporary injunction was ordered dissolved.

Local Student Wins Pepsi Scholarship

An Allegany High School senior, Barbee Sue Mansfield, 17, daughter of Mrs. Faye M. Mansfield, 901 Fayette Street, is one of three Maryland students winning four-year scholarships in the fourth annual Pepsi-Cola contest, she was notified yesterday.

Miss Mansfield, who was competing with 46,112 students from 10,629 high schools in the United States is one of 121 pupils to win a four-year scholarship, according to the Pepsi-Coal Company, while 722 lesser scholastic awards were handed out.

The award will enable Miss Mansfield, an outstanding student at Allegany High, according to Principal Ralph R. Webster, to enter any accredited college in the country for a four-year term. In addition to required education fees, she will receive a $25 monthly allowance, and traveling expenses for one round trip from home to college each year.

Donald McCoy, Fort Hill High School senior, was awarded a runner-up prize which entitles him to $50 to help defray initial college expenses if he registers in an accredited academic college for the 1948-1949 term.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Maxine Kimble Becomes Bride

By MYRTLE K. PARK

PETERSBURG, W. Va. — Miss Maxine Kimble, daughter of C. L. Kimble, and Donald Shanholtz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shanholtz, Petersburg, were married Sunday afternoon in First Baptist Church, Cumberland, Md., with Rev. Norman Maring officiating, using the single ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a gray street length dress with navy blue accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds. She also wore a gold necklace and bracelet, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Shanholtz is a graduate of Petersburg High School, class of 1947, and at present is employed at the City Restaurant.

Mr. Shanholtz is a graduate of Petersburg High School, class of 1947, and is employed by Harman and Company.

Relatives attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shanholtz, Virgil Shanholtz, George Shanholtz, Mr. and Mrs. Rosewell Alt, Petersburg, and Mrs. Reginald Kimble, Maysville.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Franz have moved from Keyser to Maysville.

Mrs. Elvin Feaster, Cashtown, Pa., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Cook, Maysville.

Ralph Hartman, who has been ill with pneumonia, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Shobe have returned from Manatee, Fla., where they spent the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Don R. Kite, Jr., have purchased the Wilson Smith dwelling in Jefferson Heights addition and expect to move there May 1.

Mrs. Alice Carr has gone to Cass to visit Mr. and Mrs. Walter Good for several weeks.

Lester Keplinger and son, Maysville, spent Sunday visiting Arthur A. Keplinger, who remains ill at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Robert and son, Wilbur Carr and Ed. U. Smith have returned from Mill Creek where they attended the reburial service of Sammy Carr, who was killed in the European Theater of Operations during World War II. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. G. O. Yount, pastor of the Petersburg Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Floran Cassady is assisting in the clerk's office.

Mrs. Arlie Alt and daughter, Baltimore, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Turley, Sr., have returned.

Mrs. Frank Strickler returned yesterday from Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

ATTEND ANNIVERSARY--Myron R. Renick (second from left) Fayetteville, W. Va., attorney, was the principal speaker at the anniversary banquet of Boyce-Houser Post No. 41, American Legion, Keyser, W. 51 Pendleton County Families Enter Farming For Better Living Contest

By MARY ASHENFELTER

FRANKIN, W. Va., — With the April 2 deadline drawing nearer, 51 Pendleton County farm families have enrolled in the 1948 Farming For Better Living contest, according to a list released by the office of County Agent John W. Hammer.

This is 14 short of the goal of 65, which was attained last year, and which resulted in 100 per cent completion by the contesting farm families.

Enrollees up to last weekend are: Andy Kimble and Ernest Kuykendall, Brushy Run, A. D. Temple, Brandywine; Luther E. Simmons, Cherry Grove; John M. Arbogast of Circleville; O. C. Hevener, Harry Eye and W. W. Eye, Deer Run; Myrtle and Jack Armstrong, and W. W. Propst, Doe Hill, Grant Alt, Effie Anderson, Woodrow W. Hartman, and Fred Wimer, Franklin; Olin C. Adamson, J. P. Cowger,, George Dyer, William O. Gilkeson, James Dyer, and Eston H. Teter, Ft. Seybert; Ed Black, W. S. Dahmer, Howard Dunkle, Curtis Lough and Lee Mallow, Kline; Glen Hedrick, Granville Hedrick and Virgil Hedrick, Macksville; Gene Boggs, Mouth of Seneca; Pink Bowers and Henry Moyers, Moyers; Milton Dolly, Onego; Hansel Hedrick and Roy Mallow, Riverton; Dick Mitchell, Eldon Mitchell, B. H. Mitchel, Everett L. Rexrode, James F. Rexrode and Arie O. Smith, Sugar Grove; Grant Harper, Clyde Pierce, O. M. Sites, Delmar Teter and William Rex Sites, Teterton; W. W. Black, Joe Bodkin, Silas Compton, O. S. Cunningham, Joe E. Sites and H. J. Dahmer, Upper Tract.

On Dean's List

The name of Richard Wilson Homan, son of Dr. and Mrs. V. R. Homan, of Sugar Grove, has been placed on the Dean's List at Bridgewater College for having attained scholastic honors during the first semester of the current year.

Today, Tomorrow

Plans are completed for presentation of the 3-act operetta "The Gypsy Rover," by the students of Franklin High School today and tomorrow at 8 p. m.

Gets Six-Month Term

William Harrison Dice, local handyman, sang himself into jail for six months, when he pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon. Corporal Schnell and Trooper West, hearing singing in the Court House cellar, and knowing that such music could never come from their dull police radio sought the source of the haunting strains in the furnace room and discovered Dice intoxicated on wine and in possession of a pistol which had been taken from the quarters of Sheriff Grant Alt. Dice was sentenced to six months in jail on the pistol toting charge and ten days for being drunk.

Jesse James Riggleman, Kline, pleaded guilty to a hit-and-run charge and he was fined $25 and costs. Riggleman ran into the car of Mervin Propst as the latter was turning around at Raymond Dahmer's filling station.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stump and children are moving soon into an apartment in the home of George Dice Moyers. Mr. Stump is assistant county agent.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard West took Mr. West's mother and nephew back to Fairmont the first of the week, after they had spent several weeks here.

Mrs. Delton Rexrode and children came in from Bramwell to visit Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Thacker. Mrs. Thacker is improving following an operation.

Mrs. Hazel Martin, Keyser, visited her uncle, M. S. Hodges, Sunday. Mr. Hodges is slowly improving from an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Pendleton Kiser and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lambert visited D. J. Lambert, a patient in the Baker VA hospital at Martinsburg, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bennett, Wyoming, Del., were here Tuesday visiting friends and relatives. Mr. Bennett had attended a trustee's meeting at Bridgewater college Monday, where his three children are enrolled.

Mrs. Baxter Armentrout, Washington, Pa., is visiting her son and daughter - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. James Armentrout, this week.

There are an average of 100 disasters in the U.S. every year. One of the worst in 1948 will come if the annual Red Cross Drive fails.

Nurse Addresses Jackson P-TA

STRAWS IN THE WIND

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

Broadway Beat

Air maneuvers of a most unusual sort, staged off the Florida west coast, will be making front page news this or next week. . . .Greek and Italian sailors are being trained to man U. S. warships in U. S. costal waters, though this may get a Washington denial. . . . Industrial chiefs are being confidentially warned that in the event of another war, all physically-fit men of fighting age will be required for active war duty, none to be exempted because of jobs in industrial defense work. . . . Dr. Arieh Altman, U. S.-educated president of the World Zionist Revisionists, due to make a startling statement on Holy Land policy at the Palestine Emancipation Dinner at the Hotel Biltmore Sunday. (Dr. Altman has been mentioned for a cabinet post in the new Jewish government.) . . Philip Murray, CIO chief, to make his screen debut in a two-minute film warning the public of the dangers of the third party.

— o —

Henry Wallace forces are also readying a cartoon film short to be used in the third party campaign, titled "The Elephant Who Couldn't Remember and the Donkey Who forgot." . . . Now it's a disc jockey who is running for public office—Myron Bennett, in Des Moines, Iowa. . .Former war correspondent Albert Balink has penned an inclusive history of the Carribbean called "My Paradise is Hell" (published this week by Vista) which may become the basis for a documentary government film presenting that area as a potential danger spot for the U. S. . . . The Bureau of Customs is in for a shakeup because of laxity charges. . . . British customs authorities intensifying search of foreign vessels, looking for counterfeit ration coupons supposedly printed here. . . .Remodeling of the Columbia University presidential mansion, for Mr. Eisenhower's ocupancy, will include rooms for four guests, five servants, on the top floor, among other things.

HALGAR'S
Bu-Tee-Wave

MACHINELESS HEAT METHOD

BU-TEE-WAVE IS ENTIRELY DIFFERENT from any other home permanent wave set. It is not a cold wave. With Bu-Tee-Wave you use the same kind of genuine beauty operator's equipment and supplies that are used by beauticians in giving machineless heat permanents.

24 CURLS ARE ALL THAT ARE REQUIRED for a complete permanent with Bu-Tee-Wave. You make 6 curls at a time in a little over 30 minutes, but they are complete and require no neutralizing. They are ready to be combed into gorgeous, natural waves.

BU-TEE-WAVE SOLUTION is scientifically blended for fine, medium or coarse hair. It contains Lanolin and other fine oils to help keep your hair soft and natural looking.

With Bu-Tee-Wave there's no mess, no soaking your head for hours and no neutralizing.

For Glamorous Hair Follow These 4 Easy Steps!

1 Pull strand of hair through Rubber-Felt.
2 Place Spacer on top of Rubber-Felt and close.
3 Wet strand of hair with solution, roll on Aluminum Rod, turn handle as tight as you wish curls to be.
4 Place Heat Pad over curl, snap on Pinch Clip.

COMPLETE SET —Set contains 6 Spacers, 6 Aluminum Curling Rods, 6 Rubber-Felts, 6 Fibre-Handled Clamps, 24 Heat Pads, 24 End Papers, and Wave Solution for one complete permanent . . . . . $3.98 Plus 5c Federal Exc. Tax

FUTURE WAVES —Refill Set contains 24 Heat Pads, 24 End Papers, and Wave Solution . . . $1.00 Plus 5c Federal Exc. Tax

Air maneuvers of a most unusual sort, staged off the Florida west coast, will be making front page news this or next week. . . .Greek and Italian sailors are being trained to man U. S. warships in U. S. costal waters, though this may get a Washington denial. . . . Industrial chiefs are being confidentially warned that in the event of another war, all physically-fit men of fighting age will be required for active war duty, none to be exempted because of jobs in industrial defense work. . . . Dr. Arieh Altman, U. S.-educated president of the World Zionist Revisionists, due to make a startling statement on Holy Land policy at the Palestine Emancipation Dinner at the Hotel Biltmore Sunday. (Dr. Altman has been mentioned for a cabinet post in the new Jewish government.) . . Philip Murray, CIO chief, to make his screen debut in a two-minute film warning the public of the dangers of the third party.

Henry Wallace forces are also readying a cartoon film short to be used in the third party campaign, titled "The Elephant Who Couldn't Remember and the Donkey Who Forgot." . . . Now it's a disc jockey who is running for public office—Myron Bennett, in Des Moines, Iowa. . .Former war correspondent Albert Balink has penned an inclusive history of the Carribbean called "My Paradise is Hell" (published this week by Vista) which may become the basis for a documentary government film presenting that area as a potential danger spot for the U. S. . . . The Bureau of Customs is in for a shakeup because of laxity charges. . . . British customs authorities intensifying search of foreign vessels, looking for counterfeit ration coupons supposedly printed here. . . .Remodeling of the Columbia University presidential mansion, for Mr. Eisenhower's ocupancy, will include rooms for four guests, five servants, on the top floor, among other things.

Mineral County Grand Jury Will Convene April 20

Parking Ordinance Planned In Keyser

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER — Jurors for the April term of Mineral County Circuit Court were drawn yesterday by jury commissioners Lloyd Yost and Luke McDowell, according to Paul W. Dayton, clerk of the Circuit Court. Dayton said the grand jurors will convene on April 20 with the petit jurors scheduled to convene April 26.

Plan Ordinance

An ordinance prohibiting parking on the north side of East Piedmont Street from Main Street to Cherry Alley, between Mineral and Davis Streets, is being prepared by City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., upon instructions of Mayor John C. Freeland and the City Council.

Instructions to prepare the ordinance were issued after the mayor and councilmen decided parking on both sides of the street in that area was a traffic hazard. It was indicated that the meters will be installed and parking prohibited within a few weeks.

Approve Changes

Permission to make the necessary alterations and adjustments in proposed plans and specifications for the municipal fire hall was granted to Frank Snyder, local contractor, at a meeting of the Mayor, City Council, members of the citizens commitee and the firemen's building committee Wednesday.

A spokesman for the group said only minor changes will be needed and that they will not alter the design of the building. Work on the fire hall is expected to get underway within the next two weeks, pending receipt of a shipment of steel. Local laborers will be used insofar as possible in the work, it was indicated.

Becomes Candidate

F. G. Davis, former Mineral County sheriff, became an official candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Mineral County yesterday, it has been announced by Paul W. Dayton, clerk of the Mineral County Circuit Court. Davis is the only candidate so far to file for the Democratic nomination, Dayton said, adding that Leslie F. Yost is the only candidate that has filed for Republican nomination for Sheriff..

Mrs. Long Rites

A funeral service for Mrs. Mary M. Trout Long, a former resident of Keyser, who died March 17 in Ruxton, Md., will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Tickner Funeral Home, Baltimore. Interment will be in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Baltimore. Mrs. Long was the widow of Rev. Tmomas S. Long.

Mr. Walker Rites

A funeral service for James Edward Walker, 63, who died in a McKeesport, Pa., hospital Tuesray morning, will be held in the Rogers Funeral Home, 85 South Main Street, Saturday at 10:30 a. m. Interment will be in Meadow Point Cemetery.

His wife, Mrs. Sydney Athey Walker, died in 1929. He is survived by one brother, Humbert F. Walker, Keyser, RFD.

Twin Sisters Give Birth To Babies On Same Day

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 18. (AP) —Twin sisters yesterday gave birth to babies within two hours of each other.

Mrs. Dorothy Hoyes became the mother of a six-pound, seven-ounce girl at 10:22 a. m. at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

At 11:30 a. m. her sister, Mrs. Dolores Sutherland, said, "I guess I'd better get down to the hospital, too."

At the same hospital her baby, a boy, arrived at 12:15 p. m. Hospital officials said all six, including the fathers, were doing nicely.

Paul E. Michaels Files For Mayor Of Westernport

Was Not Candidate In Primary Vote

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT — Paul E. Michaels, Riordan's Road, an employe of the Celanese plant, filed a petition yesterday afternoon at 4:55 o'clock containing the names of 50 registered voters, with J. Carr Getty, city clerk, requesting that his name be placed on the official ballot of the town election to be held Monday, March 29.

Although Michaels was not a candidate in the primary held March 8, he received three write-in ballots for commissioner.

Charles J. Welsh, Walnut Street, who was not a candidate in the primary, filed a petition March 10, requesting his name be placed on the official ballot which was ordered at the regular meeting of Mayor J. Milton McIntyre and Commissioners Monday.

Others desiring to be candidates for mayor or commissioner may have their names placed on the official ballot by filing a petition containing the names of 25 voters by midnight Tuesday, March 23 with the city clerk.

At the city election a mayor and four commissioners will be elected for two years.

Mayor McIntyre and Commissioner George C. Cleaver did not seek re-election.

LaRue Rites Held

A funeral service for Joseph William LaRue, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. LaRue, 86 West Harrison Street, Piedmont, who died Sunday, was held Wednesday afternoon at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport.

Rev. Virgil O. Rath, pastor of Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness Church, and Rev. Kenneth Harrington, pastor of Pentecostal Holiness Church, Cumberland, officiated. Interment was in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Active pallbearers were Joseph McGreevy, Jr., Bernard Schineybart, Eugene LaRue, Paul Samuels, Frank Fisher and Harry Harshbarger, Jr.

Kopp To Speak Here

The Alumni Association of Bruce High School, Westernport, Parent-Teachers Association of the Luke and Hammond Street Schools, and the McCoole School will be host tonight, at 8 o'clock at a public meeting at Bruce High School, to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools of Allegany County, and his staff of department heads.

Kopp and members of his group will explain to the people of this section the functions of the Board of Education. Each department head will point out his part in the supervision and administration of the school system.

Church Redecorated

The interior of the Church of God, Piedmont, is being redecorated. A new roof is being constructed.

The Ladies of the Willing Workers of the church are raising the money to pay for the improvements.

Observe Anniversary

The Luke Girl Scout Troop observed the 36th anniversary of Girl Scout Week with a party Tuesday at their meeting place in the Laughlin Building. New members will be received at a meeting next Monday night.

Address Meeting

Miss Mae Meese and Miss Hazel Inskeep, members of the faculty of Hammond Street School, Westernport, were guest speakers at the meeting of the Senior Girl Scout Troop at the Piedmont Library Tuesday.

The speakers discussed phases of child psychology. Mrs. Frank Zeitland, who is teaching a class on "Child Care," finished outlining the course.

To Give Concert

The Cumberland Choral Society, directed by Jack Platt, Cumberland, will give a sacred concert at Piedmont Trinity Methodist Church Tuesday, March 23, at 8:30 p. m.

About 70 members of the group are expected to take part. Aden Lewis is the pianist.

The program is being sponsored by the Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church. There will be no admission charge, but an offering will be received.

Brief Mention

Miss Ann Sloan, of James P. Love Post, Lonaconing, and Mrs. Rhodes Rhodes, of Victory Unit No. 155, American Legion, Westernport, attended a child welfare conference this week in the War Memorial Building, Baltimore.

Ladies Auxiliary Working Band of Church of God, Piedmont, will hold a bake sale tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the sales room of the Potomac Edison Company.

James Healy, formerly of Piedmont, recovering from an illness at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Wiley, 32 G. Street, Keyser.

Lt. and Mrs. Henry Clay Watters announce the birth of a son in a hospital at Boston. Lt. Watters, who is stationed with the Air Corps in Japan, is a son of Mrs. Beulah Thrush Watters, Baltimore. The baby is a great-grandson of Mrs. H. C. Thrush, East Hampshire Street, Piedmont.

Paw Paw Follies Rehearsals Begin

By MRS. J. C. SNYDER

PAW PAW, W. Va.—Rehearsals are underway for a musical comedy, the Paw Paw Follies of 1948, to be presented here shortly after Easter for the benefit of the Paw Paw Band Association. A definite date will be announced later.

An original play, the follies was written and is being directed by Adele Mueller and Norma Appold.

The follies will have a cast of 100 local people, the principal parts to be taken by William Milburn, Luciclaire Miller, Carole Mueller, Merle Crabtree, Buddy Herrell, Freda Mueller, Connie Jean Kline and Ruby Ann Hardy. The High School Glee Club, the Starlets and the Rhythmaires also will take part.

Miss Betty Kerns, pianist, will be the accompanist.

Personals

Mrs. Hayward Leach, Paw Paw, was taken to Memorial Hospital Sunday, suffering from acute appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith and son are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leach.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Thomas spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Thomas, Three Churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sindy have moved into the Christian Church parsonage recently vacated by Rev. Conard McDonald.

Mrs. Flora Kline is visiting her son, Gilbert Kline, Oldtown.

Mrs. John Doyle is ill at her home here.

Mrs. O. D. McCoole, Berkeley Springs, was a guest of Mrs. H. P. Weller.

Figures based on U. S. government specifications for an adequate diet indicate that such a diet for every American would have cost 17.5 billion in 1940 compared with actual expenditures of $16.4 billion by the American people for food in that year.

Lake Erie averages only 58 feet deep and because of its shallowness is unusually subject to sudden storms.

Piedmont Store Is Damaged By Smoke

WESTERNPORT — A fire which started in the basement of the Ray C. Berg paper store, Ashfield Street, Piedmont, last night about 9:30 o'clock resulted in minor smoke damage, firemen said.

Tri-Towns Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 and Potomac Company No. 2 used water from booster tanks to quench the fire which broke out when cardboard boxes in the basement of the building caught fire.

Mineral County Grand Jury Will Convene April 20

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER — Jurors for the April term of Mineral County Circuit Court were drawn yesterday by jury commissioners Lloyd Yost and Luke McDowell, according to Paul W. Dayton, clerk of the Circuit Court. Dayton said the grand jurors will convene on April 20 with the petit jurors scheduled to convene April 26.

Plan Ordinance

An ordinance prohibiting parking on the north side of East Piedmont Street from Main Street to Cherry Alley, between Mineral and Davis Streets, is being prepared by City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., upon instructions of Mayor John C. Freeland and the City Council.

Instructions to prepare the ordinance were issued after the mayor and councilmen decided parking on both sides of the street in that area was a traffic hazard. It was indicated that the meters will be installed and parking prohibited within a few weeks.

Approve Changes

Permission to make the necessary alterations and adjustments in proposed plans and specifications for the municipal fire hall was granted to Frank Snyder, local contractor, at a meeting of the Mayor, City Council, members of the citizens commitee and the firemen's building committee Wednesday.

A spokesman for the group said only minor changes will be needed and that they will not alter the design of the building. Work on the fire hall is expected to get underway within the next two weeks, pending receipt of a shipment of steel. Local laborers will be used insofar as possible in the work, it was indicated.

Becomes Candidate

F. G. Davis, former Mineral County sheriff, became an official candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Mineral County yesterday, it has been announced by Paul W. Dayton, clerk of the Mineral County Circuit Court. Davis is the only candidate so far to file for the Democratic nomination, Dayton said, adding that Leslie F. Yost is the only candidate that has filed for Republican nomination for Sheriff..

Mrs. Long Rites

A funeral service for Mrs. Mary M. Trout Long, a former resident of Keyser, who died March 17 in Ruxton, Md., will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Tickner Funeral Home, Baltimore. Interment will be in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Baltimore. Mrs. Long was the widow of Rev. Tmomas S. Long.

Mr. Walker Rites

A funeral service for James Edward Walker, 63, who died in a McKeesport, Pa., hospital Tuesray morning, will be held in the Rogers Funeral Home, 85 South Main Street, Saturday at 10:30 a. m. Interment will be in Meadow Point Cemetery.

His wife, Mrs. Sydney Athey Walker, died in 1929. He is survived by one brother, Humbert F. Walker, Keyser, RFD.

Twin Sisters Give Birth To Babies On Same Day

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 18. (AP) —Twin sisters yesterday gave birth to babies within two hours of each other.

Mrs. Dorothy Hoyes became the mother of a six-pound, seven-ounce girl at 10:22 a. m. at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

At 11:30 a. m. her sister, Mrs. Dolores Sutherland, said, "I guess I'd better get down to the hospital, too."

At the same hospital her baby, a boy, arrived at 12:15 p. m. Hospital officials said all six, including the fathers, were doing nicely.

Paul E. Michaels Files For Mayor Of Westernport

Was Not Candidate In Primary Vote

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT — Paul E. Michaels, Riordan's Road, an employe of the Celanese plant, filed a petition yesterday afternoon at 4:55 o'clock containing the names of 50 registered voters, with J. Carr Getty, city clerk, requesting that his name be placed on the official ballot of the town election to be held Monday, March 29.

Although Michaels was not a candidate in the primary held March 8, he received three write-in ballots for commissioner.

Charles J. Welsh, Walnut Street, who was not a candidate in the primary, filed a petition March 10, requesting his name be placed on the official ballot which was ordered at the regular meeting of Mayor J. Milton McIntyre and Commissioners Monday.

Others desiring to be candidates for mayor or commissioner may have their names placed on the official ballot by filing a petition containing the names of 25 voters by midnight Tuesday, March 23 with the city clerk.

At the city election a mayor and four commissioners will be elected for two years.

Mayor McIntyre and Commissioner George C. Cleaver did not seek re-election.

LaRue Rites Held

A funeral service for Joseph William LaRue, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. LaRue, 86 West Harrison Street, Piedmont, who died Sunday, was held Wednesday afternoon at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport.

Rev. Virgil O. Rath, pastor of Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness Church, and Rev. Kenneth Harrington, pastor of Pentecostal Holiness Church, Cumberland, officiated. Interment was in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Active pallbearers were Joseph McGreevy, Jr., Bernard Schineybart, Eugene LaRue, Paul Samuels, Frank Fisher and Harry Harshbarger, Jr.

Kopp To Speak Here

The Alumni Association of Bruce High School, Westernport, Parent-Teachers Association of the Luke and Hammond Street Schools, and the McCoole School will be host tonight, at 8 o'clock at a public meeting at Bruce High School, to Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools of Allegany County, and his staff of department heads.

Kopp and members of his group will explain to the people of this section the functions of the Board of Education. Each department head will point out his part in the supervision and administration of the school system.

Church Redecorated

The interior of the Church of God, Piedmont, is being redecorated. A new roof is being constructed.

The Ladies of the Willing Workers of the church are raising the money to pay for the improvements.

Observe Anniversary

The Luke Girl Scout Troop observed the 36th anniversary of Girl Scout Week with a party Tuesday at their meeting place in the Laughlin Building. New members will be received at a meeting next Monday night.

Address Meeting

Miss Mae Meese and Miss Hazel Inskeep, members of the faculty of Hammond Street School, Westernport, were guest speakers at the meeting of the Senior Girl Scout Troop at the Piedmont Library Tuesday.

The speakers discussed phases of child psychology. Mrs. Frank Zeitland, who is teaching a class on "Child Care," finished outlining the course.

To Give Concert

The Cumberland Choral Society, directed by Jack Platt, Cumberland, will give a sacred concert at Piedmont Trinity Methodist Church Tuesday, March 23, at 8:30 p. m.

About 70 members of the group are expected to take part. Aden Lewis is the pianist.

The program is being sponsored by the Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church. There will be no admission charge, but an offering will be received.

Brief Mention

Miss Ann Sloan, of James P. Love Post, Lonaconing, and Mrs. Rhodes Rhodes, of Victory Unit No. 155, American Legion, Westernport, attended a child welfare conference this week in the War Memorial Building, Baltimore.

Ladies Auxiliary Working Band of Church of God, Piedmont, will hold a bake sale tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the sales room of the Potomac Edison Company.

James Healy, formerly of Piedmont, recovering from an illness at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ernest Wiley, 32 G. Street, Keyser.

Lt. and Mrs. Henry Clay Watters announce the birth of a son in a hospital at Boston. Lt. Watters, who is stationed with the Air Corps in Japan, is a son of Mrs. Beulah Thrush Watters, Baltimore. The baby is a great-grandson of Mrs. H. C. Thrush, East Hampshire Street, Piedmont.

Paw Paw Follies Rehearsals Begin

By MRS. J. C. SNYDER

PAW PAW, W. Va.—Rehearsals are underway for a musical comedy, the Paw Paw Follies of 1948, to be presented here shortly after Easter for the benefit of the Paw Paw Band Association. A definite date will be announced later.

An original play, the follies was written and is being directed by Adele Mueller and Norma Appold.

The follies will have a cast of 100 local people, the principal parts to be taken by William Milburn, Luciclaire Miller, Carole Mueller, Merle Crabtree, Buddy Herrell, Freda Mueller, Connie Jean Kline and Ruby Ann Hardy. The High School Glee Club, the Starlets and the Rhythmaires also will take part.

Miss Betty Kerns, pianist, will be the accompanist.

Personals

Mrs. Hayward Leach, Paw Paw, was taken to Memorial Hospital Sunday, suffering from acute appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Smith and son are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leach.

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Thomas spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Thomas, Three Churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sindy have moved into the Christian Church parsonage recently vacated by Rev. Conard McDonald.

Mrs. Flora Kline is visiting her son, Gilbert Kline, Oldtown.

Mrs. John Doyle is ill at her home here.

Mrs. O. D. McCoole, Berkeley Springs, was a guest of Mrs. H. P. Weller.

Figures based on U. S. government specifications for an adequate diet indicate that such a diet for every American would have cost 17.5 billion in 1940 compared with actual expenditures of $16.4 billion by the American people for food in that year.

Lake Erie averages only 58 feet deep and because of its shallowness is unusually subject to sudden storms.

Piedmont Store Is Damaged By Smoke

WESTERNPORT — A fire which started in the basement of the Ray C. Berg paper store, Ashfield Street, Piedmont, last night about 9:30 o'clock resulted in minor smoke damage, firemen said.

Tri-Towns Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 and Potomac Company No. 2 used water from booster tanks to quench the fire which broke out when cardboard boxes in the basement of the building caught fire.

Elks Are Warned Of Communism's Growing Menace

Getty Gives Talk At Anniversary Event

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG — Gorman Getty, Cumberland and Lonaconing attorney, discussed the growing menace of Communism at the 49th anniversary banquet of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, held Wednesday night at the Elks Home and attended by 191 local and visiting Elks.

Getty, a younger member of Frostburg Lodge, was presented by Dr. W. O. McLane, a past exalted ruler, who also introduced William Byers, the newly elected exalted ruler, and other officers who will be installed soon to serve for the ensuing year.

Joseph Montana, the retiring exalted ruler, delivered the address of welcome and the invocation and benediction were given by J. William Shea, a past exalted ruler. Music was furnished by Peck Mills, playing the solovox. Following the banquet, there was a program of boxing matches arranged by Harry Frost, and motion pictures.

The dinner was served by Misses Carmen C. Scarpelli, Carmen M. Scarpelli, Mildred Scarpelli, Virginia Shumaker, Emma Parise, Eileen Chambers, Susan Arnone, Mary Jane Rizer, Helen Nolan, Georgia Conley, Stella Stevens and Mary Angela Rafferty.

The committee in charge of the banquet and program consisted of Elmer Rupp, Carmel Pinto, Josiah Williams, Fred Stoudt, Charles Schultz and Willard Harvey.

Firemen Hold Banquet

Henry Marschalk, chairman of the committee on historical records and archives of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, and Curtis Larrimore, fire training instructor of the University of Maryland, were the principal speakers Wednesday night at the 70th anniversary banquet of the Frostburg Fire Department, held in Firemen's Hall and attended by 70 members and friends of the department.

Marschalk showed movies of the activities of the Tacoma Park Fire Department and the state convention held in Frostburg in June. Arthur Howard, fire chief at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, showed a picture, illustrating the making of a CO-2 extinguisher. Jesse Jacobs, assistant chief of the local department, presided and impromptu talks were made by Mayor Marshall Skidmore and City Commissioners Arthur Thomas, John Hendley, and Kenneth Crowe, Ralph M. Race and Olen Gunnett.

VFW Holds Election

John R. Fairgrieve Post No. 2462, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

The Ladies Auxiliary of the post will elect officers Wednesday, March 24, after which there will be a joint installation at a later date.

Auxiliary Names Officers

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Association recently elected officers for the ensuing year. They are Mrs. Lena Smouse, president; Mrs. Myrtle G. Porter, vice president; Mrs. Bonnie Delaney, secretary; Mrs. Colleen Watson, publicity agent; and Mrs. Viola Robertson, treasurer. The organization celebrated its first anniversary March 13 with a dance and buffet supper attended by members and their husbands.

Session To Meet

The Session of the First Presbyterian Church will meet Sunday at 3 p. m. in the manse. All those who are planning to join the church on Easter Sunday are invited to the meeting.

Choir Plans Program

The senior choir of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church will present a program of Lenten and Easter music at the evening service Sunday, according to U. B. F. Edwards, president of the congregation.

The program will consist of numbers by the choir and solos by Mrs. Thomas Blair and William Pressman. Miss Madeline Buck is director of the choir and Mrs. Wheeler Arnold is organist.

Frostburg Briefs

The Ministerial Association has been informed that local stores will close on Good Friday from noon to 3 p. m. so that employes may attend the union service in First Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frank McKenzie announce the birth of a son Wednesday in Miners Hospital.

The Swanee Minstrels will be presented tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of Beall High School. The proceeds of the play, sponsored by the Frostburg Lions Club and the Men's Brotherhood of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will be given to the Arion Band to be added to the fund now being raised to purchase new uniforms and repair band instruments.

Frostburg Personals

Mrs. Ida Winner, 68 Mechanic Street, is ill at her home.

Mrs. Catherine Smith is a surgical patient in Miners Hospital.

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG — Gorman Getty, Cumberland and Lonaconing attorney, discussed the growing menace of Communism at the 49th anniversary banquet of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, held Wednesday night at the Elks Home and attended by 191 local and visiting Elks.

Getty, a younger member of Frostburg Lodge, was presented by Dr. W. O. McLane, a past exalted ruler, who also introduced William Byers, the newly elected exalted ruler, and other officers who will be installed soon to serve for the ensuing year.

Joseph Montana, the retiring exalted ruler, delivered the address of welcome and the invocation and benediction were given by J. William Shea, a past exalted ruler. Music was furnished by Peck Mills, playing the solovox. Following the banquet, there was a program of boxing matches arranged by Harry Frost, and motion pictures.

The dinner was served by Misses Carmen C. Scarpelli, Carmen M. Scarpelli, Mildred Scarpelli, Virginia Shumaker, Emma Parise, Eileen Chambers, Susan Arnone, Mary Jane Rizer, Helen Nolan, Georgia Conley, Stella Stevens and Mary Angela Rafferty.

The committee in charge of the banquet and program consisted of Elmer Rupp, Carmel Pinto, Josiah Williams, Fred Stoudt, Charles Schultz and Willard Harvey.

Firemen Hold Banquet

Henry Marschalk, chairman of the committee on historical records and archives of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, and Curtis Larrimore, fire training instructor of the University of Maryland, were the principal speakers Wednesday night at the 70th anniversary banquet of the Frostburg Fire Department, held in Firemen's Hall and attended by 70 members and friends of the department.

Marschalk showed movies of the activities of the Tacoma Park Fire Department and the state convention held in Frostburg in June. Arthur Howard, fire chief at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, showed a picture, illustrating the making of a CO-2 extinguisher. Jesse Jacobs, assistant chief of the local department, presided and impromptu talks were made by Mayor Marshall Skidmore and City Commissioners Arthur Thomas, John Hendley, and Kenneth Crowe, Ralph M. Race and Olen Gunnett.

VFW Holds Election

John R. Fairgrieve Post No. 2462, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has elected officers for the ensuing year as follows:

The Ladies Auxiliary of the post will elect officers Wednesday, March 24, after which there will be a joint installation at a later date.

Auxiliary Names Officers

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Eckhart Square Circle Sportsmen's Association recently elected officers for the ensuing year. They are Mrs. Lena Smoube, president; Mrs. Myrtle G. Porter, vice president; Mrs. Bonnie Delaney, secretary; Mrs. Colleen Watson, publicity agent; and Mrs. Viola Robertson, treasurer. The organization celebrated its first anniversary March 13 with a dance and buffet supper attended by members and their husbands.

Session To Meet

The Session of the First Presbyterian Church will meet Sunday at 3 p. m. in the manse. All those who are planning to join the church on Easter Sunday are invited to the meeting.

Choir Plans Program

The senior choir of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church will present a program of Lenten and Easter music at the evening service Sunday, according to U. B. F. Edwards, president of the congregation.

The program will consist of numbers by the choir and solos by Mrs. Thomas Blair and William Pressman. Miss Madeline Buck is director of the choir and Mrs. Wheeler Arnold is organist.

Frostburg Briefs

The Ministerial Association has been informed that local stores will close on Good Friday from noon to 3 p. m. so that employes may attend the union service in First Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frank McKenzie announce the birth of a son Wednesday in Miners Hospital.

The Swanee Minstrels will be presented tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of Beall High School. The proceeds of the play, sponsored by the Frostburg Lions Club and the Men's Brotherhood of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will be given to the Arion Band to be added to the fund now being raised to purchase new uniforms and repair band instruments.

Frostburg Personals

Mrs. Ida Winner, 68 Mechanic Street, is ill at her home.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 18—(INS)—Perry Como checks in at MGM to play himself in "Words and Music." His records are selling rapidly and it was Arthur Freed, the producer, who signed Como. They are old friends, and Como uses Freed's song, "Temptation," as his sign-off on the air.

Perry Como

Norman Taurog, who is directing, is just back from New York, where he talked with Richard Rodgers about his life story, which, as you know has Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, and Tom Drake in the leads.

This is Como's first appearance on the MGM lot. At one time Como gave up his singing and went back to being a barber because he didn't want to go on concert tour and be away from his family, especially his son. Then came radio, and he could have his career, and family, too.

Sitting next to Hedda Hopper and me at luncheon was Charlie MacArthur and Ben Hecht. Charlie told us that Rossano Brazzi, an Italian actor, has been brought here to play Svengali in "Trilby."

"What about Trilby?" we both asked in one breath.

In less time than it takes to say Svengali, Charlie was off to the telephone and back with a reporter's gleam in his eye.

"It's Valli," he said, "for Trilby."

Charlie also said that Helen Hayes had postponed her trip to Bermuda and will be here with him. "But not daughter Mary," he said. "She's too busy studying at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts to become an actress." I had met Mary last year at a debutante party and, believe me she's a beauty.

Lilli Palmer, who fractured her ankle skiing, will be out of her cast before very long. Amazing the way these broken legs mend these days, and amazing how many skiing accidents there are at all the resorts.

Lilli goes back to Milton Sperling when she finishes "No Minor Vices" at Enterprise and Milton has bought a movie for her with the intriguing title "The Gentle Sin." It's by Daniel Fuchs, who will also adapt it. In this, to be made at Warners, of course, Lilli will have a chance to be very glamorous. Hers is the only important woman role with three male leads.

Chatter in Hollywood: Margaret Sullivan has already arrived here and Leland Hayward comes next week to sign property settlement papers. Then Margaret will file her suit for divorce here.

After his divorce from Margaret is final, Leland is expected to marry Mrs. Howard Hawks. I say this since they make no secret of their devotion to each other.

I am intrigued with the idea back of Abbott and Costello's next comedy, "Easy Does It." The plot is about an elderly attorney who goes to a mountain resort to write his memoirs about 10 murderers he saved from the electric chair. The murderers hear about the story and check into the resort and bump off the old man.

Abbott and Costello play the manager and bellhop at the resort, and can't you see them trying to keep the 10 criminals from doing further damage.

John Van Druten is very happy over the way his play, "I Remember Mama," is being received in London and especially happy for Mady Christians. She not only plays the role she created on the New York stage, but is also acting in the dual capacity of producer.

London, apparently, has fallen for the Van Druten play hook, line and sinker—out of 10 newspapers, eight were raves. After the newspaper criticism, the dowager Queen Mary asked for a command performance, and as someone pointed out, royalty never wants to see flops.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Keep your eye on Beverly Tyler and David May. They have been out together any number of times lately—last night at the Tallyho.

Lana Turner is back on the MGM lot, wearing a steel brace from her finger tips to her elbow. When she goes before the camera, she'll take it off—natch.

Evelyn Knight did a good scout deed on 40 minutes notice and substituted for Marilyn Maxwell on the command performance show. Marilyn was taken down with laryngitis.

The George Browns (Paramount's publicity chief) are off for Chicago to attend the wedding of their son, Robert to Paula Schunahan, whom he met while attending school at the University of Chicago.

Paula Stone and Michael Sloan have dropped their option on Sinclair Lewis' "Kingsblood Royal." Paula expects her baby in June and the doctor told her not to do any strenuous work.

That's all today.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Georgia Senator To "Air" Truman's Civil Rights Bill

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 18. — Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia is to be the Meet the Press guest on MBS at 10 o'clock Friday night. He is expected to discuss the president's committee report on civil rights.

Harold Stassen, Republican presidential candidate, and Ray Milland of the movies both are listed for an expert's chair in Information Please of MBS at 9:30.

It will be a couple heavyweights cavorting in the ring when the ABC fight-talking team gets into action again at 10 o'clock. They are Joe Baksi, American striver for heavyweight honors, and Gino Buonvini of Italy.

Although this column has been more or less referring to the program that way, CBS says the listing for Dinah Shore's show at 10 shall be the "Dinah Shore-Harry James show" rather than the rather vague identification of "Call for Music."

Bill Stern and Bob Ripley are exchanging guests spots the same day on the same network, NBC. First Stern visits Ripley at 1:45 p. m., then Ripley visits Stern at 10:30. As might be expected they will talk about sports, of all things.

Andy Russell, who has just joined the network with a Thursday night revue type spot, will pay a Friday night visit to the chain because of a guest listing with Burl Ives at 8.

Part III of "The Rise of Silas Lapham" comes to the NBC Great Novels dramatizations at 11:30.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"You must admit that some of the music sounded swell even if it was in an opera."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Well, Yes and No

Dinah Shore, the velvet-voiced lady from Tennessee, and Johnny Mercer, the songwriter, have teamed up on a new show titled "Call for Music" (C.B.S., 10 p. m. E.S.T. Fridays), and, in all but a few details, it's a very happy arrangement. Unfortunately the two singers have brought along Harry James, who is Betty Grable's husband, the butt of a great many tiresome jokes and also a trumpet player of considerable renown. Mr. James' trumpet, I understand, drives certain young ladies right out of their wits and has a somewhat similar effect on me. It makes a loud, assertive, insistent noise that gets under my skin, though probably not in the way Mr. James plans.

Dinah Shore

To pass on more pleasant matters, Miss Shore occupies a rather special niche among feminine singers. Her voice is as recognizable as Jack Benny's. Her style is one of those patented and exclusive features the automobile manufacturers are always talking about and is so distinctively her own that she could cry for help in Times Square and be identified almost immediately.

This unique quality has a way of subtly altering the meaning of lyrics. When Miss Dinah—as I'm sure the family servitors refer to her—tackles "McNamara's Band," the whole character of Ireland changes. Magnolias start sprouting all over the ould sod. She has at various times transformed Sioux City Sue into a southern girl and rather casually placed the penthouses of Manhattan somewhere around New Orleans. In spite of these drastic geographical rearrangements, Miss Shore has a lovely, haunting voice, her phrasing is among the most skillful to be found among popular singers, and I'm happy she's back on the air.

As for Mr. Mercer, he is perhaps second only to Bing Crosby as a master of rhythm. Someone once remarked about Crosby that he sounded the way men think they sound in the shower. The same remark might more aptly be made about Mercer, who sings as if his own voice and doesn't particularly give a hoot if anyone else does. His voice, if you can call it that, is foggy, hollow, casual and extremely self-assured. Mercer has been singing for years, though that activity has been obscured by his songwriting, a more lucrative enterprise. Hollywood, in fact, is bubbling over with song writers who also sing and can hardly be prevented from singing if anyone is careless enough to leave a piano exposed.

Mr. Mercer's particular talent is an ability to implant a tune so thoroughly into your own mind that you find yourself whistling it the next day. He clings tenaciously to the melody rather than revising it to his own taste ,a gesture of respect from one songwriter to the rest of the profession which I greatly admire. And, if that isn't enough recommendation, he is also a real, lowdown blues singer who can bring an air of conviction to some of the silliest lyrics ever written. Parenthetically I'd like to insert the observation that the blues seem to be reasserting some of the popularity they enjoyed back in the '20s. The other night Miss Shore embraced with magnificent courage "My Man," a song that I thought was buried with Helen Morgan. She sang it very well, too.

In spite of the excellence of its component parts, there are a number of things wrong with this show. It's badly written, and loosely put together. Mr. James, Mr. Mercer and Miss Shore are required to give tongue to some of the most ridiculous jive talk I ever heard. Miss Shore is forced, conceivably at the point of a gun, to simper like a fourteen-year-old school girl and Mr. Mercer, an intelligent adult, is made to utter noises which most teen-agers of my acquaintance outgrew in the sixth grade. This sort of thing, I imagine, is aimed at the jukebox set and—I'm just guessing here—is written by men with one foot into middle age. All I can say is that they are insulting the intelligence of the teen-agers. Jive talk is not exactly deathless prose but the real thing is a lot better than this. These writers ought to get out of the Brown Derby some night and do a little research near a jukebox.

Apart from those entering the armed forces, more than 1,000,000 of New York's 1940 civilian population migrated to other parts of the country between 1940 and 1943. California, with about half of New York's population, gained a million, reports a Twentieth Century Fund.

In 1946 a baby was born in a hospital in continental United States on the average of every 15 seconds.

Kentucky Beats Columbia, 76-53, Holy Cross Wins

Michigan Loses 63-45 In NCAA Semi-Finals

NEW YORK, March 18 (INS)—Favored Kentucky and Holy Cross qualified tonight to meet in the final of the NCAA eastern regional basketball tournament on Saturday by winning their semi-final matches at Madison Square Garden.

Kentucky, a 10-point choice, swamped Columbia, 76 to 53. Columbia is the Ivy League champion.

Holy Cross, defending champion, defeated Michigan easily, 63 to 45. Michigan is the Big Nine titleholder.

Holy Cross was only a slight favorite, but the Crusaders vanquished the Wolverines with little more trouble than Kentucky experienced with Columbia.

Michigan spent itself in one dazzling rally in the first half. The Wolverines, trailing 13-9, ran off to a 21-6 advantage with the deceptive Mack Suprunowicz sparking the rally. He caged three field goals in succession.

Crusaders Cut Loose

Then Holy Cross, with a brilliant display of ball-handling, started to go. While Michigan was getting only one free throw in seven minutes, Joe Mullaney, Bob Cousy, Frank Oftring and George Kaftan of the Crusaders ran up a 27-22 advantage.

At the half, it was Holy Cross 34, Michigan 27.

Cousy, who was high individual scorer of both games with 23 points, showed the way as the Crusaders pulled further away in the second half until they increased their margin to 18 points.

Suprunowicz, with seven field goals, was high scorer for Michigan with 14 points.

Kentucky, a 10-point favorite, was too much for the smaller Lions. Alex Groza and Wah-Wah Jones, spark plugs of the winning quintet, scored 38 points between them. Walt Budko, Columbia's giant center who led the Ivy League in scoring, had to be content with 17.

Kentucky led 38-25 at half time and then ran all over the easterners in the second half after Columbia had put on one well-sustained rally.

Columbia, making its first appearance since 1931, was full of hustle at the start and succeeded in holding Kentucky's lead to 17-16 in the first 10 minutes of the game.

Then the fast pace and the uncanny knack of blocking shots took their toll on the tiring Lions. Groza beat Budko, the rival center, to most of the rebounds.

Jones Goes On Spree

Jones, who was high scorer of the game with 21 points including nine field goals, went on a scoring spree at the start of the second half to put his mates in front, 45-27.

In the closing minutes of the game, with Budko out on five personal fouls, the Wildcats pulled further away from the Lions and it was no contest at the finish.

Chollet Is Named Most Valuable Player

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 18 (AP)—Leroy Chollet, Canisius' High scoring forward, today was named the most valuable player to appear in Memorial Auditorium basketball this season.

It was the New Orleans boy's second straight year for the title.

Chollet also was a unanimous choice for the auditorium all-star team selected by sports writers, radio commentators, coaches and officials.

Teamed with him at forward was John Brennan of Notre Dame. Ed Mikan of DePaul was the center choice. Dee Gibson of Westeran Kentucky and Eddie Keim of Niagara were the guard selections.

Tom Hoffecker, goalie for the University of Maryland Lacrosse team, was an All-American in 1946. He'll be out this year to try and retain that title for the Terps and according to coach Jack Faber, he should.

Johnstown Champ To Fight Here Monday

Referees Named For Title Games Saturday Night

Pence, Hahn, Koegel And Van Roby Chosen

Four Cumberland officials—Robert Pence, William Hahn, Clifton Van Roby and Herman Koegel—have been appointed to referee the doubleheader that will determine the Maryland Class "A" and "C" basketball championships tomorrow night on the Fort Hill High School court.

Announcement of the selection of officials was made last night by Arthur G. Ramey, member of the state executive committee in charge of state tournament contests.

Koegel and Roby have been assigned as officials for the contest between Wicomico High School of Salisbury and Fort Hill High School, finalists in the Class "A" tourney.

Hahn and Pence will handle the Class "C" finale between the quints of Washington High School of Princess Anne and Bruce High School of Westernport.

The double bill will get under way at 7:30 p. m. It has not been determined which game will be played first.

Jim Carrington, principal of Crisfield High School, and former coach at Frostburg State Teachers' College, will accompany the Salisbury squad to Cumberland.

Other Saturday night finals are as follows:

Boys:

Class B—Franklin (Reistertown) at Cambridge.

Class D—Williamsport (Washington County) at Ocean City.

Girls:

Class A—Wicomico of Salisbury at Bethesda-Chevy Chase.

Class B—Bel Air at Cambridge.

Class C—Denton at Richard Montgomery (Rockville).

Class D—Gwynn Park at Mardella.

The Franklin - Cambridge (boys) and Bel Air - Cambridge (girls) games will be played as a doubleheader at Cambridge.

Reach AAU Finals

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 18 (INS)—The defending champion Atlanta Blues and the second-seeded Nashville, Tenn., Goldblumes tonight gained the finals of the 20th national women's A.A.U. basketball tournament with a pair of sweeping semi-final triumphs.

Atlanta smashed Nashville, Tenn., Business College 39 to 17 and the Goldblues tripped the Chatham Blanketeers of Elkin, N. C., 25 to 17.

AMVETS AND KEYSER MOOSE WIN SENIOR GAMES AT "Y"

Democrats, Gulfers, Legion, Dragons Cop

Cumberland's Amvets, Keyser Moose and the Fourth District Democratic Club scored victories in the Central YMCA-Junior Association of Commerce basketball tournament last night on the "Y" court.

The Amvets eliminated the ABL Rockets, 30-26, and marched into next Tuesday's finals by drawing a bye in the semi-final round.

Keyser Moose took the Ridgeley American Legion into camp, 43-36, and the Fourth District Democratic Club topped the Keyser Big Five, 34-31. The winners will clash in a semi-final game of the senior division.

Sisk's Gulfers moved to the finals in the 135 pound class by downing the Ridgeley Blackhawks last night, 42-30.

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, took the JSIT Five into camp in a junior unlimited class game, 52-26.

Cumberland Dragons gained the final round in the 115 pound competition by defeating the Black Knights, 24-15 in the first of six games played last night.

Games on tap for Monday night are:

7:00—Ridgeley Brokers vs. Ballard's Cleaners (135).

8:00—South End Merchants vs. Variety Five (junior).

9:00—Cadillac Lounge vs. Fort Cumberland Legion (junior).

10:00—Fourth District Democratic Club vs. Keyser Moose (senior).

Finals in the five classes will be played Tuesday. Lineups:

Terry Cherrie Won Dapper Dan Tourney Title

Portage Lightweight Will Meet Virginian

Terry Cherrie, recent winner of the lightweight championship in the Johnstown (Pa.) Dapper Dan Boxing Tournament, will fight Mease Erecheus of Alexandria, Va., in one of the top bouts in St. Mary's Athletic Club amateur boxing show on Monday night at the State Armory, Matchmaker "Bobby" Green announced last night.

Cherrie was voted the outstanding boxer in the Johnstown tourney. He was won 14 bouts and lost one, his only setback having been suffered at the hands of Don Free, Jeanette, Pa., welterweight, who won a recent tourney at Pittsburgh and participated in the Golden Gloves matches at New York.

Terry is one of four Portage, Pa., boxers who will be seen in action in Monday's show.

Matchmaker Green last night stated that the feature go between Lew Kozarek, Portage middleweight, and George Lindley of Alexandria, Va., is scheduled for five rounds instead of three. Kozarek has engaged in 22 amateur matches and won 17, eight via the knockout route.

Andy Grecek of Portage, Pa., will oppose George Ecbert, Alexandria, Va., lightweight, in another three-rounder on the card.

Two of St. Mary's most promising boxers will face out-of-town boys in other matches on the program.

Tommy James, 145, of Alexandria, Va., will swap punches with Billy Lafferty, St. Mary's welterweight, and John "Sonny" Lafferty, St. Mary's 112-pounder, will trade wallops with Tommy Odenthal, of Portage, runner-up in the Dapper Dan tournament at Johnstown.

The card will comprise one five-rounder and seven threes.

Jack Rorick will referee all of the bouts with Gilbert Becker and Howard "Red" Bush as the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Monday's show will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Jim Brown Stopped In Johnstown Bout

Catanese, Washington, Deetz Drop Decisions

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 18—Amateur boxers from Indiana, Windber and Portage, Pa., swept four straight bouts from Cumberland (Md.) mittmen tonight in a show held at Johnstown Catholic High School.

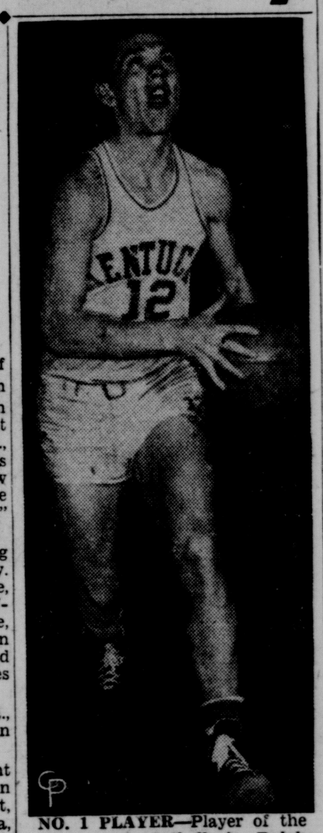
The Marylanders lost three matches on split decisions while one bout ended in a knockout.

Johnny Britton of Indiana knocked out Jimmie Brown, Diamond A.C. lightweight, in the second round. It was Britton's sixth straight knockout victory.

Melvin Washington, Royale A.C. lightweight, put up a great fight with Terry Cherrie, of Portage, Pa., Johnstown Dapper Dan champion, but lost the bout on a split decision.

Tommy Hileman, Indiana, Pa., featherweight, decisioned Jimmie Catanese, Cumberland 126-pounder, representing the Royale A.C., and John Choby, Windber, Pa., won the "duke" over Jimmie Deetz, Diamond A.C. bantamweight.

The show was promoted by Pete Yelovich. Bouts were refereed by Pete Chiodo.



NO. 1 PLAYER—Player of the year in basketball is Ralph Beard, University of Kentucky's great junior forward, according to poll of the National Association of Basketball Coaches conducted by True magazine. Beard received the same honor last year.

Big Name Golfers Vie At Greensboro In $10,000 Event

72-Hole Tournament Gets Started Today

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 18 (AP)—Most of golf's name performers were here today putting finishing touches on their game in preparation for the Greensboro $10,000 Open which gets under way tomorrow.

The 72-hole event over the 6,720-yard Sedgefield Country Club course with a par of 72, will wind up Sunday with 36 holes.

In the absence of a standout favorite, the winners of the last two events here loomed as likely choices. Big Vic Ghezzi, winner last year over the Starmount Forest Club course, and Sam Snead, 1946 victor at Sedgefield, were given as much chance as any of the others of the fast field in pre-tournament talk.

Lloyd Mangrum, who staged a brilliant last day putting exhibition to finish third to Snead two years back and later went on to take the National Open also has his backers.

With Ben Hogan and Bobby Locke the principal absentees, most of the standouts of the game were on hand to take a crack at the top prize of $2,000.

North Carolinians Johnny Palmer, Skip Alexander, Clayton Heafner and Al Smith rated high in the 19th hole discussions.

The amateur contingent will be headed by Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, O., strong boy, who last year finished second to Ghezzi by two strokes.

It was in North Carolina that Stranahan won his first major open tournament, putting the pros to shame at Durham in the fall of 1945.

The tournament here and one at Charlotte starting next Thursday are the last two of the season before the Augusta Masters' tourney, the winter windup, early next month.

Clarksburg Five Wins In Closing Minutes Of Play

Field Goal, Two Fouls Break 45-45 Deadlock

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 18—Washington Irving of Clarksburg finally nipped little Ridgeley High School's darkhorse five 49-45 here tonight in the last three minutes of a hectic first-round struggle in the 35th annual state scholastic basketball tournament.

John Castro's two free throws and Sam Wetzel's goal provided the winning margin after substitute Dick Lehman of Ridgeley knotted the count for the last time at 45-45 with a lay-up.

Quick goals by Roy Comer, Joe Moss and Paul Lindsay zoomed into an 18-12 lead as the first period ended. But W-I rallied strongly in the second quarter behind Casto and Phil Nicewanger to lead at halftime, 27-22. During this period the Clarksburg team outscored Ridgeley 15 to 4.

The Mineral countians outpointed W-I in the third period, 13 to 11, and cut the lead of Coach Clay B. Hite's team to three points at 38-35 when the quarter ended. Brehaney, Comer and Wilson pulled the count to 34-34 in the final period but Ridgeley never regained the lead after early in the second quarter.

Three players were ejected on personal fouls in the fourth period Ridgeley lost Bill Brehaney while the Clarksburg players waved out of action were Casto and Graeber. C. F. (Mickey) McDade and Johnny Goetz called 18 personal fouls on each team. Ridgeley hooped 11 of 18 shots while Washington Irving converted 9 of 21 tosses.

High point honors went to Casto who scored six field goals and six points in 10 tries at the foul line for a total of 18 markers. Layfield, Clarksburg forward, collected 12 points while Brehany and Comer paced Ridgeley with 10 tallies each. Joe Moss, Ridgeley center, played an exceptionally good floor game.

HUNTINGTON, FAIRMONT AND PRINCETON WIN

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 18 (AP)—In the only dull contest of a hectic first round, Huntington East buried Webster Springs 70-41 tonight to become the fourth qualifier for semi-final play in the annual scholastic basketball tournament.

Earlier, spurts in the final three minutes brought Princeton a 66-58 decision over Charleston, and Clarksburg Washington - Irving a 49-45 nod over stubborn little Ridgeley. West Fairmont edged Weirton 43-42 on John Everson's tip-in of a missed foul with five seconds left.

Princeton and West Fairmont meet in the upper bracket semi-final tomorrow night at 7, with W-I tangling with Huntington East's defending champions at 8:30. The championship game will follow Saturday at 2 p. m.

St. John's Will Play Trenton At Newport

St. John's High School of Washington, D. C., will play Catholic High of Trenton, N. J., in the opening round of the eleventh annual Eastern States Catholic Interscholastic Basketball Tournament at Newport, R. I., April 1 at 9 p. m., Brother Gregory, director of LaSalle High School, this city, was advised last night.

LaSalle has participated in this tourney for the past four years and won one championship.

Other first round pairings are:

LaSalle, Providence, R. I., vs. LaSalle Academy, N. Y., 3 p. m.

St. Joseph's Catholic, Manchester, N. H., vs. Regis High School, N. Y. City, 4 p. m.

LaSalle, Philadelphia, vs. DeLaSalle Academy, Newport, 8 p. m.

DeLaSalle, Newport; LaSalle of New York and LaSalle, Philadelphia, each have won two legs on the Bishop Keough Trophy which must be won three times to be retired. The former Bishop Keough is now the Archbishop of Baltimore.

Six of the eight teams in the tourney this year represent schools in charge of the Christian Brothers.

Jack Kramer Wins

ATLANTA, Mar. 18. (AP)—Jack Kramer made it nine straight victories over Bobby Riggs tonight in their 50th meeting of the current tour of tennis professionals, 6-4, 6-4. It was Kamer's 34th win of the tour.

GREET NEW DODGER—Traded by the Boston Braves for Second Baseman Eddie Stanky, First Baseman Ray Sanders (left) is greeted by two of his new Brooklyn teammates when he reports to the Dodgers' training camp at Ciudad Trujillo in the Dominican Republic. Kentucky Beats Columbia, 76-53, Holy Cross Wins

Michigan Loses 63-45 In NCAA Semi-Finals

NEW YORK, March 18 (INS)—Favored Kentucky and Holy Cross qualified tonight to meet in the final of the NCAA eastern regional basketball tournament on Saturday by winning their semi-final matches at Madison Square Garden.

Kentucky, a 10-point choice, swamped Columbia, 76 to 53. Columbia is the Ivy League champion.

Holy Cross, defending champion, defeated Michigan easily, 63 to 45. Michigan is the Big Nine titleholder.

Holy Cross was only a slight favorite, but the Crusaders vanquished the Wolverines with little more trouble than Kentucky experienced with Columbia.

Michigan spent itself in one dazzling rally in the first half. The Wolverines, trailing 13-9, ran off to a 21-6 advantage with the deceptive Mack Suprunowicz sparking the rally. He caged three field goals in succession.

Crusaders Cut Loose

Then Holy Cross, with a brilliant display of ball-handling, started to go. While Michigan was getting only one free throw in seven minutes, Joe Mullaney, Bob Cousy, Frank Oftring and George Kaftan of the Crusaders ran up a 27-22 advantage.

At the half, it was Holy Cross 34, Michigan 27.

Cousy, who was high individual scorer of both games with 23 points, showed the way as the Crusaders pulled further away in the second half until they increased their margin to 18 points.

Suprunowicz, with seven field goals, was high scorer for Michigan with 14 points.

Kentucky, a 10-point favorite, was too much for the smaller Lions. Alex Groza and Wah-Wah Jones, spark plugs of the winning quintet, scored 38 points between them. Walt Budko, Columbia's giant center who led the Ivy League in scoring, had to be content with 17.

Kentucky led 38-25 at half time and then ran all over the easterners in the second half after Columbia had put on one well-sustained rally.

Columbia, making its first appearance since 1931, was full of hustle at the start and succeeded in holding Kentucky's lead to 17-16 in the first 10 minutes of the game.

Then the fast pace and the uncanny knack of blocking shots took their toll on the tiring Lions. Groza beat Budko, the rival center, to most of the rebounds.

Jones Goes On Spree

Jones, who was high scorer of the game with 21 points including nine field goals, went on a scoring spree at the start of the second half to put his mates in front, 45-27.

In the closing minutes of the game, with Budko out on five personal fouls, the Wildcats pulled further away from the Lions and it was no contest at the finish.

Chollet Is Named Most Valuable Player

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 18 (AP)—Leroy Chollet, Canisius' High scoring forward, today was named the most valuable player to appear in Memorial Auditorium basketball this season.

It was the New Orleans boy's second straight year for the title.

Chollet also was a unanimous choice for the auditorium all-star team selected by sports writers, radio commentators, coaches and officials.

Teamed with him at forward was John Brennan of Notre Dame. Ed Mikan of DePaul was the center choice. Dee Gibson of Westeran Kentucky and Eddie Keim of Niagara were the guard selections.

Tom Hoffecker, goalie for the University of Maryland Lacrosse team, was an All-American in 1946. He'll be out this year to try and retain that title for the Terps and according to coach Jack Faber, he should.

Johnstown Champ To Fight Here Monday

Referees Named For Title Games Saturday Night

Pence, Hahn, Koegel And Van Roby Chosen

Four Cumberland officials—Robert Pence, William Hahn, Clifton Van Roby and Herman Koegel—have been appointed to referee the doubleheader that will determine the Maryland Class "A" and "C" basketball championships tomorrow night on the Fort Hill High School court.

Announcement of the selection of officials was made last night by Arthur G. Ramey, member of the state executive committee in charge of state tournament contests.

Koegel and Roby have been assigned as officials for the contest between Wicomico High School of Salisbury and Fort Hill High School, finalists in the Class "A" tourney.

Hahn and Pence will handle the Class "C" finale between the quints of Washington High School of Princess Anne and Bruce High School of Westernport.

The double bill will get under way at 7:30 p. m. It has not been determined which game will be played first.

Jim Carrington, principal of Crisfield High School, and former coach at Frostburg State Teachers' College, will accompany the Salisbury squad to Cumberland.

Other Saturday night finals are as follows:

Boys:

Class B—Franklin (Reistertown) at Cambridge.

Class D—Williamsport (Washington County) at Ocean City.

Girls:

Class A—Wicomico of Salisbury at Bethesda-Chevy Chase.

Class B—Bel Air at Cambridge.

Class C—Denton at Richard Montgomery (Rockville).

Class D—Gwynn Park at Mardella.

The Franklin - Cambridge (boys) and Bel Air - Cambridge (girls) games will be played as a doubleheader at Cambridge.

Reach AAU Finals

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 18 (INS)—The defending champion Atlanta Blues and the second-seeded Nashville, Tenn., Goldblumes tonight gained the finals of the 20th national women's A.A.U. basketball tournament with a pair of sweeping semi-final triumphs.

Atlanta smashed Nashville, Tenn., Business College 39 to 17 and the Goldblues tripped the Chatham Blanketeers of Elkin, N. C., 25 to 17.

AMVETS AND KEYSER MOOSE WIN SENIOR GAMES AT "Y"

Democrats, Gulfers, Legion, Dragons Cop

Cumberland's Amvets, Keyser Moose and the Fourth District Democratic Club scored victories in the Central YMCA-Junior Association of Commerce basketball tournament last night on the "Y" court.

The Amvets eliminated the ABL Rockets, 30-26, and marched into next Tuesday's finals by drawing a bye in the semi-final round.

Keyser Moose took the Ridgeley American Legion into camp, 43-36, and the Fourth District Democratic Club topped the Keyser Big Five, 34-31. The winners will clash in a semi-final game of the senior division.

Sisk's Gulfers moved to the finals in the 135 pound class by downing the Ridgeley Blackhawks last night, 42-30.

Fort Cumberland Post, American Legion, took the JSIT Five into camp in a junior unlimited class game, 52-26.

Cumberland Dragons gained the final round in the 115 pound competition by defeating the Black Knights, 24-15 in the first of six games played last night.

Games on tap for Monday night are:

7:00—Ridgeley Brokers vs. Ballard's Cleaners (135).

8:00—South End Merchants vs. Variety Five (junior).

9:00—Cadillac Lounge vs. Fort Cumberland Legion (junior).

10:00—Fourth District Democratic Club vs. Keyser Moose (senior).

Terry Cherrie Won Dapper Dan Tourney Title

Portage Lightweight Will Meet Virginian

Terry Cherrie, recent winner of the lightweight championship in the Johnstown (Pa.) Dapper Dan Boxing Tournament, will fight Mease Erecheus of Alexandria, Va., in one of the top bouts in St. Mary's Athletic Club amateur boxing show on Monday night at the State Armory, Matchmaker "Bobby" Green announced last night.

Cherrie was voted the outstanding boxer in the Johnstown tourney. He was won 14 bouts and lost one, his only setback having been suffered at the hands of Don Free, Jeanette, Pa., welterweight, who won a recent tourney at Pittsburgh and participated in the Golden Gloves matches at New York.

Terry is one of four Portage, Pa., boxers who will be seen in action in Monday's show.

Matchmaker Green last night stated that the feature go between Lew Kozarek, Portage middleweight, and George Lindley of Alexandria, Va., is scheduled for five rounds instead of three. Kozarek has engaged in 22 amateur matches and won 17, eight via the knockout route.

Andy Grecek of Portage, Pa., will oppose George Ecbert, Alexandria, Va., lightweight, in another three-rounder on the card.

Two of St. Mary's most promising boxers will face out-of-town boys in other matches on the program.

Tommy James, 145, of Alexandria, Va., will swap punches with Billy Lafferty, St. Mary's welterweight, and John "Sonny" Lafferty, St. Mary's 112-pounder, will trade wallops with Tommy Odenthal, of Portage, runner-up in the Dapper Dan tournament at Johnstown.

The card will comprise one five-rounder and seven threes.

Jack Rorick will referee all of the bouts with Gilbert Becker and Howard "Red" Bush as the judges, "Bobby" Cavanaugh, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Monday's show will get under way at 8 o'clock.

Jim Brown Stopped In Johnstown Bout

Catanese, Washington, Deetz Drop Decisions

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 18—Amateur boxers from Indiana, Windber and Portage, Pa., swept four straight bouts from Cumberland (Md.) mittmen tonight in a show held at Johnstown Catholic High School.

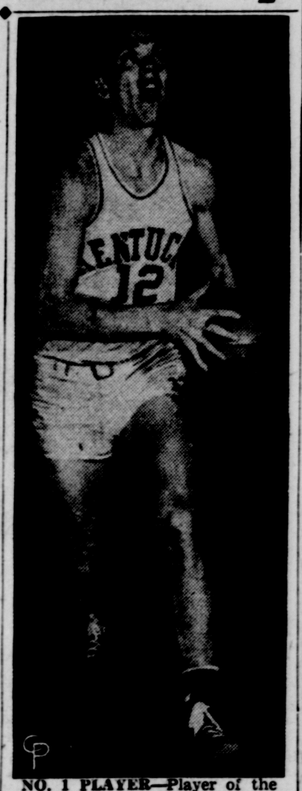
The Marylanders lost three matches on split decisions while one bout ended in a knockout.

Johnny Britton of Indiana knocked out Jimmie Brown, Diamond A.C. lightweight, in the second round. It was Britton's sixth straight knockout victory.

Melvin Washington, Royale A.C. lightweight, put up a great fight with Terry Cherrie, of Portage, Pa., Johnstown Dapper Dan champion, but lost the bout on a split decision.

Tommy Hileman, Indiana, Pa., featherweight, decisioned Jimmie Catanese, Cumberland 126-pounder, representing the Royale A.C., and John Choby, Windber, Pa., won the "duke" over Jimmie Deetz, Diamond A.C. bantamweight.

The show was promoted by Pete Yelovich. Bouts were refereed by Pete Chiodo.



NO. 1 PLAYER—Player of the year in basketball is Ralph Beard, University of Kentucky's great junior forward, according to poll of the National Association of Basketball Coaches conducted by True magazine. Beard received the same honor last year.

Big Name Golfers Vie At Greensboro In $10,000 Event

By KEN ALYTA

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 18 (AP)—Most of golf's name performers were here today putting finishing touches on their game in preparation for the Greensboro $10,000 Open which gets under way tomorrow.

The 72-hole event over the 6,720-yard Sedgefield Country Club course with a par of 72, will wind up Sunday with 36 holes.

In the absence of a standout favorite, the winners of the last two events here loomed as likely choices. Big Vic Ghezzi, winner last year over the Starmount Forest Club course, and Sam Snead, 1946 victor at Sedgefield, were given as much chance as any of the others of the fast field in pre-tournament talk.

Lloyd Mangrum, who staged a brilliant last day putting exhibition to finish third to Snead two years back and later went on to take the National Open also has his backers.

With Ben Hogan and Bobby Locke the principal absentees, most of the standouts of the game were on hand to take a crack at the top prize of $2,000.

North Carolinians Johnny Palmer, Skip Alexander, Clayton Heafner and Al Smith rated high in the 19th hole discussions.

The amateur contingent will be headed by Frank Stranahan, the Toledo, O., strong boy, who last year finished second to Ghezzi by two strokes.

It was in North Carolina that Stranahan won his first major open tournament, putting the pros to shame at Durham in the fall of 1945.

The tournament here and one at Charlotte starting next Thursday are the last two of the season before the Augusta Masters' tourney, the winter windup, early next month.

BENNY TAKES OVER-- Talking over University of Michigan's football prospects for 1948 are Capt. Dominic Tomasi (left) and Head Coach Benny Oosterbaan. Oosterbaan was appointed coach by Fritz Crisler, when Crisler, in a surprise move, announced his resignation as head coach but said he would retain his posts as athletic director and head of the physical education department of the university.

Clarksburg Five Wins In Closing Minutes Of Play

Field Goal, Two Fouls Break 45-45 Deadlock

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 18—Washington Irving of Clarksburg finally nipped little Ridgeley High School's darkhorse five 49-45 here tonight in the last three minutes of a hectic first-round struggle in the 35th annual state scholastic basketball tournament.

John Castro's two free throws and Sam Wetzel's goal provided the winning margin after substitute Dick Lehman of Ridgeley knotted the count for the last time at 45-45 with a lay-up.

Quick goals by Roy Comer, Joe Moss and Paul Lindsay zoomed into an 18-12 lead as the first period ended. But W-I rallied strongly in the second quarter behind Casto and Phil Nicewanger to lead at halftime, 27-22. During this period the Clarksburg team outscored Ridgeley 15 to 4.

The Mineral countians outpointed W-I in the third period, 13 to 11, and cut the lead of Coach Clay B. Hite's team to three points at 38-35 when the quarter ended. Brehaney, Comer and Wilson pulled the count to 34-34 in the final period but Ridgeley never regained the lead after early in the second quarter.

Three players were ejected on personal fouls in the fourth period Ridgeley lost Bill Brehaney while the Clarksburg players waved out of action were Casto and Graeber. C. F. (Mickey) McDade and Johnny Goetz called 18 personal fouls on each team. Ridgeley hooped 11 of 18 shots while Washington Irving converted 9 of 21 tosses.

High point honors went to Casto who scored six field goals and six points in 10 tries at the foul line for a total of 18 markers. Layfield, Clarksburg forward, collected 12 points while Brehany and Comer paced Ridgeley with 10 tallies each. Joe Moss, Ridgeley center, played an exceptionally good floor game.

The lineups:

HUNTINGTON, FAIRMONT AND PRINCETON WIN

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 18 (AP)—In the only dull contest of a hectic first round, Huntington East buried Webster Springs 70-41 tonight to become the fourth qualifier for semi-final play in the annual scholastic basketball tournament.

Earlier, spurts in the final three minutes brought Princeton a 66-58 decision over Charleston, and Clarksburg Washington - Irving a 49-45 nod over stubborn little Ridgeley. West Fairmont edged Weirton 43-42 on John Everson's tip-in of a missed foul with five seconds left.

Princeton and West Fairmont meet in the upper bracket semi-final tomorrow night at 7, with W-I tangling with Huntington East's defending champions at 8:30. The championship game will follow Saturday at 2 p. m.

St. John's Will Play Trenton At Newport

St. John's High School of Washington, D. C., will play Catholic High of Trenton, N. J., in the opening round of the eleventh annual Eastern States Catholic Interscholastic Basketball Tournament at Newport, R. I., April 1 at 9 p. m., Brother Gregory, director of LaSalle High School, this city, was advised last night.

LaSalle has participated in this tourney for the past four years and won one championship.

Other first round pairings are:

LaSalle, Providence, R. I., vs. LaSalle Academy, N. Y., 3 p. m.

St. Joseph's Catholic, Manchester, N. H., vs. Regis High School, N. Y. City, 4 p. m.

Cagey McCarthy Isn't Talking Pennant, But His Boston Red Sox Look Red Hot

SPENCE . . . may start at first.

KRAMER . . . thanks to the Browns.

DROPO . . . this may be the year.

STEPHENS . . . what about Pesky?

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

SARASOTA, Fla. — You would never get Joe McCarthy, new manager of the Boston Red Sox, to say it, but the Beantown Bully Boys are co-favorites with the New York Yankees for the American league pennant.

In fact, the affable but tight-mouthed Marse Joe, with a great record at turning out pennant winners, never tells you anything about his ball club that you don't already know before you talk to him.

The writing boys, at least most of them, can't break down Marse Joe, although he answers all your questions politely—and says nothing.

"How's your club look?" we started out.

"All right," was Joe's answer and he went overboard to elaborate.

"I'm well pleased with it. Of course we're not in shape yet."

"How do your young pitchers look, Joe?"

"Why, I'd say they look good," was his answer.

"How's Bill Goodman look this year, Joe?"

"Fine. He's playing all over the infield. We've had him at second base. He did some shortstopping for Louisville last year you know."

"How's Johnny Pesky making out at third, Joe?"

"All right. He's been playing there in our intra-squad games."

"How's your practice sessions working out, Joe?"

"Good—nobody's being overworked."

"Would you care to give us an overall picture on the team, Joe?"

"No, I can't say. You know the newspapermen with the club. Ask them, they'll tell you."

"Would you care to make any predictions on the race, Joe?"

"No, I never do that. Besides, I've been out of baseball since 1946, you know."

"How's Mickey Harris' arm this year, Joe?"

"All right, I guess. He's looking exceptionally well. We're using both Mickey and Tex Hughson in batting practice regularly."

As we said, you'd never know the Red Sox are loaded this year.

The Red Sox have strengthened their team considerably but the big question will be pitching and catching.

Harris, once a mighty fine left-hander, got in only 15 games last year. He was given orders to rest and he rested so much that Joe Cronin, former manager and now general manager, spouted, "He's rested 225 pounds worth."

Tex Hughson, the big righthander who was counted on for 20 victories last season and could only win 13, underwent two operations on his arm and it remains to be seen what he will do this year.

Even Dave Ferriss, who won 20 or more games his first two seasons in the majors, had a bad time last year and he also remains somewhat of a question mark.

The Sox added two of the Brownies' best pitchers, Ellis Kinder and Jack Kramer, who won 19 games between them last year. They should help the club immensely. Of the newcomers Pete Modica, who won 13 for New Orleans, looks best.

Only experienced catcher on the roster is Birdie Tebbetts, who had a fine year in 1947 but for replacements Manager McCarthy must call on inexperienced help. The other receivers are Eddie McGah, from Louisville, a very weak hitter; Boris Martin, who batted .319 for Toledo,

"BUD" FISHER WINS MONOGRAM AT VPI

Bruce M. Fisher, Jr., of Bedford, Pa., who starred with the freshman five at the start of the season and finished the campaign as a member of the varsity quint, was one the 36 athletes and managers awarded monograms by the athletic council at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va., this week.

"Bud" was among eleven of Coach Laird's Big Six champions to receive monograms. All eleven men played a big part in the battle down the stretch and helped win sixth place in the conference tourney at Durham.

Fisher is a son of Bedford High School's basketball and football coach and starred as a halfback and forward for Bison teams for several seasons.

Cagey McCarthy Isn't Talking But His Red Sox Look Red Hot

and Matt Batts, who hit only .262 for Toronto.

Where Goodman fits in is a question and he may go out once more. He had another good season with Louisville, hitting .340. The Sox bought him from Atlanta, for a big price, after he had swatted .389 as an outfielder. They kept him on the roster last year until June and then sent him to Louisville.

Acquisition of the hard-hitting Stan Spence, an outfielder, posed somewhat of a problem. Spence has been playing first base and probably will open in that spot. Murrell Jones, who came over from the White Sox last summer, was the Red Sox first sacker last year.

Bobby Doerr is at second and Vernon Stephens, one of the best shortstops in the league, will take over that spot. Stephens was purchased from the Browns.

Pesky was the regular shortstop for several years but with Stephens on the roster McCarthy had to do something with Pesky.

He solved that problem and also his third base problem by putting Pesky on third. That was one of the bad spots on the club last year.

The outfield is all set. Sam Mele, the rookie who hit .302 for the Red Sox last year; Dominic DiMaggio, the great ballhawk, and the mighty man himself, Theodore Williams, give the Sox one of the best outfields in the business.

Williams has been belting them over the fence at Payne Field here despite strong winds. And Mele also hits a long ball. Wally Moses is still around to help out.

One of the most-talked-about guys in camp is Walter Dropo, a big first baseman who belongs to Louisville. He's billed for stardom in the future but probably will go out again this year.

Marse Joe holds a press conference in the clubhouse after each practice session. He doesn't put it off until the boys get back to the hotel.

Ralph Beard Named Player Of The Year

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 18 (AP)—Ralph Beard of Kentucky was named college basketball player of the year today on a 15-man All-America squad selected for True magazine by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Beard, awarded the "most valuable player" trophy for the second straight season, was placed on the first five, along with Ed MaCauley of St. Louis, Kevin O'Shea of Notre Dame, Tony Lavelli of Yale and Arnold Ferrin of Utah.

The squad, selected by the coaches and a special panel of sports writers, was announced today by Yale coach Howard Hobson, president of the association.

Ocean Downs Harness Race Meet Postponed

BALTIMORE, March 18 (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission today granted permission to operators of the Ocean Downs harness-racing track to postpone their inaugural meeting until next year.

Clarence Miles, board chairman at Ocean Downs, assured the commission that the Ocean Downs racing plant would be completed in the spring of 1949. The track will cost an estimated $600,000.

and Matt Batts, who hit only .262 for Toronto.

Where Goodman fits in is a question and he may go out once more. He had another good season with Louisville, hitting .340. The Sox bought him from Atlanta, for a big price, after he had swatted .389 as an outfielder. They kept him on the roster last year until June and then sent him to Louisville.

Acquisition of the hard-hitting Stan Spence, an outfielder, posed somewhat of a problem. Spence has been playing first base and probably will open in that spot. Murrell Jones, who came over from the White Sox last summer, was the Red Sox first sacker last year.

Bobby Doerr is at second and Vernon Stephens, one of the best shortstops in the league, will take over that spot. Stephens was purchased from the Browns.

Pesky was the regular shortstop for several years but with Stephens on the roster McCarthy had to do something with Pesky.

He solved that problem and also his third base problem by putting Pesky on third. That was one of the bad spots on the club last year.

The outfield is all set. Sam Mele, the rookie who hit .302 for the Red Sox last year; Dominic DiMaggio, the great ballhawk, and the mighty man himself, Theodore Williams, give the Sox one of the best outfields in the business.

Williams has been belting them over the fence at Payne Field here despite strong winds. And Mele also hits a long ball. Wally Moses is still around to help out.

One of the most-talked-about guys in camp is Walter Dropo, a big first baseman who belongs to Louisville. He's billed for stardom in the future but probably will go out again this year.

Marse Joe holds a press conference in the clubhouse after each practice session. He doesn't put it off until the boys get back to the hotel.

Ralph Beard Named Player Of The Year

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 18 (AP)—Ralph Beard of Kentucky was named college basketball player of the year today on a 15-man All-America squad selected for True magazine by the National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Beard, awarded the "most valuable player" trophy for the second straight season, was placed on the first five, along with Ed MacCauley of St. Louis, Kevin O'Shea of Notre Dame, Tony Lavelli of Yale and Arnold Ferrin of Utah.

The squad, selected by the coaches and a special panel of sports writers, was announced today by Yale coach Howard Hobson, president of the association.

Ocean Downs Harness Race Meet Postponed

BALTIMORE, March 18 (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission today granted permission to operators of the Ocean Downs harness-racing track to postpone their inaugural meeting until next year.

Clarence Miles, board chairman at Ocean Downs, assured the commission that the Ocean Downs racing plant would be completed in the spring of 1949. The track will cost an estimated $600,000.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Possibility She May Never Marry Deeply Concerns Woman, 26

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

At 26, "Miss G" is deeply concerned over the possibility that she may never marry. She wants to get married, she says, and there is nobody to marry. Any young man in whom she becomes interested always seems to end up married to somebody else and she wonders why.

She's thought of a lot of possible reasons.

"Maybe I'm homely," she says. "Maybe I'm too big and stout."

She can afford good-looking clothes, and her friends tell her she dresses well. She has a great many interests, enjoys sports, music, movies, and likes people. She has lots of friends and, in addition, she has a serious interest in child health, a field in which she hopes some day to take an active part.

In spite of having so much to take up her mind and thought, however, she declares she is not happy because she "doesn't want to be a spinster."

Of course one trouble with this young woman is the fact that she is so very conscious of the lack of men in her life that her preoccupation with the idea has thrown her thinking all out of proportion. So all-important has her great desire to be married become that she appraises every man she meets on the basis of whether or not he would "make a good husband and a good provider." Such an attitude is bound to make itself felt by any man with whom she comes in contact, who no doubt sees that appraising look in her eye. Nothing scares a man away from a girl more quickly than to become uncomfortably aware that he is being regarded as a possible prospect for matrimony.

So the first thing for this girl to do is to stop thinking so much about marriage in general. This will help her stop thinking about it in particular as it applies to herself. In time she maw be able simply to have a good time with a man without worrying about how he is going to react toward her. Naturally, his reaction will be much pleasanter under those circumstances.

The second thing she might do, if there is no reason why she must stay in the small town where she lives, is to move to a large city where there will be opportunity to meet more people. I am not suggesting that she go on a deliberate manhunt, but merely that new friends mean greater social opportunity.

Then there is a third thing that will probably help her even more than either of the others. That is for her to become so interested in the things she is doing that she will in turn be interesting to everyone she meets. For a person who is obviously having a good time, rather than looking for one, is always one who attracts men and women alike. Instead of concentrating on the fact that she is lonely, an attitude which repels people instead of attracting them, let her radiate enthusiasm for the friends she has, the work she does, and the activities she enjoys. That more than anything else will help her toward the goal she wants to achieve.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Possibility She May Never Marry Deeply Concerns Woman, 26

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

At 26, "Miss G" is deeply concerned over the possibility that she may never marry. She wants to get married, she says, and there is nobody to marry. Any young man in whom she becomes interested always seems to end up married to somebody else and she wonders why.

She's thought of a lot of possible reasons.

"Maybe I'm homely," she says. "Maybe I'm too big and stout."

She can afford good-looking clothes, and her friends tell her she dresses well. She has a great many interests, enjoys sports, music, movies, and likes people. She has lots of friends and, in addition, she has a serious interest in child health, a field in which she hopes some day to take an active part.

In spite of having so much to take up her mind and thought, however, she declares she is not happy because she "doesn't want to be a spinster."

Of course one trouble with this young woman is the fact that she is so very conscious of the lack of men in her life that her preoccupation with the idea has thrown her thinking all out of proportion. So all-important has her great desire to be married become that she appraises every man she meets on the basis of whether or not he would "make a good husband and a good provider." Such an attitude is bound to make itself felt by any man with whom she comes in contact, who no doubt sees that appraising look in her eye. Nothing scares a man away from a girl more quickly than to become uncomfortably aware that he is being regarded as a possible prospect for matrimony.

So the first thing for this girl to do is to stop thinking so much about marriage in general. This will help her stop thinking about it in particular as it applies to herself. In time she maw be able simply to have a good time with a man without worrying about how he is going to react toward her. Naturally, his reaction will be much pleasanter under those circumstances.

The second thing she might do, if there is no reason why she must stay in the small town where she lives, is to move to a large city where there will be opportunity to meet more people. I am not suggesting that she go on a deliberate manhunt, but merely that new friends mean greater social opportunity.

Then there is a third thing that will probably help her even more than either of the others. That is for her to become so interested in the things she is doing that she will in turn be interesting to everyone she meets. For a person who is obviously having a good time, rather than looking for one, is always one who attracts men and women alike. Instead of concentrating on the fact that she is lonely, an attitude which repels people instead of attracting them, let her radiate enthusiasm for the friends she has, the work she does, and the activities she enjoys. That more than anything else will help her toward the goal she wants to achieve.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my mother, Mrs. Thomas McCormack, who departed this world three years ago today, March 19, 1945.

No one knows how much I miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain,
I have suffered since I lost you,
Life has never been the same.

In my heart, your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That I do not think of you.

Sadly missed by her daughter, MRS. JULIA McC. WARD.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking our friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses shown to us following the death of our husband and father, John Allen Foutz. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my mother, Mrs. Thomas McCormack, who departed this world three years ago today, March 19, 1945.

No one knows how much I miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain,
I have suffered since I lost you,
Life has never been the same.

In my heart, your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That I do not think of you.

Sadly missed by her daughter, MRS. JULIA McC. WARD.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking our friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses shown to us following the death of our husband and father, John Allen Foutz. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes.

1946 CADILLAC 4 DOOR SEDAN
1942 CHEVROLET TOWN SEDAN
It's black, equipped with Radio and Heater, and in excellent condition. Can be bought for what others ask for '41s.
1941 CHEVROLET BUSINESS COUPE
Black finish, with Heater. It's nice and you'll like our low price.
1940 PONTIAC 4 DOOR SEDAN
Nice black finish, Radio and Heater. If you are looking for a really clean car, this is it.
1940 DODGE 4 DOOR SEDAN
Original green finish. Motor just overhauled, ready for thousands of trouble-free miles.
1940 CHEVROLET TOWN SEDAN
Heater. Original black finish. The motor is so quiet you can hardly hear it running. A little honey.
1940 CHEVROLET 5 PASSENGER COUPE
Radio and Heater. Maroon finish. Runs like a clock.
1939 CHEVROLET TOWN SEDAN
Heater. New Paint and runs beautifully. You'll be surprised how cheap you can buy this one.
1938 CHEVROLET 4 DOOR SEDAN
Nice brown paint, with Heater. We overhauled the motor on this one. If you're looking for a good '38 this is the one you'll want.
1937 CHRYSLER 4 DOOR SEDAN
Heater. We spent plenty on this one and it's still lousy. Maybe it would do better with a new owner. Make us an offer.
1936 OLDSMOBILE 2 DOOR SEDAN
Heater. Original black finish. Nice motor and new knee-action. You'll like this.
1936 DODGE 4 DOOR SEDAN
Original black paint. Radio and Heater. This is the one you've been looking for. Priced right.
1936 CHEVROLET TOWN SEDAN
New brown paint and runs good. Here is a nice cheap car for somebody.
1935 CHEVROLET COACH
It's black with good rubber and runs good but doesn't look so hot. Priced accordingly.
1933 CHEVROLET 4 DOOR SEDAN
We spent some time trying to think of something good to say about this one, but gave up. It's terrible!

Stocks Extend Their Recovery On More Or Less Restricted Basis

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP) — Stocks extended their recovery in today's market but on a more or less restricted basis.

The pace slowed after midday and top gains running to two or more points were reduced in the majority of cases. A number of pivotals slipped to the minus column at the close. Transfers of 890,000 shares compared with 930,000 the day before.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .3 of a point at 61.2 but the drop of Tuesday still had not been cancelled. Of 933 issues registering, 624 rose and 139 fell.

Touching highs for 1948 were American Airlines, which emerged up three-eighths at 9¼; Northwest Airlines common 1¼ at 16⅝ and the preferred 1⅜ at 26⅜, Curtiss-Wright common three-eighths at 6¼ and the "A" stock seven-eighths at 23¼.

Ahead major fractions to two were Anaconda at 32⅛, American Smelting 51, United States Steel 69⅜, Youngstown Sheet 68¾, Montgomery Ward 49¾, Kennecott 46¼, Oliver Corporation 24¼, Douglas Aircraft 61, Distillers Corporation 13⅞, Pacific Western Oil 50⅝, Eastern Air Lines, 18, Phelps Dodge 43⅞, Union Carbide 99¼, Allied Chemical 173, American Woolen 39⅜ and International Paper 43¾.

Pepsi-Cola reached a low for the year and ended off 1⅛ at 16½. In arrears also were Standard Oil (NJ), Chesapeake and Ohio, du Pont, Electric Power and Light, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth and United Aircraft.

Improved in the curb were Humble Oil, and United Aircraft Products. Electric Power and Light 2nd preferred "A" yielded four points. Electric Bond and Share and Gray Manufacturing eased. Turnover here was 260,000 shares versus 290,000 yesterday.

The bond market was on the upgrade, with some selected rails making substantial gains.

Spring Ushers in Zero Hour in China; United States Has Large Stake in War

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C. — With the ravages of World War II still a too recent memory, the exhileration of spring's arrival this year is tempered by grim forebodings that it means the quickened pace of armies again—this time in China.

All eyes here are focused on the Far Eastern theater of the all-out conflict between General Chiang Kai-shek's tottering Nationalist regime and the increasingly aggressive Chinese Communists, who apparently are waxing stronger by the hour.

The final decisive battles in the long and bitter struggle seem to be at hand. Mukden, scene of many a fateful event in the past, again may capture headlines as the Communists made their bid, perhaps as early as April, to capture all of Manchuria.

Throughout the sub-zero temperatures of the last few months, the North China Communist hordes have been gathering strength to smash the Government armies isolated since early last fall by the cutting of the Peiping-Mukden railway.

The magnitude of the titanic struggle is indicated by the size of the armies preparing for the final showdown. More than two hundred thousand Government troops are menaced by the Communist encirclement.

• • •

INCLUDED in the government forces are 20,000 men comprising a full division of Chiang's crack New First Army, now cut off at Changchun north of Mukden and doomed if Mukden falls.

The United States is more than just an interested spectator on the sidelines of this civil war which antedates World War II and has some uncomfortably similar aspects to another internal conflict which some authorities credit with setting off the spark that started the second world conflict, the Spanish civil war.

The United States has backed Chiang Kai-shek in his attempt to rout the Communists. How far the backing has gone depends largely on whom you talk with here.

There are those "experts" who will tell you that Uncle Sam is in the Chinese civil war on Chiang's side to the extent of "billions of dollars," and they refer to the recently disclosed long-secret agreement whereby the United States committed itself to provide China with a first-line air force of 1,071 planes, including heavy bombers and fighters, 936 of which already have been delivered.

They figure it in detail this way: Since VJ-day, the United States has extended to China $777,000,000 in lend-lease, $83,000,000 in loans represented by authorized bank credits in the new Export-Import Bank, $468,000,000 as the U. S. share of UNRRA aid, $48,000,000 in U. S. post-UNRRA relief, and $40,000,000 in surplus property credits — a grand total of $1,416,000,000!

In addition, Congress has pending before it now President Truman's proposed $570,000,000 for stop-gap aid in the form of extremely essential materials for Chiang, and this will come to a vote as the violent clash between the Nationalists and Communists reaches the zero hour.

• • •

ON TOP of all this, the school of thought here that holds that Uncle Sam has gone overboard for Chiang points out that from 1941 to VJ-day, the United States gave China loans amounting to $1,349,000,000 and "sold" at cut rates other goods that bring the total aid to more than four billion dollars.

And when World War II ended in the Far East, the United States gave Chiang the additional boost of transporting six of his armies to North China so that he could occupy that part of his country as the Japanese surrendered and before the Communists could move in. The Chinese navy has been enlarged by 271 vessels turned over to it by the United States.

On the other side of the complex picture, however, there are those here who say that these are just figures, and so far as actual aid is concerned, the United States has pulled its punches.

They argue that direct financial aid has not bulked large compared with that extended to other nations less hard put to it by an all-out war against the Communists, and besides that the Export-Import bank credits are a book transaction that so far has not helped at all.

• • •

THE SURPLUS PROPERTY — ships, construction equipment, trucks, food, clothing, and medical supplies—they maintain was junk not worth moving home and therefore palmed off on the Chinese.

They brand as a "phoney gesture" the pending $570,000,000 stop-gap aid program, and contend that the provision for it to include only "scarce commodities" means Chiang will not get what he needs above all else — arms and assistance in stabilizing his inflated currency.

As the aid program now stands, on the eve of Chiang's greatest travail since he broke with the Communists, it is described by its critics as "the greatest operation rathole of all time." To the neutral observer the controversy is full of confusing claims and counter-claims.

Those who condemn the present American policy toward China are inclined to blame it on Secretary of State Marshall, who they say fell out with Chiang over the latter's treatment of the late Gen. Joseph Stilwell of Burma Road fame, a great friend of Marshall's.

But if these opposing critics cannot agree on the extent of American aid to China in the past, present, or future, they at least are apparently in complete accord on one thing — the Chinese Nationalists now are fighting with their backs to the wall.

Chiang's army of 3,500,000 men seems to have dropped so low in morale that it is about to be knocked out by an aggressive up-and-coming Communist force about a third as big.

• • •

THE REAL SOURCE of the despair that has been spreading recently among Chiang's partisans is the series of reliable reports that the once vaunted Kuomintang party, the Nationalists, has lost its evangellical zeal and the role of "crusaders with a cause" has passed over to the Communists.

This is a far cry and a complete turning of the cycle from the days of white-heat enthusiasm for democracy that in 1911 enabled the famous "Sun dynasty" to overthrow the reactionary Manchus and proclaim a period of "education" toward a constitutional government to be adopted as soon as China was prepared for it.

Ironically, the time when the Kuomintang planned to give China its democratic constitution now is at hand. The machinery has been set in motion, and Chinese delegates to a general assemby have been elected all over the world where Chinese live, including the Chinatown of Chicago, New York, and San Francisco.

The spreading chaos throughout China may halt it again, however as it was stopped once before in 1928 as the Japanese launched their war. The clash between rival armies of more than a million men each, and the millions of refugees spilling out of the fighting areas is not creating an atmosphere that encourages the careful constitutional planning that the Nationalists scheduled.

A key to the magnitude of the conflict of this spring is furnished by reliable estimates that China now has no less than 15,000,000 war refugees and 5,000,000 men under arms engaged in savage conflict. These are figures that compare with those of the world's great engagements, and indeed spring arrives in China this month with a grim portent of decisive battles in the immediate offing.

Stocks Extend Their Recovery On More Or Less Restricted Basis

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP) — Stocks extended their recovery in today's market but on a more or less restricted basis.

The pace slowed after midday and top gains running to two or more points were reduced in the majority of cases. A number of pivotals slipped to the minus column at the close. Transfers of 890,000 shares compared with 930,000 the day before.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .3 of a point at 61.2 but the drop of Tuesday still had not been cancelled. Of 933 issues registering, 624 rose and 139 fell.

Touching highs for 1948 were American Airlines, which emerged up three-eighths at 9¼; Northwest Airlines common 1¼ at 16⅝ and the preferred 1⅜ at 26⅜, Curtiss-Wright common three-eighths at 6¼ and the "A" stock seven-eighths at 23¼.

Ahead major fractions to two were Anaconda at 32⅛, American Smelting 51, United States Steel 69⅜, Youngstown Sheet 68¾, Montgomery Ward 49¾, Kennecott 46¼, Oliver Corporation 24¼, Douglas Aircraft 61, Distillers Corporation 13⅞, Pacific Western Oil 50⅞, Eastern Air Lines, 18, Phelps Dodge 43⅞, Union Carbide 99¼, Allied Chemical 173, American Woolen 39⅜ and International Paper 43⅜.

Pepsi-Cola reached a low for the year and ended off 1⅛ at 16½. In arrears also were Standard Oil (NJ), Chesapeake and Ohio, du Pont, Electric Power and Light, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth and United Aircraft.

Improved in the curb were Humble Oil, and United Aircraft Products. Electric Power and Light 2nd preferred "A" yielded four points. Electric Bond and Share and Gray Manufacturing eased. Turnover here was 260,000 shares versus 290,000 yesterday.

The bond market was on the upgrade, with some selected rails making substantial gains.

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C. — With the ravages of World War II still a too recent memory, the exhileration of spring's arrival this year is tempered by grim forebodings that it means the quickened pace of armies again—this time in China.

All eyes here are focused on the Far Eastern theater of the all-out conflict between General Chiang Kai-shek's tottering Nationalist regime and the increasingly aggressive Chinese Communists, who apparently are waxing stronger by the hour.

The final decisive battles in the long and bitter struggle seem to be at hand. Mukden, scene of many a fateful event in the past, again may capture headlines as the Communists made their bid, perhaps as early as April, to capture all of Manchuria.

Throughout the sub-zero temperatures of the last few months, the North China Communist hordes have been gathering strength to smash the Government armies isolated since early last fall by the cutting of the Peiping-Mukden railway.

The magnitude of the titanic struggle is indicated by the size of the armies preparing for the final showdown. More than two hundred thousand Government troops are menaced by the Communist encirclement.

• • •

INCLUDED in the government forces are 20,000 men comprising a full division of Chiang's crack New First Army, now cut off at Changchun north of Mukden and doomed if Mukden falls.

The United States is more than just an interested spectator on the sidelines of this civil war which antedates World War II and has some uncomfortably similar aspects to another internal conflict which some authorities credit with setting off the spark that started the second world conflict, the Spanish civil war.

The United States has backed Chiang Kai-shek in his attempt to rout the Communists. How far the backing has gone depends largely on whom you talk with here.

There are those "experts" who will tell you that Uncle Sam is in the Chinese civil war on Chiang's side to the extent of "billions of dollars," and they refer to the recently disclosed long-secret agreement whereby the United States committed itself to provide China with a first-line air force of 1,071 planes, including heavy bombers and fighters, 936 of which already have been delivered.

They figure it in detail this way: Since VJ-day, the United States has extended to China $777,000,000 in lend-lease, $83,000,000 in loans represented by authorized bank credits in the new Export-Import Bank, $468,000,000 as the U. S. share of UNRRA aid, $48,000,000 in U. S. post-UNRRA relief, and $40,000,000 in surplus property credits — a grand total of $1,416,000,000!

In addition, Congress has pending before it now President Truman's proposed $570,000,000 for stop-gap aid in the form of extremely essential materials for Chiang, and this will come to a vote as the violent clash between the Nationalists and Communists reaches the zero hour.

• • •

ON TOP of all this, the school of thought here that holds that Uncle Sam has gone overboard for Chiang points out that from 1941 to VJ-day, the United States gave China loans amounting to $1,349,000,000 and "sold" at cut rates other goods that bring the total aid to more than four billion dollars.

And when World War II ended in the Far East, the United States gave Chiang the additional boost of transporting six of his armies to North China so that he could occupy that part of his country as the Japanese surrendered and before the Communists could move in. The Chinese navy has been enlarged by 271 vessels turned over to it by the United States.

On the other side of the complex picture, however, there are those here who say that these are just figures, and so far as actual aid is concerned, the United States has pulled its punches.

They argue that direct financial aid has not bulked large compared with that extended to other nations less hard put to it by an all-out war against the Communists, and besides that the Export-Import bank credits are a book transaction that so far has not helped at all.

• • •

THE SURPLUS PROPERTY — ships, construction equipment, trucks, food, clothing, and medical supplies—they maintain was junk not worth moving home and therefore palmed off on the Chinese.

They brand as a "phoney gesture" the pending $570,000,000 stop-gap aid program, and contend that the provision for it to include only "scarce commodities" means Chiang will not get what he needs above all else — arms and assistance in stabilizing his inflated currency.

As the aid program now stands, on the eve of Chiang's greatest travail since he broke with the Communists, it is described by its critics as "the greatest operation rathole of all time." To the neutral observer the controversy is full of confusing claims and counter-claims.

Those who condemn the present American policy toward China are inclined to blame it on Secretary of State Marshall, who they say fell out with Chiang over the latter's treatment of the late Gen. Joseph Stilwell of Burma Road fame, a great friend of Marshall's.

But if these opposing critics cannot agree on the extent of American aid to China in the past, present, or future, they at least are apparently in complete accord on one thing — the Chinese Nationalists now are fighting with their backs to the wall.

Chiang's army of 3,500,000 men seems to have dropped so low in morale that it is about to be knocked out by an aggressive up-and-coming Communist force about a third as big.

• • •

THE REAL SOURCE of the despair that has been spreading recently among Chiang's partisans is the series of reliable reports that the once vaunted Kuomintang party, the Nationalists, has lost its evangellical zeal and the role of "crusaders with a cause" has passed over to the Communists.

This is a far cry and a complete turning of the cycle from the days of white-heat enthusiasm for democracy that in 1911 enabled the famous "Sun dynasty" to overthrow the reactionary Manchus and proclaim a period of "education" toward a constitutional government to be adopted as soon as China was prepared for it.

Ironically, the time when the Kuomintang planned to give China its democratic constitution now is at hand. The machinery has been set in motion, and Chinese delegates to a general assemby have been elected all over the world where Chinese live, including the Chinatown of Chicago, New York, and San Francisco.

The spreading chaos throughout China may halt it again, however as it was stopped once before in 1928 as the Japanese launched their war. The clash between rival armies of more than a million men each, and the millions of refugees spilling out of the fighting areas is not creating an atmosphere that encourages the careful constitutional planning that the Nationalists scheduled.

A key to the magnitude of the conflict of this spring is furnished by reliable estimates that China now has no less than 15,000,000 war refugees and 5,000,000 men under arms engaged in savage conflict. These are figures that compare with those of the world's great engagements, and indeed spring arrives in China this month with a grim portent of decisive battles in the immediate offing.

Orchestra Leader's Wife Accidentally Shot, Killed

Bullet Goes Through Floor, Strikes Woman

Mrs. Mary L. Andrews, 45, wife of James E. Andrews, well-known local orchestra leader, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital last night at 10 o'clock from a pistol wound which police said was fired accidentally by her father-in-law.

A verdict of accidental death by shooting was given by Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who said the bullet entered Mrs. Andrews' left chest.

The father-in-law, James W. Andrews, 73, 109 Arch Street, was quoted by police as saying he was showing the .38 caliber Colt automatic pistol to his son Mrs. Andrews' husband in an upstairs room at the Arch Street home when it was accidentally discharged.

Police said the slug passed through the wooden floor and plaster ceiling and struck the victim as she sat in a chair in the front living room waiting for her husband to take her home.

The father-in-law told police, they said, that he had just come in from work at the Embassy Theater and took his son upstairs to give him the pistol, which has been in the family for the past 30 years. Police said Andrews told them he always kept the pistol and the cartridge clip separated to avoid accidents.

Police said the victim's mother-in-law was in the room with her when the bullet was fired. According to Mrs. Andrews, the victim slumped forward in the chair and murmered, "I've been shot."

At police headquarters, where Mr. Andrews was questioned by Detective Thomas J. See, he told authorities that he arrived home from work earlier than usual as the result of getting a ride in a friend's car.

The victim and her husband, who had been visiting Mrs. Andrews, were at the front door ready to leave, Detective See quoted Andrews as saying, when he arrived.

Andrews told police, they said, that he had promised to give his son the pistol sometime ago, and when he found him visiting last night invited him upstairs to get the weapon from a cedar chest where he kept it.

After removing the pistol from the chest, police said, Andrews pointed it to the floor and pulled the trigger to be sure that it was empty. Police explained that a cartridge was in the chamber. They quoted Andrews as saying the weapon had not been fired in more than five years.

After signing a statement at police headquarters concerning the events of the fatal shooting, Andrews was permitted to return home.

Besides her husband and his parents, Mrs. Andrews is survived by two children, Edward, 13, an Eleanor, 20, a senior at Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va., and her mother, Mrs. Carrie Birchard, 789 Fayette Street, with whom she and her family resided.

New Pupils Will Enroll In School March 30 And 31

Students Must Be Six Before Jan. 1

A two-day registration for children who will enter the first grade of Allegany County elementary schools this September will be held in the schools March 30 and 31, according to Dr. Charles L. Kopp, sueprintendent of schools.

Parents of children who will enter for the first time during the 1948-1949 school term should, Dr. Kopp said, bring the children to the schools they will attend this fall, where the principal or teachers will take the necessary enrollment information.

Only children who will attain their sixth birthday on January 1, 1949, or before, will be accepted as beginning students, according to Dr. Kopp, who said a pre-school physical examination will be conducted later in the spring by the County Health Department.

The registration will be conducted at each of the county elementary schools from 3:30 to 5 p. m. on each of the designated days.

The advance enrollment, according to Dr. Kopp, will enable the Board of Education and school officials to set up administrative procedure for the coming school year and will assist in arrangements for the pre-school physical examination.

It is important, according to Dr., Kopp, that all parents with children who will enter the public schools for the first time this September, report to the school in their locality and register.

Both principals and teachers will be present during the registration hours to meet the parents and the prospective students. A large registration of first grade pupils is expected county education officials stated.

Garrett County To Get $307,000 For Road Work

OAKLAND, March 18 (AP)—Governor Lane said tonight that under the new allocation in the State Roads program, Garrett county will receive $307,000.

He made the statement in an address for delivery before the Rotary clubs gathered here.

Besides reviewing the work of his administration generally, the governor stressed plans for Garrett county.

He said a contract had been let for a new road out of Oakland toward Deep Creek, to cost $741,000. Improvements are planned between Keysers ridge and the Pennsylvania in line to cut down a bad reverse curve. This will cost $250,000.

The governor said the secondary road system for the county "has not been overlooked."

"In the general program of conservation, and the increased appropriation for forestry and parks, a program of improvement for the recreational facilities of Garrett county's forest area and a stepping up of the production of nursery stock are in immediate prospect.

"With increased funds that have been provided, two full-time technical advisers are at the service of Garrett county landowners for timbering advice."

Farm Bureaus Outline 1948 Activity Program

Plans for a membership drive, the annual horse show, power spray service, group hospitalization insurance for rural people, youth recreation programs, and improved county roads were discussed yesterday at an all-day session of the Allegany and Garrett Farm Bureaus at Ali Ghan Country Club.

J. William Loar, president of the Allegany County group, said directors and committeemen of the two county groups attended and talked over their mutual problems.

Guests present included C. E. Wise, secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau; Roy Weagley, past president of the state association; Nelson Jost, northeastern membership director; Foster Yost, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau; Mrs. Clement Glotfelty, president of the Garrett County Associated Women of the Bureau, and Mrs. Lloyd Shae, president of the same group in this county.

Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, and John Carter, Garrett County agent, were present and made short talks.

Loar said Roy Shryock is secretary of the bureau here, and plans were discussed for the possible establishment of a permanent office to serve as headquarters and make a broader program of service possible. He said, "There is need for a public relations program to help city and town people learn more about the problems of rural dwellers and farmers. We also intend to promote a youth program in an effort to keep our young people from leaving the farms in such large numbers."

Convention Call Is Issued By State AFL

American Federation of Labor affiliates in this city were notified yesterday that the annual convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor will open in the Statler Hotel, Washington, Monday, May 24, at 10 a. m.

The convention call lists C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, as one of the vice presidents of the organization. Each local will be allowed three official delegates.

Quench Grass Fires

East Side Fire Company reported last night that no damage resulted from three grass fires the company extinguished yesterday afternoon. The firemen extinguished a blaze at the corner of Frost and Yale Streets at 12:20 p. m.; at the Corner of Reservoir Avenue and Williams Street at 2:05 p. m. and at 511 Pine Avenue at 3:40 p. m.

Mayor Post Sends Invitations To Council Members

Requests Caucus Saturday Morning

Mayor Thomas S. Post said last night he has sent a letter to each of the four newly elected councilmen, asking them to meet with him Saturday at 10 a. m. to discuss the organization of the new city council, its policy and program.

At least two of the councilmen have said they are willing to caucus.

In the meantime there has been considerable local conjecture regarding appointments to the two major political jobs which must be filled by the council.

James Alfred Avirett is making no secret of the fact that he is an applicant for appointment to the position of city solicitor, now held by Thomas B. Finan who hopes to keep the job.

Thomas L. Richards, another well known local attorney, is also mentioned, since it is known he is a personal friend of Mayor Post's and was an applicant before.

The tax collector appointment, now held by Charles F. Burke, Jr., is considered the best political plum, since it is the most lucrative from a standpoint of pay.

Burke is understood to be an applicant for reappointment, and William E. McDonald, one - time city councilman, and Wilbur D. Sills, one-time water superintendent, have also told newly elected council members they are interested and would accept the appointment if offered them.

One position is open on the Civil Service Commission as the term of Vincent P. Ingram expires. Clifton E. Fuller, defeated councilman in the general Election, has been mentioned as being interested in this post.

Three Naval Reserve Enlistments Noted

Three enlistments were reported yesterday by Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division.

Two of the men, both veterans of previous Navy service, signed for four years in the V-6 inactive reserve. They are James Arden Lake, Swanton, boatswain's mate second class, and Harry Francis Weaver, Paw Paw, W. Va., electrician's mate second class.

The third man, William Casper Farrady, 163 Bowery Street, Frostburg, enlisted as a seaman recruit in V-6 and transferred to the organized division.

Comdr. Hedrick also announced that reservists in this area are being sought for active duty on a voluntary basis in training cruises from East Coast ports aboard the heavy cruiser Albany.

Reservists must be processed and report to Norfolk, Va., before April 15. The active duty period will continue until December 1, 1948.

Similar training cruises are planned from Gulf ports. Those wishing to apply should contact the Naval Reserve office, Postoffice Building.

Labor Meeting Planned

Delegates from all central labor unions in Maryland will meet in Washington Saturday, March 27, to set up Labor's Educational League for Maryland, C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, announced yesterday.

A definite State AFL organization for the educational and political work of the AFL will be formed at the meeting, he added.

Mattress Factory Dispute Settled By Court Opinion

Rulings Made On Three Transactions

A lengthy court opinion was handed down in Circuit Court yesterday in the equity case of Mary Sines and others against Thomas Shipes and others, involving the Cumberland Mattress Factory property, machinery and a residence at 20 Orchard Street.

The Court cited, "This case is the result of a family dispute among children of Richard Weigand. Six of the children brought suit against their sister, Theresa Shipes, her husband, Calvin Shipes, her daughter Elizabeth Fisher, and also against Abe Feldstein, the purchaser of certain property from her."

Taking the three transactions separately, the Court opinion states in part, "The bill alleges the property at 20 Orchard Street was purchased by Elizabeth Jane Fisher, daughter of Theresa Shipe, with money belonging to the Mattress Factory business and wrongfully obtained by her, and also alleged that she had caused to be placed in her name the bank account of the Mattress Factory and used its funds for the benefit of herself and her parents.

"There is no evidence whatever to sustain either of these allegations," the Court ruled.

"Richard Weigand knew of the purchase by her and lived there with the Shipes for several years before his death. He did not question the propriety of its purchase in her name in 1944 nor thereafter up to the time of his death in 1947."

So far as this transaction was concerned, the Court dismissed the bill of complaint against Elizabeth Jane Fisher.

In the second transaction it was shown that Richard Weigand was financially involved in 1942 and that various members of the family pooled their funds and agreed on an arrangement to purchase the machinery and equipment of the Mattress Factory and property at 18 Orchard Street.

The Court upheld this transaction and said the property had been purchased in the name of Theresa Shipe as trustee for the family. Up to the time of Richard Weigand's death he did not question disposition of rents collected by Mrs. Shipes, so the Court found that she must account for rentals collected only for the time since the death.

The factory building was involved in a series of events, but the Court in unraveling the evidence found that Mrs. Shipe used no part of the common family fund to purchase the building. It was also

Operations In Area Down To Minimum

Coal mines in the Georges Creek Region and Upper Potomac Region were nearly all idle yesterday as miners in Western Maryland and nearby West Virginia joined the five-day old mine stoppage following a hint by John L. Lewis that operators had "dishonored" their contract.

Across the nation's soft coal fields in 10 states, it was evident, officials said, that at least 350,000 of the country's 400,000 soft coal miners have joined the "pension paralysis" parade, supporting Lewis's demands for $100 per month pensions for miners who have worked 20 years and are 65 years of age.

In Cumberland, spokesmen for the Celanese, Kelly-Springfield Tire plant and the Potomac Edison Company, largest industrial users of soft coal, said there is about 60 days supply on hand, perhaps a little more. Local retail dealers are receiving their last shipments, and truckers who haul from the mines are accepting no orders and many are idle.

Hauling Last Coal

The Western Maryland Railway here, which normally moves 750 to 800 cars of coal per day was down to 150 cars yesterday, some of which was the last coal mined in some workings. A couple of strip operations are working, but generally, railroad officials said, the mines are idle.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and other coal-hauling lines are feeling the pinch. The B. and O. reported a 75 per cent reduction in number of cars ordered by mines. Normal daily car placements have averaged 5,335.

A 25 per cent reduction in coal runs and shifting yard crews has been ordered by the B. and O. The Western Maryland has made no reduction or furlough, but if the mines remain idle there will be some work curtailment.

Reports last night indicate that the shutdown has struck at the heart of industrial America, the railroads and the steel industry.

ODT Orders Reduction

A 25 per cent reduction in coal-burning railroad passenger service was ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation in Washington. In Pittsburgh, the first blast furnace was shut down yesterday for lack of fuel.

In Baltimore, officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said the passenger service curtailment order will not halt any of its principal passenger trains since most of them ar eDiesel drawn. The edict said one-fourth of coal burning passenger service must be eliminated March 21 at midnight to save fuel stocks.

According to the Associated Press 200 employes of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad were laid off at Terra Haute, Ind. That railroad is the principal coal hauler in the Indiana field, where all 8,000 UMW miners are idle.

At Logan, W. Va., the Chesapeake and Ohio furloughed 200 coal train crewmen and said 200 more would be laid off this weekend. At Huntington, W. Va., more than 100 workers at river coal loading terminals were idle. Additional layoffs were expected later.

Other railroads hit earlier included the Norfolk and Western and the Virginian Railways, serving the Virginia coal fields.

The complicated process of curtailing steel operations got underway as the first blast furnace closed at the Farrell, Pa., plant of the Sharon Steel Company yesterday. Bethlehem steel said it could postpone a cutback in steelmaking operations only a few days.

Temperature Reading

Spring-like weather greeted Cumberlanders yesterday, with mercury reaching a maximum of 63 degrees above zero in the afternoon. Low overnight temperature was 27 above and at 8 a. m. 31 was reported. At 11 p. m. mercury had declined to 49 above, but the wind was shifting toward the southeast, with local observers predicting rain. The official Weather Bureau forecast predicts little change in temperature for today with some cloudiness followed by occasional rain.

Commerce Heads Seek Assurance Of Gas Supplies

Glass Company Reports Heavy Production Loss

The Industrial Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will arrange a conference with officials of the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company in order to see that Cumberland gets a reasonable share of the available gas, Harold W. Smith, secretary, reported last night.

The action is being taken, it was explained, due to the serious condition facing the Cumberland Glass Company from the rationing of gas.

The firm reported that from December 1 to March 1, a total of 324 hours of production was lost due to the curtailment of gas. The firm reports that if the situation continues, it will be obliged to move into an area where gas is more plentiful.

Other industries in the area, the Chamber of Commerce pointed out, have been handicapped during recent months due to the short supplies of gas.

C. Philip Jolley, chairman of the Membership Activities Committee, reported the committee will sponsor a meeting in April on the subject of the city manager plan in municipal government.

John Liebau, who represents the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce in the Maryland Chapter of Friends of the Land, will head the local delegation at a Conservation Rally to be held in Baltimore March 23. Several other members of the Chamber plan to attend the meeting.

George R. Buchanan, chairman of the Legislative Committee; Henry W. Price, president; Smith and several other Legislative committee members will attend the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce to be held April 26-29.

The group also voted to canvass principal employers in the Cumberland area to ascertain the leave policies being pursued. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has suggested to employers that insofar as possible leave should be granted to reservists and members of the National Guard to attend camps without loss of pay or sacrifice of vacations.

Playground Group Seeks Nominations

Members of the Cumberland Playground Association were requested at a meeting last night at City Hall to appoint their delegates to the association for the coming year and to submit nominations for the association's election April 8 to A. H. Gehauf, secretary.

John Cooper, acting president, also asked suggestions from the various member groups regarding sections of the city where recreation improvements could be made.

William H. Buchholtz, who resigned as president to run for city council, and who will take office as a city commissioner April 1 said he intends to continue "the fight for a good, sound recreation program," adding that such a program "should be kept strictly out of politics."

Nestor J. "Ted" Licot, recreation director at Constitution Park, asked for about 25 volunteers to aid him in preparing for the Easter egg hunt to be held at the park on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. T. M. Andrews, state social studies chairman of the American Association of University Women, spoke briefly on the need for organized recreation to utilize to the fullest extent Cumberland's unlimited social, natural and human resources.

Announcement was made that the Improved Order of Red Men has joined the Playground Association.

Four Men Held In Cafe Fight

Four men who police said were arrested as the result of a fight in Martz's Cafe, North Mechanic Street, at 10:15 o'clock last night, were being held in City Jail pending a hearing this morning in Police Court.

The men were identified as John Harden, Leo Bridges, both of Mt. Savage, and Wilburt Bonner, Barrelville, and Donald Kennedy, Corriganville.

Officers C. W. Thompson and Louis Downey made the arrest, and police preferred charges of disorderly conduct.

Rec Club Will Hold St. Patrick's Dance

A St. Patrick's Day dance will be held tonight from 9 until 11:45 o'clock by the Rec Club of Central YMCA, with music provided by Jimmy Andrews' orchestra.

Another attraction will be the showing of a full-length movie, "Stage Door Canteen," in the Fiesta Room at 8:30, according to Winfield H. Adam, program and boys' secretary of the "Y".

City Bus Strike Likely, Union Official Declares

Local's Membership To Vote Saturday

Renewed threats of a city-wide transportation tieup were sounded last night as Potomac Edison Company officials and representatives of its 87 bus drivers and maintenance men ended a six-hour negotiation meeting with reports of "little progress."

The membership of Local Division 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL, will meet at 2 a. m. Saturday to vote on a company offer following a company-union meeting scheduled for 4 p. m. today, according to John M. Elliott, international representative.

Unless the company makes a better offer than has been received to date for the new contract to replace one that expired February 29, Elliott said, a walkout of the drivers and maintenance men Saturday morning appears probable.

"Little Progress"

"Little progress was made at yesterday's meeting," according to Commissioner James A. Holden, of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Holden arranged today's meeting between the company and union.

The company has not bettered the 11-cent hourly pay hike offer which the union membership rejected at an early morning meeting March 1, according to Elliott.

At that time the membership voted to strike if a more substantial offer was not received but placed strike action in the hands of its negotiating committee. Holden interceded for a "cooling off period," and arranged for a company-union meeting on March 10, and later requested a postponement until yesterday.

The union, after refusing the company offer for an 11-cent hourly hike renewed demands for an 18-cent hourly pay increase, improved vacation conditions, a union shop and a differential pay hike for maintenance men on the night and cateye shifts.

Elliott said the meeting yesterday resulted in nothing that would indicate to him the drivers and maintenance men may agree to sign the proposed contract at Saturday morning's meeting.

Hopes For Fruitful Meeting

Holden in making the "little progress" report following yesterday's meeting said he is hopeful today's meeting "will prove fruitful."

Company officials could not be reached last night for comment on the day's happenings, but Elliott declared the strike appears unavoidable unless a more substantial offer is received from the company before the union members meet tomorrow morning.

Official Returns In City Election Show Few Changes

Candidates Hold Same Positions

The official canvass of election returns in the city's general election Tuesday was completed yesterday by the Board of Election Supervisors meeting as a Board of Canvassers, and no changes in the figures of winning candidates' totals were reported.

The only major change was in the total given Council Candidate George H. Tederick who finished in fifth place. Unofficial returns gave him a total of 4,177 votes. Official tabulation shows his total as 4,147, a loss of 30.

The vote of Myers G. Light changed one vote with an official total of 2,174 against 2,175 unofficial.

Official returns show 3,912 voters favored the Playground Bond issue, while unofficial returns showed 3,812, a difference of 100 ballots.

James E. Kenny, chairman, and Harold A. Powell, secretary, of the Board of Canvassers completed the record and submitted the official returns to Robert Jackson, Clerk of Court, to become a part of the county's permanent record.

As reported the official results follow:

For Mayor—
Thomas S. Post	4,923
Roy W. Eves	4,774
For Council—
William H. Buchholtz	4,935
William V. Keegan	4,863
Edgar Reynolds	4,655
William J. Edwards	4,324
George H. Tederick	4,147
Victor M. Hebb	3,498
Clifton E. Fuller	3,081
Myers G. Light	2,175
Playground Bonds—
For	3,912
Against	1,963
Salary Increase—

Easter Seal Sale Returns Lagging Slightly In Area

Returns in the 1948 Easter Seal sale now being conducted in Allegany County amount to approximately $5,000, which is slightly less than the total contributed by the same time in last year's drive.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, said yesterday that 15,000 of the 22,000 letters mailed to county residents have not yet been returned.

The letters contain sheets of 100 Easter Seals, which sell for $1. Mrs. Annan urged prompt return of the letters, either with or without contributions, so that campaign records may be kept up to date.

Receipts from the Easter Seal sale which is being conducted in the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Alaska for a total goal of $5,500,000, help to support Allegany County's program for treatment of persons with cerebral palsy, Mrs. Annan said.

She added that treatment afforded here compares with the best in the United States.

Mrs. Annan explained that continuation of the League's program depends upon public support through the annual sale, which will continue until Easter Sunday.

Over 800 children are now being aided in the orthopedic cerebral palsy, plastic surgery and speech therapy programs conducted by the League.

Ten years ago the League secured the services of Dr. Winthrop Phelps, Baltimore, internationally known in the treatment of spastic paralytics.

Since that time, Dr. Phelps has conducted two clinics each year, in June and in November. He has examined 250 children, and during each clinic usually sees 75 to 100 patients.

It was through the efforts of Dr. Phelps and the League that a speech correctionist was secured for treating children in the county whose cerebral palsy affected speech organs.

Under the direction of Dr. Phelps, physio-therapy, braces, and medication have been supplied those affected.

These children are often handicapped and unable to attend school, and the Allegany County Board of Education at present offers home

Truman's Speech "Inflammatory," Progressives Say

The Progressive Party of Allegany County assailed President Truman's speech to Congress Wednesday as "highly inflammatory," tending to create an artificial war crisis when none actually exists, Harold Buchman, Baltimore, secretary of the Progressive Party of Maryland, reported yesterday.

The war scare, he said, was inspired to justify the passage of measures which could not otherwise be reported out of committee in the face of expressed opposition of churches and labor unions. Universal Military Training and Selective Service are abhorrent to 90 per cent of the American people, Buchman asserted.

The stories of Russian aggression and expansion have a hollow sound when contrasted to a story which appeared in the American press the same day saying that the Soviet Union has completed its demobilization program and is now on a peacetime basis, Buchman said.

William Boyd Coleman, temporary chairman of the Progressive Party of Maryland, said 100 canvassers are at work in the Cumberland area circulating petitions of independent nomination for Henry A. Wallace as president and Glen H. Taylor as vice president.

Coleman said it is hoped that the 2,000 signers needed to place Wallace and Taylor on Maryland ballots can be obtained in this area alone. Buchman said about two dozen groups are at work on the Progressive movement in this state.

Band Concert Tonight

The Allegany High School Senior Band will present a varied program at its concert to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Allegany High School auditorium. S. Lua Syckes will direct the concert, the first of its kind to be presented at Allegany High since 1941.

Member Of Cumberland AAUW Is Nominated For State Treasurer

Miss E. Wilton Jenkins, Frostburg, social chairman of Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, has been nominated for treasurer of the state organization, according to information received by Mrs. John J. Hafer, president of the local branch.

Miss Jenkins, who holds degrees from Maryland College for Women and the University of Wisconsin, is chief bookkeeper for the Consolidated Fuel Company and secretary of the Maryland Coal and Realty Company.

She is a former physical education instructor at Allegany High School and Frostburg State Teachers' College.

Election of state officers will be held at the sixth annual convention of the Maryland State Division, AAUW, in Hagerstown April 2 and 3.

Meanwhile, plans were made at a meeting Wednesday of the local branch to poll the 122 members to determine the number planning to attend the convention.

From that list, 12 will be appointed as voting delegates. They will be instructed to vote in favor of an amendment to increase annual state dues from 40 to 50 cents.

Mrs. Hafer announced that a nominating committee, headed by Miss Janet Anderson, has been appointed to prepare nominations for the branch election, to be held at the May meeting. New officers will be installed in June.

The committee includes Mrs. H. Reford Aldridge and Miss Sarah Wright.

The program at the branch meeting, in charge of the international relations committee headed by Mrs. William S. Russell, Jr., consisted of a quiz program on international news.

Mrs. Robert L. Troxell announced that a meeting of the creative writing group will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Paul Williams, Windsor Road.

Mrs. Robert Mayer served as chairman of an AAUW committee which assisted in obtaining speakers for the Allegany High School "care-

Local 1874 Veterans Committee To Make Report On Military Training

The Local 1874 Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, membership has voted to rescind its action taken at a previous meeting expressing opposition to a Universal Military Training law, Playford Aldridge, president, reported yesterday.

The action, taken Wednesday night, arose from a communication from Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, asking Local 1874 to consider the veterans organization's position supporting UMT, he added.

A further motion was passed by the Celanese local requesting that the local's Veterans Committee contact and exchange views on the subject with veterans organizations in the Cumberland area and to present a report at the next membership meeting of the local.

Alan Mace, chairman of the Local 1874 Veterans Committee, will be in charge of the study.

The membership also authorized the local's Political Action Committee, of which John Estes is chairman, to attend a meeting of the newly organized Maryland League of United Voters to be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Baltimore.

The meeting will be the opening gun of the unified political activity to be undertaken by the AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods, Independent unions and the Americans for Democratic Action.

AFL unions here said they have had no official notice of the meeting but indicated they plan to send an observer.

BIRTHS

Allegany Hospital reported the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Grove, Route 3, a son, yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weimer, Route 1, Lonaconing, a daughter yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barnhart, 404 Springdale Street, a daughter, Wednesday.

Memorial Hospital reported the following births yesterday:

Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. King, Mt. Savage, a son, yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. August Robertson, 623 Montreal Avenue, a daughter, late yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Mellotte, 50 Oak Street, a daughter, early yesterday afternoon.

Bullet Goes Through Floor, Strikes Woman

Mrs. Mary L. Andrews, 45, wife of James E. Andrews, well-known local orchestra leader, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Memorial Hospital last night at 10 o'clock from a pistol wound which police said was fired accidentally by her father-in-law.

A verdict of accidental death by shooting was given by Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who said the bullet entered Mrs. Andrews' left chest.

The father-in-law, James W. Andrews, 73, 109 Arch Street, was quoted by police as saying he was showing the .38 caliber Colt automatic pistol to his son Mrs. Andrews' husband in an upstairs room at the Arch Street home when it was accidentally discharged.

Police said the slug passed through the wooden floor and plaster ceiling and struck the victim as she sat in a chair in the front living room waiting for her husband to take her home.

The father-in-law told police, they said, that he had just come in from work at the Embassy Theater and took his son upstairs to give him the pistol, which has been in the family for the past 30 years. Police said Andrews told them he always kept the pistol and the cartridge clip separated to avoid accidents.

Police said the victim's mother-in-law was in the room with her when the bullet was fired. According to Mrs. Andrews, the victim slumped forward in the chair and murmered, "I've been shot."

At police headquarters, where Mr. Andrews was questioned by Detective Thomas J. See, he told authorities that he arrived home from work earlier than usual as the result of getting a ride in a friend's car.

The victim and her husband, who had been visiting Mrs. Andrews, were at the front door ready to leave, Detective See quoted Andrews as saying, when he arrived.

Andrews told police, they said, that he had promised to give his son the pistol sometime ago, and when he found him visiting last night invited him upstairs to get the weapon from a cedar chest where he kept it.

After removing the pistol from the chest, police said, Andrews pointed it to the floor and pulled the trigger to be sure that it was empty. Police explained that a cartridge was in the chamber. They quoted Andrews as saying the weapon had not been fired in more than five years.

After signing a statement at police headquarters concerning the events of the fatal shooting, Andrews was permitted to return home.

Besides her husband and his parents, Mrs. Andrews is survived by two children, Edward, 13, an Eleanor, 20, a senior at Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va., and her mother, Mrs. Carrie Birchard, 789 Fayette Street, with whom she and her family resided.

New Pupils Will Enroll In School March 30 And 31

Students Must Be Six Before Jan. 1

A two-day registration for children who will enter the first grade of Allegany County elementary schools this September will be held in the schools March 30 and 31, according to Dr. Charles L. Kopp, sueprintendent of schools.

Parents of children who will enter for the first time during the 1948-1949 school term should, Dr. Kopp said, bring the children to the schools they will attend this fall, where the principal or teachers will take the necessary enrollment information.

Only children who will attain their sixth birthday on January 1, 1949, or before, will be accepted as beginning students, according to Dr. Kopp, who said a pre-school physical examination will be conducted later in the spring by the County Health Department.

The registration will be conducted at each of the county elementary schools from 3:30 to 5 p. m. on each of the designated days.

The advance enrollment, according to Dr. Kopp, will enable the Board of Education and school officials to set up administrative procedure for the coming school year and will assist in arrangements for the pre-school physical examination.

It is important, according to Dr. Kopp, that all parents with children who will enter the public schools for the first time this September, report to the school in their locality and register.

Both principals and teachers will be present during the registration hours to meet the parents and the prospective students. A large registration of first grade pupils is expected county education officials stated.

Garrett County To Get $307,000 For Road Work

OAKLAND, March 18 (AP)—Governor Lane said tonight that under the new allocation in the State Roads program, Garrett county will receive $307,000.

He made the statement in an address for delivery before the Rotary clubs gathered here.

Besides reviewing the work of his administration generally, the governor stressed plans for Garrett county.

He said a contract had been let for a new road out of Oakland toward Deep Creek, to cost $741,000. Improvements are planned between Keysers ridge and the Pennsylvania in line to cut down a bad reverse curve. This will cost $250,000.

The governor said the secondary road system for the county "has not been overlooked."

"In the general program of conservation, and the increased appropriation for forestry and parks, a program of improvement for the recreational facilities of Garrett county's forest area and a stepping up of the production of nursery stock are in immediate prospect.

"With increased funds that have been provided, two full-time technical advisers are at the service of Garrett county landowners for timbering advice."

Farm Bureaus Outline 1948 Activity Program

Plans for a membership drive, the annual horse show, power spray service, group hospitalization insurance for rural people, youth recreation programs, and improved county roads were discussed yesterday at an all-day session of the Allegany and Garrett Farm Bureaus at Ali Ghan Country Club.

J. William Loar, president of the Allegany County group, said directors and committeemen of the two county groups attended and talked over their mutual problems.

Guests present included C. E. Wise, secretary of the Maryland Farm Bureau; Roy Weagley, past president of the state association; Nelson Jost, northeastern membership director; Foster Yost, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau; Mrs. Clement Glotfelty, president of the Garrett County Associated Women of the Bureau, and Mrs. Lloyd Shae, president of the same group in this county.

Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, and John Carter, Garrett County agent, were present and made short talks.

Loar said Roy Shryock is secretary of the bureau here, and plans were discussed for the possible establishment of a permanent office to serve as headquarters and make a broader program of service possible. He said, "There is need for a public relations program to help city and town people learn more about the problems of rural dwellers and farmers. We also intend to promote a youth program in an effort to keep our young people from leaving the farms in such large numbers."

Convention Call Is Issued By State AFL

American Federation of Labor affiliates in this city were notified yesterday that the annual convention of the Maryland and District of Columbia Federation of Labor will open in the Statler Hotel, Washington, Monday, May 24, at 10 a. m.

The convention call lists C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, as one of the vice presidents of the organization. Each local will be allowed three official delegates.

Quench Grass Fires

East Side Fire Company reported last night that no damage resulted from three grass fires the company extinguished yesterday afternoon. The firemen extinguished a blaze at the corner of Frost and Yale Streets at 12:20 p. m.; at the Corner of Reservoir Avenue and Williams Street at 2:05 p. m. and at 511 Pine Avenue at 3:40 p. m.

EASTER BUNNY ARRIVES-- The Easter Bunny arrived here early, coming to Cumberland yesterday afternoon by way of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He was met at Queen City Station by a great many admiring children, most of whom were accompanied by their parents. Mayor Thomas S. Post (seated left) greeted the bunny and escorted him to Rosenbaum's Store where the bunny will greet children on the fourth floor until Easter. The bunny also is scheduled to visit the Keating Memorial Day Nursery and the children's ward at local hospitals.

Mayor Post Sends Invitations To Council Members

Requests Caucus Saturday Morning

Mayor Thomas S. Post said last night he has sent a letter to each of the four newly elected councilmen, asking them to meet with him Saturday at 10 a. m. to discuss the organization of the new city council, its policy and program.

At least two of the councilmen have said they are willing to caucus.

In the meantime there has been considerable local conjecture regarding appointments to the two major political jobs which must be filled by the council.

James Alfred Avirett is making no secret of the fact that he is an applicant for appointment to the position of city solicitor, now held by Thomas B. Finan who hopes to keep the job.

Thomas L. Richards, another well known local attorney, is also mentioned, since it is known he is a personal friend of Mayor Post's and was an applicant before.

The tax collector appointment, now held by Charles F. Burke, Jr., is considered the best political plum, since it is the most lucrative from a standpoint of pay.

Burke is understood to be an applicant for reappointment, and William E. McDonald, one - time city councilman, and Wilbur D. Sills, one-time water superintendent, have also told newly elected council members they are interested and would accept the appointment if offered them.

One position is open on the Civil Service Commission as the term of Vincent P. Ingram expires. Clifton E. Fuller, defeated councilman in the general Election, has been mentioned as being interested in this post.

Three Naval Reserve Enlistments Noted

Three enlistments were reported yesterday by Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division.

Two of the men, both veterans of previous Navy service, signed for four years in the V-6 inactive reserve. They are James Arden Lake, Swanton, boatswain's mate second class, and Harry Francis Weaver, Paw Paw, W. Va., electrician's mate second class.

The third man, William Casper Farrady, 163 Bowery Street, Frostburg, enlisted as a seaman recruit in V-6 and transferred to the organized division.

Comdr. Hedrick also announced that reservists in this area are being sought for active duty on a voluntary basis in training cruises from East Coast ports aboard the heavy cruiser Albany.

Reservists must be processed and report to Norfolk, Va., before April 15. The active duty period will continue until December 1, 1948.

Similar training cruises are planned from Gulf ports. Those wishing to apply should contact the Naval Reserve office, Postoffice Building.

Labor Meeting Planned

Delegates from all central labor unions in Maryland will meet in Washington Saturday, March 27, to set up Labor's Educational League for Maryland, C. E. Stutzman, president of the Allegany Trades Council, announced yesterday.

A definite State AFL organization for the educational and political work of the AFL will be formed at the meeting, he added.

Mine Stoppage Hits Industry, Railroads

Operations In Area Down To Minimum

Coal mines in the Georges Creek Region and Upper Potomac Region were nearly all idle yesterday as miners in Western Maryland and nearby West Virginia joined the five-day old mine stoppage following a hint by John L. Lewis that operators had "dishonored" their contract.

Across the nation's soft coal fields in 10 states, it was evident, officials said, that at least 350,000 of the country's 400,000 soft coal miners have joined the "pension paralysis" parade, supporting Lewis's demands for $100 per month pensions for miners who have worked 20 years and are 65 years of age.

In Cumberland, spokesmen for the Celanese, Kelly-Springfield Tire plant and the Potomac Edison Company, largest industrial users of soft coal, said there is about 60 days supply on hand, perhaps a little more. Local retail dealers are receiving their last shipments, and truckers who haul from the mines are accepting no orders and many are idle.

Hauling Last Coal

The Western Maryland Railway here, which normally moves 750 to 800 cars of coal per day was down to 150 cars yesterday, some of which was the last coal mined in some workings. A couple of strip operations are working, but generally, railroad officials said, the mines are idle.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and other coal-hauling lines are feeling the pinch. The B. and O. reported a 75 per cent reduction in number of cars ordered by mines. Normal daily car placements have averaged 5,335.

A 25 per cent reduction in coal runs and shifting yard crews has been ordered by the B. and O. The Western Maryland has made no reduction or furlough, but if the mines remain idle there will be some work curtailment.

Reports last night indicate that the shutdown has struck at the heart of industrial America, the railroads and the steel industry.

ODT Orders Reduction

A 25 per cent reduction in coal-burning railroad passenger service was ordered by the Office of Defense Transportation in Washington. In Pittsburgh, the first blast furnace was shut down yesterday for lack of fuel.

In Baltimore, officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said the passenger service curtailment order will not halt any of its principal passenger trains since most of them ar eDiesel drawn. The edict said one-fourth of coal burning passenger service must be eliminated March 21 at midnight to save fuel stocks.

According to the Associated Press 200 employes of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad were laid off at Terra Haute, Ind. That railroad is the principal coal hauler in the Indiana field, where all 8,000 UMW miners are idle.

At Logan, W. Va., the Chesapeake and Ohio furloughed 200 coal train crewmen and said 200 more would be laid off this weekend. At Huntington, W. Va., more than 100 workers at river coal loading terminals were idle. Additional layoffs were expected later.

Other railroads hit earlier included the Norfolk and Western and the Virginian Railways, serving the Virginia coal fields.

The complicated process of curtailing steel operations got underway as the first blast furnace closed at the Farrell, Pa., plant of the Sharon Steel Company yesterday. Bethlehem steel said it could postpone a cutback in steelmaking operations only a few days.

Mattress Factory Dispute Settled By Court Opinion

Rulings Made On Three Transactions

A lengthy court opinion was handed down in Circuit Court yesterday in the equity case of Mary Sines and others against Thomas Shipes and others, involving the Cumberland Mattress Factory property, machinery and a residence at 20 Orchard Street.

The Court cited, "This case is the result of a family dispute among children of Richard Weigand. Six of the children brought suit against their sister, Theresa Shipes, her husband, Calvin Shipes, her daughter Elizabeth Fisher, and also against Abe Feldstein, the purchaser of certain property from her."

Taking the three transactions separately, the Court opinion states in part, "The bill alleges the property at 20 Orchard Street was purchased by Elizabeth Jane Fisher, daughter of Theresa Shipe, with money belonging to the Mattress Factory business and wrongfully obtained by her, and also alleged that she had caused to be placed in her name the bank account of the Mattress Factory and used its funds for the benefit of herself and her parents.

"There is no evidence whatever to sustain either of these allegations," the Court ruled.

"Richard Weigand knew of the purchase by her and lived there with the Shipes for several years before his death. He did not question the propriety of its purchase in her name in 1944 nor thereafter up to the time of his death in 1947."

So far as this transaction was concerned, the Court dismissed the bill of complaint against Elizabeth Jane Fisher.

In the second transaction it was shown that Richard Weigand was financially involved in 1942 and that various members of the family pooled their funds and agreed on an arrangement to purchase the machinery and equipment of the Mattress Factory and property at 18 Orchard Street.

The Court upheld this transaction and said the property had been purchased in the name of Theresa Shipe as trustee for the family. Up to the time of Richard Weigand's death he did not question disposition of rents collected by Mrs. Shipes, so the Court found that she must account for rentals collected only for the time since the death.

The factory building was involved in a series of events, but the Court in unraveling the evidence found that Mrs. Shipe used no part of the common family fund to purchase the building. It was also

Temperature Reading

Spring-like weather greeted Cumberlanders yesterday, with mercury reaching a maximum of 63 degrees above zero in the afternoon. Low overnight temperature was 27 above and at 8 a. m. 31 was reported. At 11 p. m. mercury had declined to 49 above, but the wind was shifting toward the southeast, with local observers predicting rain. The official Weather Bureau forecast predicts little change in temperature for today with some cloudiness followed by occasional rain.

Local 1874 Veterans Committee To Make Report On Military Training

The Local 1874 Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, membership has voted to rescind its action taken at a previous meeting expressing opposition to a Universal Military Training law, Playford Aldridge, president, reported yesterday.

The action, taken Wednesday night, arose from a communication from Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, asking Local 1874 to consider the veterans organization's position supporting UMT, he added.

A further motion was passed by the Celanese local requesting that the local's Veterans Committee contact and exchange views on the subject with veterans organizations in the Cumberland area and to present a report at the next membership meeting of the local.

Alan Mace, chairman of the Local 1874 Veterans Committee, will be in charge of the study.

The membership also authorized the local's Political Action Committee, of which John Estes is chairman, to attend a meeting of the newly organized Maryland League of United Voters to be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Baltimore.

The meeting will be the opening gun of the unified political activity to be undertaken by the AFL, CIO, Brotherhoods, Independent unions and the Americans for Democratic Action.

AFL unions here said they have had no official notice of the meeting but indicated they plan to send an observer.

Commerce Heads Seek Assurance Of Gas Supplies

Glass Company Reports Heavy Production Loss

The Industrial Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will arrange a conference with officials of the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company in order to see that Cumberland gets a reasonable share of the available gas, Harold W. Smith, secretary, reported last night.

The action is being taken, it was explained, due to the serious condition facing the Cumberland Glass Company from the rationing of gas.

The firm reported that from December 1 to March 1, a total of 324 hours of production was lost due to the curtailment of gas. The firm reports that if the situation continues, it will be obliged to move into an area where gas is more plentiful.

Other industries in the area, the Chamber of Commerce pointed out, have been handicapped during recent months due to the short supplies of gas.

C. Philip Jolley, chairman of the Membership Activities Committee, reported the committee will sponsor a meeting in April on the subject of the city manager plan in municipal government.

John Liebau, who represents the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce in the Maryland Chapter of Friends of the Land, will head the local delegation at a Conservation Rally to be held in Baltimore March 23. Several other members of the Chamber plan to attend the meeting.

George R. Buchanan, chairman of the Legislative Committee; Henry W. Price, president; Smith and several other Legislative committee members will attend the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce to be held April 26-29.

The group also voted to canvass principal employers in the Cumberland area to ascertain the leave policies being pursued. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has suggested to employers that insofar as possible leave should be granted to reservists and members of the National Guard to attend camps without loss of pay or sacrifice of vacations.

Playground Group Seeks Nominations

Members of the Cumberland Playground Association were requested at a meeting last night at City Hall to appoint their delegates to the association for the coming year and to submit nominations for the association's election April 8 to A. H. Gehauf, secretary.

John Cooper, acting president, also asked suggestions from the various member groups regarding sections of the city where recreation improvements could be made.

William H. Buchholtz, who resigned as president to run for city council, and who will take office as a city commissioner April 1 said he intends to continue "the fight for a good, sound recreation program," adding that such a program "should be kept strictly out of politics."

Nestor J. "Ted" Licot, recreation director at Constitution Park, asked for about 25 volunteers to aid him in preparing for the Easter egg hunt to be held at the park on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. T. M. Andrews, state social studies chairman of the American Association of University Women, spoke briefly on the need for organized recreation to utilize to the fullest extent Cumberland's unlimited social, natural and human resources.

Announcement was made that the Improved Order of Red Men has joined the Playground Association.

Four Men Held In Cafe Fight

Four men who police said were arrested as the result of a fight in Martz's Cafe, North Mechanic Street, at 10:15 o'clock last night, were being held in City Jail pending a hearing this morning in Police Court.

The men were identified as John Harden, Leo Bridges, both of Mt. Savage, and Wilburt Bonner, Barrelville, and Donald Kennedy, Corriganville.

Officers C. W. Thompson and Louis Downey made the arrest, and police preferred charges of disorderly conduct.

Rec Club Will Hold St. Patrick's Dance

A St. Patrick's Day dance will be held tonight from 9 until 11:45 o'clock by the Rec Club of Central YMCA, with music provided by Jimmy Andrews' orchestra.

Another attraction will be the showing of a full-length movie, "Stage Door Canteen," in the Fiesta Room at 8:30, according to Winfield H. Adam, program and boys' secretary of the "Y".

City Bus Strike Likely, Union Official Declares

Local's Membership To Vote Saturday

Renewed threats of a city-wide transportation tieup were sounded last night as Potomac Edison Company officials and representatives of its 87 bus drivers and maintenance men ended a six-hour negotiation meeting with reports of "little progress."

The membership of Local Division 1110, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, AFL, will meet at 2 a. m. Saturday to vote on a company offer following a company-union meeting scheduled for 4 p. m. today, according to John M. Elliott, international representative.

Unless the company makes a better offer than has been received to date for the new contract to repiace one that expired February 29, Elliott said, a walkout of the drivers and maintenance men Saturday morning appears probable.

"Little Progress"

"Little progress was made at yesterday's meeting," according to Commissioner James A. Holden, of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. Holden arranged today's meeting between the company and union.

The company has not bettered the 11-cent hourly pay hike offer which the union membership rejected at an early morning meeting March 1, according to Elliott.

At that time the membership voted to strike if a more substantial offer was not received but placed strike action in the hands of its negotiating committee. Holden interceded for a "cooling off period," and arranged for a company-union meeting on March 10, and later requested a postponement until yesterday.

The union, after refusing the company offer for an 11-cent hourly hike renewed demands for an 18-cent hourly pay increase, improved vacation conditions, a union shop and a differential pay hike for maintenance men on the night and cateye shifts.

Elliott said the meeting yesterday resulted in nothing that would indicate to him the drivers and maintenance men may agree to sign the proposed contract at Saturday morning's meeting.

Hopes For Fruitful Meeting

Holden in making the "little progress" report following yesterday's meeting said he is hopeful today's meeting "will prove fruitful."

Company officials could not be reached last night for comment on the day's happenings, but Elliott declared the strike appears unavoidable unless a more substantial offer is received from the company before the union members meet tomorrow morning.

Official Returns In City Election Show Few Changes

Candidates Hold Same Positions

The official canvass of election returns in the city's general election Tuesday was completed yesterday by the Board of Election Supervisors meeting as a Board of Canvassers, and no changes in the figures of winning candidates' totals were reported.

The only major change was in the total given Council Candidate George H. Tederick who finished in fifth place. Unofficial returns gave him a total of 4,177 votes. Official tabulation shows his total as 4,147, a loss of 30.

The vote of Myers G. Light changed one vote with an official total of 2,174 against 2,175 unofficial.

Official returns show 3,912 voters favored the Playground Bond issue, while unofficial returns showed 3,812, a difference of 100 ballots.

James E. Kenny, chairman, and Harold A. Powell, secretary, of the Board of Canvassers completed the record and submitted the official returns to Robert Jackson, Clerk of Court, to become a part of the county's permanent record.

As reported the official results follow:

For Mayor—
Thomas S. Post	4,923
Roy W. Eves	4,774

Easter Seal Sale Returns Lagging Slightly In Area

Returns in the 1948 Easter Seal sale now being conducted in Allegany County amount to approximately $5,000, which is slightly less than the total contributed by the same time in last year's drive.

Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, said yesterday that 15,000 of the 22,000 letters mailed to county residents have not yet been returned.

The letters contain sheets of 100 Easter Seals, which sell for $1. Mrs. Annan urged prompt return of the letters, either with or without contributions, so that campaign records may be kept up to date.

Receipts from the Easter Seal sale which is being conducted in the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and Alaska for a total goal of $5,500,000, help to support Allegany County's program for treatment of persons with cerebral palsy, Mrs. Annan said.

She added that treatment afforded here compares with the best in the United States.

Mrs. Annan explained that continuation of the League's program depends upon public support through the annual sale, which will continue until Easter Sunday.

Over 800 children are now being aided in the orthopedic cerebral palsy, plastic surgery and speech therapy programs conducted by the League.

Ten years ago the League secured the services of Dr. Winthrop Phelps, Baltimore, internationally known in the treatment of spastic paralytics.

Since that time, Dr. Phelps has conducted two clinics each year, in June and in November. He has examined 250 children, and during each clinic usually sees 75 to 100 patients.

It was through the efforts of Dr. Phelps and the League that a speech correctionist was secured for treating children in the county whose cerebral palsy affected speech organs.

Under the direction of Dr. Phelps, physio-therapy, braces, and medication have been supplied those affected.

These children are often handicapped and unable to attend school, and the Allegany County Board of Education at present offers home

Truman's Speech "Inflammatory," Progressives Say

The Progressive Party of Allegany County assailed President Truman's speech to Congress Wednesday as "highly inflammatory," tending to create an artificial war crisis when none actually exists, Harold Buchman, Baltimore, secretary of the Progressive Party of Maryland, reported yesterday.

The war scare, he said, was inspired to justify the passage of measures which could not otherwise be reported out of committee in the face of expressed opposition of churches and labor unions. Universal Military Training and Selective Service are abhorrent to 90 per cent of the American people, Buchman asserted.

The stories of Russian aggression and expansion have a hollow sound when contrasted to a story which appeared in the American press the same day saying that the Soviet Union has completed its demobilization program and is now on a peacetime basis, Buchman said.

William Boyd Coleman, temporary chairman of the Progressive Party of Maryland, said 100 canvassers are at work in the Cumberland area circulating petitions of independent nomination for Henry A. Wallace as president and Glen H. Taylor as vice president.

Coleman said it is hoped that the 2,000 signers needed to place Wallace and Taylor on Maryland ballots can be obtained in this area alone. Buchman said about two dozen groups are at work on the Progressive movement in this state.

Band Concert Tonight

The Allegany High School Senior Band will present a varied program at its concert to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Allegany High School auditorium. S. Lua Sykes will direct the concert, the first of its kind to be presented at Allegany High since 1941.

Member Of Cumberland AAUW Is Nominated For State Treasurer

Miss E. Wilton Jenkins, Frostburg, social chairman of Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, has been nominated for treasurer of the state organization, according to information received by Mrs. John J. Hafer, president of the local branch.

Miss Jenkins, who holds degrees from Maryland College for Women and the University of Wisconsin, is chief bookkeeper for the Consolidated Fuel Company and secretary of the Maryland Coal and Realty Company.

She is a former physical education instructor at Allegany High School and Frostburg State Teachers' College.

Election of state officers will be held at the sixth annual convention of the Maryland State Division, AAUW, in Hagerstown April 2 and 3.

Meanwhile, plans were made at a meeting Wednesday of the local branch to poll the 122 members to determine the number planning to attend the convention.

From that list, 12 will be appointed as voting delegates. They will be instructed to vote in favor of an amendment to increase annual state dues from 40 to 50 cents.

Mrs. Hafer announced that a nominating committee, headed by Miss Janet Anderson, has been appointed to prepare nominations for the branch election, to be held at the May meeting. New officers will be installed in June.

The committee includes Mrs. H. Reford Aldridge and Miss Sarah Wright.

The program at the branch meeting, in charge of the international relations committee headed by Mrs. William S. Russell, Jr., consisted of a quiz program on international news.

Mrs. Robert L. Troxell announced that a meeting of the creative writing group will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Paul Williams, Windsor Road.

Mrs. Robert Mayer served as chairman of an AAUW committee which assisted in obtaining speakers for the Allegany High School "care-
